BATH AND TENNIS CLUB

THE accustomed diversions named in its title, the Bath and Tennis Club has this season added another amusement, miniature golf, which has become one of the most popular activities at this exclusive club. The miniature golf course which has been placed in the patio has one of the loveliest settings ever arranged for this newest of sports. Surrounded by the flagstone terrace with its orange furniture and green palms, this intriguing little course brings not only pleasure to those who play but pleasant memories of other days on other courses. Each of its nine holes is a replica of one hole from the golf course for which it is named. Those who have played at Gulf Stream are immediately at home upon the first hole. Two of the holes, the National and Pine Valley, wander in under the sheltering protection of the large red umbrellas which are a part of the decorations of the patio. Deep Dale which is attractively framed by palms has a difficult approach to the adroit position of its cup. Pine Valley with a standard-shaped Australian pine nestling alongside its fairway and The Creek with its three water hazards leads on to the Seminole and Piping Rock which is in the form of a clover leaf with two little rock gardens whose only claim to a hazard is the disturbing beauty of the plants so deftly placed there. Naussau and Newport round out a perfectly executed idea in miniature golf.

Interspersed along the outer edge of the Patio Links are boxes of dark green containing pandanus and Australian pines which have been trimmed in panel effects and reach to the balcony above. Borders which wind between the holes are of pittilantis, a shrub which lends itself to an ingenious treatment in trimming and blends its very odd purplish cast of stem and leaf with the gay club colors. A variety of crotons and coleus with variegated leaves fraternize with the Burbank thornless cactus which grows so well in Florida, to form several interesting groups in the patio. The lacy leaf of the young date palm weaves a spell of enchantment over the entire place and romantic mystery lurks in the dark shadows of the intense green of the pittosporum massed in the corners.

During the season, several golf tournaments will be held upon Patio Links for both adults and children. This is a new competitive feature among the club's activities and it is expected that there will be a large entry of miniature golf enthusiasts.

The club opened officially for its fifth season New Year's Day.

Early in December, however, Mr. and Mrs. Quentin F. Feitner with their children and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Somers Roche and their handsome sons, were frequently seen enjoying the pool and excellent tennis courts of which the club is justly proud.

The laughter and score-calling of the tennis devotees upon the courts echos pleasantly through the cool spacious patio nearby. The excellence of the tennis courts is proclaimed by all who play, rewarding the zealous efforts of John Cardegna, head professional, and his able assistants, James Kenney of the Newport Casino and Jack Rogers of the Atlantic Beach Club. The glare of the sun, a jinx of the tennis enthusiast, has been cleverly eliminated by the use of red sand as a top dressing for the courts.

During the early morning hours, Mr. and Mrs. F. Homer Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Lucius P. Ordway, Mr. and Mrs. Quentin F. Feitner, Mr. John P. Wemple, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. H. Warren, Miss Annie Urquhart, Miss Louise Van Alen, Mr. James R. Hyde, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Lewisohn and their daughter, Miss Evelyn Lewisohn, Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Lambert and their two daughters, may often be found upon the courts. Spending several hours each day in perfecting their tennis technique are Miss Allaire Crozier, Mrs. W. L. Kingsley, Miss Hope Bennett, Mrs. David H. McCulloch and Miss Lydia Dupont, who are taking their tennis seriously this year.

This season a new and improved pool greets the members. In the early fall, the pool was completely re-painted, thus achieving an odd effect in coloring comparable to the distinctive shades of the famed Mediterranean. For those who arrive early, a rare treat awaits them. In the early morning sunshine, the unruffled surface of the pool is a picture of prismatic beauty as it reflects the colors of the surrounding cabanas.

Under the able direction of Nathaniel Gardella, swimming instructor from Piping Rock, many of the members are quite successfully emulating Johnny Weissmuller. Through the deft handling of Mr. Gardella, Betty Ordway, an adorable youngster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lucius P. Ordway, challenges the grace and beauty of a sea nymph as she swims daily in the pool.

The cabanas, dwelling-places of happiness and gaiety, are grouped in a semi-circle across the front of the building. Joseph Urban, unexcelled master of pigments, designed the rainbow effect in which the cabanas have been painted. Tier upon tier, they rise in the glorious hues of the rainbow. The palms which were planted several years ago on the beach were never more verdant and luxurious than at present and form a fitting background for the brilliant display of colors.

A special feature of the club this season is its luncheons. In order to carry out the desired service of real home-cooked meals, women have been placed in control of the kitchen and dining rooms. The feminine touch which brings a pleasant harmony of restfulness after a busy morning of zestful exercise is very much in evidence in the dainty meals which have met instant favor with the members. The keen appetites, whetted by the healthful exertions and the tantalizing breezes of the salty air, find satisfaction at the steam tables so artistically arranged and conveniently situated for those who wish to eat in the patio under the wide, spreading, red umbrellas.

An ingenious idea of Mr. Middleton's, these umbrellas which so delightfully shade the flagstone terrace of the patio are unique in their design. The red canopy of the umbrella is fitted over a metal frame which is locked around each palm tree at the base of the branches, thus the trunk of the palm tree forms the handle of the umbrella. The vivid green of the Italian rye grass which has been sown between the stones vies with the beautiful orange of the tables and chairs. The club colors of green, orange and blue are skillfully combined in the patio to present a daring scheme of warmth and life.

The splashy linens which were imported this fall from the famous mills of Germany have warm orange centers and great patches of cool refreshing green, blended into an entirety by the deep blue of the border. The stunning accoutrements of the club include a singular green glassware most pleasing to the eye.

Conveniently placed at intervals along the wall of the patio are a number of burnished copper coffee urns, suggestive of the Russian samovar. Each one rests within a wrought-iron frame and stands on a base of beautiful mosaic tiling in green and yellow. This base is not only a thing of beauty but is also another of Mr. Middleton's concrete examples of thoughtfulness, as it contains a clever apparatus for the heating of cups and saucers.

There will be also the usual swimming races for the younger generation and their yearly comic pool party which is so immensely popular.

The yearly bumping tennis contest for adults which is a clever innovation in tennis matches will be held later in the season; also, backgammon which will come in for its share of attention among the other competitions.

There will be an exhibition of professional and amateur swimming, high and fancy diving, by guest artists, the list of whose names is not yet finished.

As yet, complete plans have not been drawn for the different tournaments which will be held during February and March, trophies for which will maintain the high standard of those awarded in past competitions.

The officers of the Bath and Tennis Club are Mr. Edward T. Stotesbury, president; Mr. Edward F. Hutton and Mr. Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, Jr., vice-presidents; Mr. Richard O. Middleton, secretary and treasurer.

Among those who are frequently to be seen at the club are Mr. and Mrs. Lewis A. Valier, Dr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Bennett, and their daughter, Miss Hope Bennett, Mr. John P. Wemple, Mr. and Mrs. F. Homer Smith, Miss Louise Van Alen, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Warren, Mr. and Mrs. David H. McCulloch, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Farrell, Mr. and Mrs. Horton Glover, Mrs. Theodore Frelinghuysen, Lord Grimthorpe of London, Mr. Ward Ames, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ames, Mrs. Marion Sims Wyeth, Mrs. Irving Hall Chase, Mr. and Mrs. Gerard H. Lambert and their two daughters, Mrs. Felix Dupont and her daughter, Miss Lydia Dupont; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. F. Kelleher, Mr. George Marshall, Mr. Russell Sard, Mr. George E. Kent, Jr., Prince Alexis Mdivani of Paris, Miss Allaire Crozier of Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia; Mrs. Evalyn McLean of Washington, D. C., Mrs. Vincent Bendix, Mr. Caleb S. Bragg, and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Corbin.

FISHING IN PALM BEACH WATERS

CLEARING weather, blue skies and a brisk easterly wind have made the fishing ideal during the past week. And the fish are out there, according to the reports of resort anglers, who also brought back plenty of evidence to substantiate their statements. The fishing fleet of the Sailfish Club of Florida, anchored at the Poinciana basin, offers the best facilities for as pleasant a day's sport as can be found along the Atlantic coast. Choppy weather of more than a week ago gave the captains plenty of time to paint, polish, and make trim their crafts as well as to tune up the powerful motors and refurnish their tackle. Thus the angler can be assured of a most interesting day's sport as ever encountered on a trip of this kind.

Those who have read some of the anglers' tales of the world's greatest fisherman, Zane Grey, know very well the difficulties encountered by him on his trips to New Zealand and in the Gulf of Mexico, to secure right kind of boats, skippers who knew where the fish were, and what to do when a 900-pound marlin was at the end of a line scarcely larger than an ordinary hand line.

It is quite true that "sails," marlin, or even sharks do not run to that enormous size along the Florida coast. Yet, when a 60-pound sailfish, measuring more than eight feet in length, makes a strike and comes to the surface with a "whoosh," spins along the surface on his tail, makes ten or twelve jumps and then starts for the bottom of the ocean, the angler is quite certain that Primo Carnera at the end of the line could not offer a stiffer battle.

Undoubtedly setting a record for a feminine angler, Mrs. John Charles Thomas has been putting the gentlemen anglers of the resort to shame, and far exceeding the feats of other members of the fair sex, with her achievements as an angler.

Starting out by landing the first official sailfish of the Palm Beach season, she was not content, but followed this up by landing another weighing fifty-seven and one-half pounds, which she entered in the annual contest of the Sailfish Club of Florida, of which she is an active member.

Winning her laurels in the sailfish class, Mrs. Thomas then proceeded to do some ardent kingfishing and last Monday entered a beautiful specimen weighing twenty-one and three-quarter pounds in the Sailfish club contest.

Mrs. Thomas has always taken an active part in the efforts to make Lake Worth and the stretch of the Gulf Stream off Palm Beach ideal fishing grounds. She has for two seasons sponsored the illegal net fund, which pays the salary of a deputy to patrol Lake Worth and seize any nets found, thus keeping the lake waters from being depleted of game fish which make this land-locked water their feeding grounds. She recently appeared before the board of governors of the Sailfish club and informed them that the legislature at its session this spring would be asked to provide for the payment of an annual salary for a deputy to patrol this section.

Mr. Joseph Hergesheimer, noted author, who described so vividly the sport of sailfishing in his magazine article, "The Golden Littoral," has been avidly fishing during his stay at Palm Beach. He succeeded in landing two sailfish on his trip into the Gulf Stream recently on the "Mist" with Capt. Sherrick Hiscock. Accompanying him on the trip was Mr. Leonard Thomas. One of the sails caught measured seven feet, five inches and the other seven feet and seven inches.

Coach A. Alonzo Stagg, the famous football mentor of Chicago University, who is making a stay in Palm Beach, had a new experience recently when he was put in play with a real sailfish, which did some fancy cross-bucks and off-tackle plays. Coach Stagg again proved that he is still some generalissimo even with fish and brought his prey to gaff in less than an hour's battle.

Coach Stagg, his son, Paul, and Mr. Elmer Rich were guests of Mr. Harry Thomas, of Palm Beach on the "Imp." Mr. Thomas was a member of the Chicago University football team under Coach Stagg in '24. The coach told Mr. Thomas before the sea trip that if he could catch fish like he could play football in '24 there would surely be some big ones landed.

Mr. James Gallagher of Chicago, and Mr. George C. Kline, who are stopping in Palm Beach, had an excellent day's fishing recently. Mr. Gallagher landed a perfect specimen measuring seven feet, ten and one-half inches, while Mr. Kline did his bit by landing one weighing sixty-two pounds.

Mr. Irvin L. Sutherland of Richmond, Va., also caught one of the heaviest fish of the season, the length of which was seven feet, six inches. He was out with Mr. Charles Alsip of Chicago and Mr. Chris I. Dame of Philadelphia.

Miss Nedenia Hutton, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Hutton, decided to go for a fishing trip the other day, and so embarked upon the "Orca," captained by Herman Grey and took a cruise to the inlet.

It is a weekly occurrence with this seven-year-old angling enthusiast to take a trip on the "Orca" and she frequently joins the older members of the Hutton parties on their trips out into the Gulf Stream. Miss Hutton is undoubtedly the youngest member of the angling enthusiasts at Palm Beach.

Mr. H. H. Windsor, Palm Beach resident, who is staying at the Poinciana, landed a lengthy kingfish the other day, which measured forty-nine inches. Mr. Windsor entered it for length in the contest of the Sailfish club. He was out with Captain Hatton on the "Halebam."

Mr. Niles R. Babbitt, well known winter resident at Palm Beach went out recently aboard the "Osprey" with Mr. Edwin Goodman, Poinciana guest, who is here for a stay from New York. A fine "sail" was landed and several strikes were made, both members of the party enjoying the day's sport.

Mr. Frank Duff Frazier made his daily trip in search of a bigger and better sailfish but for once his quest was fruitless. However, with Mrs. Frazier and his daughter Diane along a pleasant cruise was made.

Mr. Bruce Sheldon and Mr. W. W. Chubbuck of New York recently initiated Miss Emma Chubbuck and Miss Helen Downe of Philadelphia into the sport of sailfishing. Mrs. Sheldon and Mrs. A. H. Wenzell of New York also went along in another boat to watch the fun. The catch included three sailfish, one of which weighed seventy-two and one-half pounds and the other measuring seven feet, four and one-half inches, caught by Mr. Sheldon.

THE "FETE MODERNE"

THE BEAUX ARTS BALL, for the first time in its history divorced from a historical setting and characterized by an assortment of gorgeously colored costumes in futuristic vein, attracted more than three thousand guests to the "Fete Moderne," a Fantasia in Flame and Silver, held recently in the main ballroom and adjoining suites at the Astor, says the New York Herald-Tribune. Gayety rather than pretentiousness was the keynote of the occasion this year and it was in a riot of color and a lavish profusion of shades that the revelers danced far into the morning in a farewell to Broadway, since next year the ball will be held at the new Waldorf Astoria.

Months of preparation and careful study were represented by the smooth course of the event, which in the twelve presentations of its history, beginning with the pageant, "Venice Through the Ages," in 1912, has become a social tradition in Manhattan. Since that time many of the balls have represented in their decorative effects and costumes various phases of French history, such as the Napoleonic pageant in 1929 and the Renaissance spectacle of last year, and this was the first occasion upon which the period design was projected into the indefinite future. It was agreed by the sponsors of the ball, the Beaux Arts Architects, who annually arrange the festival for the benefit of architects, sculptors and mural painters studying at the Academy of Design, that such a provision would simplify the problem of costumes and reduce the expense of these, since many of the pretentious garbs in the past have necessitated large expenditures.

Color and fantasy dominated the scene at the Astor last evening. All the decorations of the grand ballroom were carried out in a two-color scheme projected against a background of jet black. The whims of futurism, cubism and modernism were represented in the incidental decorations of the scene, on the materials for which James Monroe Hewlett and a corps of assistants had been at work several weeks. The grand ballroom was known last night as "The Gay White Way," in a Broadway setting, and the north entry to the ballroom was made over as a cubistic main street, while the south end represented "The Speakeasy Galleries." Prominent painters and sculptors had contributed to the collection on exhibit and modernistic refreshments were served on a "Bar Wickersham."

At midnight a fanfare of trumpets announced the opening of the spectacle. Mr. Kenneth M. Murchison directed a large orchestra throughout the performance and arranged all the music. The production opened with Tony Sarg's modernistic marionettes, featuring Nerida, former dancer at the Roxy Theatre. Others appearing in this group were Mrs. F. Sheldon Jaffray, Mrs. Lucinda Ballard, Misses Ruth Lange, Elsa Lange, Betty Gillette, Ruth Asire, Ruth Jacobi, Ellen Goldsborough, Elinor Gunn and Marion Brand.

Then followed Mlle. Vera Sterne, European dancer, in her Danse des Flammes, her first appearance in America. An amusing collection of classic statuary gone modern was then presented. This was called "Evolution der Plastischen Kunst in Lebenden Statuen"—Herr Professor Kristofer Van Farge, director, and among those taking part were Messrs. W. Gayer Dominick, Pierpont M. Hamilton, Sherman A. Jones, C. Grant La Farge, Oliver La Farge II, Christopher La Farge, Eugene Lockhart, Frederic Newell, Henry Clapp Smith and Theodore E. Steinway.

And then, Mrs. S. Stanwood Menken, representing "The Rhapsody in Blue," followed by an original futuristic ballet, with the Albertina Rasch Dancers presenting "Ballet de 1950," featuring Mlle. Dorissa Nelova, premier danseuse in "Modernistic Impressions of the Blues" by Dimitri Tiomkin.

Then, the feature costume contest, for which the French Line offered a first prize of a trip to Paris and return on any of their steamers for the most beautiful and original woman's costume, was staged. Members of the jury were Messrs. Leiaren Hiller, John Held, Jr., Rockwell Kent, Frank Crowninshield, Lee Simonson, F. Luis Mora, Albert Sterner, Edward Trumbull, W. T. Benda, Don Dickerman, Scott Williams and Charles Hanson Towne, appearing as Rodin, Gauguin, Corot, Millet, Ingres, Rosa-Bonheur, Diaz, Bongereau, Whistler, Monet and Laurens; and finally "The Skyline of New York," presented by architects in costumes made as exact replicas of their buildings. In this group were Messrs. William Van Alen, Chrysler Building; William F. Lamb, Empire State Building; D. Everett Wald, Metropolitan Tower; Harvey Wiley Corbett, Bush Building; Raymond M. Hood, Daily News Building; Ely Jacques Kahn, Squibb Building; John W. Cross, Radio

Tower; A. Stewart Walker, Fuller Building, and Ralph Walker, 1 Wall Street. Mr. Arthur J. Arwine represented a low pressure heating boiler.

Markel's orchestra, under the direction of Kenneth M. Murchison, was assisted in rendering the musical program of the evening by nine pneumatic riveting machines, a three-inch live steam pipe, four ocean liner whistles, three sledge hammers and an assortment of pneumatic drills. The music, however, on account of what was described as the "modernistic quality of the dissonances," managed to penetrate through the uproar of the percussion instruments. Mr. Murchison, who is a member of the musicians' union and chairman of the executive committee, arranged the musical program.

One of the most elaborate and interesting features of the evening was the pageant of the sky line of New York, presented by members of a committee selected for this purpose to represent the various skyscrapers and city landmarks which they themselves have designed. Mr. Chester Aldrich represented the new home of the Union Club; Mr. Harvey Wiley Corbett, the Bush Building; Mr. D. Everett Wald, the Metropolitan Life Building; Mr. J. H. Freedlander, the Museum of the City of New York; Mr. Raymond M. Hood, the Daily News Building; Mr. Ely Jacques Kahn, the International Telephone Building; Mr. Julian Clarence Levi, a fifteen-story apartment house, and Mr. Benjamin W. Morris, the Union League Club.

Mr. Kenneth M. Murchison represented a model tenement; Mr. Whitney Warren, the Grand Central Terminal; Mr. Douglas L. Elliman, an entire group of apartments; Mr. Peter Grimm, the Real Estate Board Building; Mr. Lee Simonson, "Roar China;" Mr. Willy Pogany, as Willy Pogany; Mr. A. Stewart Walker, the George A. Fuller Building; Mr. Ralph Walker, 1 Wall Street; Messrs. Schultze and Weaver, the Waldorf-Astoria and the Hotel Pierre; William Van Alen, the Chrysler Building, and George S. Chappel as Dr. Walter E. Traprock.

Among the costumes appearing on the dance floor during the course of the evening were the following:

Mrs. Cornelia Woolley Hopkins represented an icicle with silver cloth made into long, tight trousers. A tiny cap of crystal and silver sequins. Red shoes and gloves.

Mrs. John Rothstone wore silver cloth pajamas and red sequins; cap of same material trimmed in a bunch of long flame feathers; flame and white gloves.

Mrs. A. Cooley represented New York at night; black satin gown with buildings in silver and black, windows of huge red sequins, silver stars and airplanes in a black sky, silver slippers and a tall, red hat shaped like a skyscraper, with windows of square white sequins.

Mrs. Philip G. Gossler wore a silver pierrette costume with cloth of silver bodice trimmed with a net ruff edged with silver. The long, tight trousers had flame-colored net ruffles. A flame-colored velvet tricorn with black velvet ribbons completed the costume.

Mrs. John Auerbach selected a modernistic costume of geometric design on a flesh foundation; hat trimmed with large, red coque feathers.

Mrs. Walter J. Salmon wore a pierrette costume of silver tissue and flame velvet, with loose trousers, an orange and flame ruff, conical hat, flame gloves edged with silver ribbons and trimmed with pompoms.

Miss Vera Maxwell wore an aviator costume with a one-sided effect of flame and silver. One arm was covered with an extra large sleeve and gauntlet. Her aviator cap was of silver cloth.

Mrs. Ralph T. Walker appeared in a cocktail costume of silver cloth trimmed with appliqued fruit.

Mrs. M. E. Sawin's costume was representative of "backgammon."

Mrs. J. Monroe Hewlett's selection was a Turkish costume of modernistic trend in red and silver.

Mrs. Ben Ali Haggin wore a costume of silver tissue; Mrs. Francis N. Schroeder an eccentric costume of geometric design.

Mr. William Van Alen represented the Chrysler Building in a costume of silver metal cloth trimmed with black patent leather, sash and lining of flame-colored silver and the cape, puttees and cuffs of flexible wood. The headdress of course, represented the building's summit.

Throughout the evening several orchestras alternated in supplying music for dancing and a late supper was served in the various units of the entertainment suite. The committee on costumes, which was headed by Joseph H. Freedlander and Ernest Peixotto, while strict in the refusal to permit the more commonplace old costume stand-bys, such as firemen, cowboys, pirates, dominoes and sailors, was liberal in its interpretation of the terms "flame and silver," and a large number of bright and simple costumes achieved unique effects and tended to heighten the gayety stressed by the management of the affair. A large number of vivid and elaborate costumes, modeled like sleeping suits, appeared, the most notable of which, perhaps, was the bright crimson beach pajamas of Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt. Mrs. J. S. Cosden's party of twelve were all dressed alike in red wigs and modernistic overalls with one leg red and one black, while Henry Cabot Lodge appeared in a pair of red satin pajamas covered with enormous white pompons.

The beautiful lake-front terrace at Whitehall is again open for tea dances. Many guests from both the hotels and cottages gather for these delightful affairs. Tables are placed under the royal palm trees that edge the terrace bordering directly on Lake Worth.

The Whitehall Meyer Davis orchestra plays the latest of catchy dance melodies, under its director, Mr. Daniel Yates, and are generous with encores.

The outdoor terrace restaurant is also for luncheon parties and because of its ultra beautiful view, overlooking the placid waters of Lake Worth, is particularly popular for noon-time gatherings of hotel guests and cottagers.

The beautiful Palm Court, a vast high ceiled room of superb dimensions, is used for the dinner dances on cooler days, and the Saturday night dinner parties at Whitehall have always held their own particular niche in the social life of Palm Beach.

Mr. Parsons is a noted journalist whose contributions to internationally known magazines have been read by the winter colony with great interest. He came down as a member of the Artists and Writers Tournament but was prevented from joining them in Havana because of the marriage of his daughter, the former Miss Doris Parsons, several days ago to Mr. William T. A few large afternoon receptions have brought variety to the smaller entertainments held during the past fortnight, and among the most interesting was that at the Sea Spray Avenue home of Mr. and Mrs. Constantin Cordier, which was attended by a group of distinguished visitors who drove up from Miami for the occasion. Mr. and Mrs. Cordier have a host of friends in the resort who welcomed them on their return to the cottage colony. Last year they wintered in Cannes, France, but are happy to be back in the familiar and delightful surroundings of the resort. Their home here has already become a center of social activities.

At the tea last week, flowers in pastel shades were used in profusion to decorate the spacious rooms. Mrs. William Ely Chambers, presided at the tea table. The group of guests coming from Miami, and returning later to continue their trip to the West Indies, included Sir Henry Ward of London, Count and Countess Henri de Polignac of France, and Prince Goodhope of Italy. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. George C. White, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Lyman, Dr. and Mrs. Hobart Endicott Warren, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Dobyne, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Cowell, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Louis F. S. Bader, Count and Countess Carlo Filippini, Mr. and Mrs. G. Horton Glover, Vicomtesse Henri de Frise, Mrs. Charles L. Harding, Miss Lilian Washburn Newlin and her niece, Miss Helen Louise Tunnell, Mrs. Charles R. Sherlock, Mrs. Benjamin Plunkett, Mrs. Charles Albert Smylie, Mrs. Alexander A. McKay, Mrs. E. R. Chapman, Mr. William Ruland.

* * * *

Many delightful informal affairs have contributed to the interest of the past week's activities. Little dinner parties followed by contract are forming the major diversions of the mid-season, and one of the most enjoyable was that held last week at "Trefontane," the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Sims Wyeth in Singer Place. Their guests were Mr. and Mrs. David Hugh McCulloch, Mr. Gerard Lambert and his house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Frost.

* * * *

Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Hutton were hosts at a golf tournament and party held at "Mar-A-Lago," their ocean-front home, last week. Tea was served in the afternoon and entertainers appeared. Among the guests were: Mr. and Mrs. James P. Donahue, Mr. M. Dorland Doyle, Mrs. Dodge Sloane, Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Williams, Mrs. R. Livingston Clarkson, Mr. and Mrs. Milton W. Holden, Mrs. John Waterbury and Mrs. Lucius P. Ordway, Mrs. John R. Fell, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Replogle, Mr. Clarence McCormick, Mrs. Evalyn McLean, Mr. Edward Small Moore, and Mr. Paul Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Quentin F. Feitner, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Pillsbury, Mr. and Mrs. Adam G. Thomson, Mr. and Mrs. J. Gordon Douglas, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Lewisohn, Mr. and Mrs. F. Homer Smith, Capt. and Mrs. R. Amcotts Wilson, Col. and Mrs. William Hayward, Mr. Philip G. Plant, Mr. James R. Hyde, and others.

* * * *

Among diversions popular in the early week are the dinner parties preceding attendance at the opening nights of the Palm Beach Playhouse. Last week Dr. and Mrs. Leland Eggleston Cofer entertained a group at "Capricho," their new home in Barton Avenue, later taking their guests to the performance of "Torchbearers," the amusing play presented for the first time in Palm Beach. The lovely Spanish dining room, where the cottagers dined early in the evening, was attractively decorated with Easter lilies. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Quentin Jones, Capt. and Mrs. John H. Gibbons and Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Foster Carey were among Dr. and Mrs. Cofer's guests.

* * * *

Mr. James King Clarke is departing from "Utsee Wewa" on the North Lake Trail this week for "Bellfair," Mr. William F. Swain's plantation near Savannah, Ga., where he will enjoy duck-shooting. Mr. Clarke came down from Ardmore, Pa., with Mrs. Clarke and their daughter, Miss Katherine W. Clarke, early in the winter. Following his custom, he has been away from the resort nearly every week-end shooting in the Everglades. Miss Clarke is an active participant in the festivities of the younger set. The family will be joined this week by Mrs. Clarke's mother, Mrs. Hugh DeLaussat Willoughby of "Mandalay" at Sewall's Point. Miss Christine Bitmar of New York is expected to arrive February 15 and several parties are being arranged for her entertainment while in the resort.

* * * *

Festivities have begun at the home of Mr. Edmund E. Allyne on the ocean front at Lantana, where Mr. Allyne's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Rollin A. Allyne, have been for the past three weeks. The swimming parties held on Sunday mornings last year are still remembered by those in the winter colony who had the pleasure of attending those informal affairs, as among the most attractive features of resort life. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ford, house guests last winter, are making their home in Denver and not expected to visit Palm Beach this year. Their absence will be missed by their friends in the resort.

Mrs. Rollin Allyne is being cordially greeted on her return to the colony, where she has been missed for the past four years during her absence in California. Before her marriage, in June, she was Miss Marian Van Voorhees.

* * * *

An intimacy and air of informality marks many of the entertainments given thus far this season, with friends gathering for dinner in the cottages, and remaining to spend the evening at contract tables. If some of the hilarity that characterized festivities of former seasons is lacking, another quality that has a distinct charm has been substituted, making the social functions of 1931 altogether pleasant. Mrs. Elden C. DeWitt, who always entertains extensively, had as guests at one of her recent dinner and contract parties, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Seligman, Dr. and Mrs. Edmund LeRoy Dow, Mr. and Mrs. Emil J. Stehli, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome D. Gedney and Mr. John B. Irwin.

* * * *

Returning to the cottage colony last week were Col. and Mrs. Robert Glendinning of "The Squirrels," Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia, Pa. They are now at "Casa dei Leoni," their Worth Avenue home, where members of their family will join them this month. Mrs. Percifer Frazer III, and Mrs. Jay Cooke II, daughters of Col. and Mrs. Glendinning, will spend several weeks in the resort, and Mr. Cooke will also be here, but Mr. Frazer, who is travelling in Europe, is not expected in Palm Beach this season. Col. and Mrs. Glendinning have been cordially welcomed since returning to the island, where they have wintered for many seasons. They are frequently seen on the sands at Sea Spray Beach and are members of the Everglades and Gulf Stream Clubs.

* * * *

Mrs. Robert McAdoo of New York is being entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Williams at their magnificent ocean-front home, where Col. Rivers Worgan is also a guest.

* * * *

Mrs. Wyllys Rossiter Betts, Jr., with her young daughter, Phyllis, have joined Mrs. Betts' father, Mr. Charles E. F. McCann, at his home in Golf View Road. Mr. Freeman Smith of New York, who was a house guest earlier in the season, has departed for the North. Mr. McCann will also leave the resort soon, to sail for Europe, where he will meet Mrs. McCann. Their daughter, Miss Helen Woolworth McCann, attends school in Rome.

* * * *

Mr. Theodore Hollander, who is occupying "Villa Muriel" in El Vedado Lane, is a member of the Boston group which has joined the cottage colony this year, and has already been host at several very delightful parties. Mrs. Clarke Hollander and Mrs. Zenas Sears are his house guests and at a dinner of last week they were joined by Mr. and Mrs. Loring Q. White, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Gale and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Howes.

* * * *

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Carey of Far Hills, N. J., have come down to spend a week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Foster Carey, at "Villa Vinca," on Sea Spray Avenue.

* * * *

Several small functions have been given during the past fortnight at "El Retiro," on the South Ocean Boulevard, by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hudson Marks. Mr. and Mrs. Jerome D. Gedney came up from "Manalapan" with members of their family, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gedney and Mr. and Mrs. John Millen, for dinner and contract last week. Mrs. Bromfield, who is spending the season with Mr. and Mrs. Marks, her parents, was also at the affair.

* * * *

Miss Grace Clark of New York has been entertained during the past week by Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Sheldon at their home in "Manana Estates" and later will make her residence at the Royal Poinciana.

* * * *

Mr. and Mrs. George Rasmussen were hosts at an informal dinner party given at "Casa Nana," on the ocean front, last week to compliment Princess Alexandra Victoria of Schleswig-Holstein. The Princess was only in the resort for a day en route from Miami to Atlanta but will return later in the season to be the guest of Mrs. Francis T. A. Junkin of Chicago, who is coming to the Everglades Club in March. Princess Alexandra, sister of the Queen of Denmark, is a celebrated artist. She has recently exhibited in Miami and will give a showing of her latest artistic works at the Everglades Club on her return to Palm Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Rasmussen have been at their winter home for the past several weeks and are expecting their sons, George Stanley Rasmussen, who is a student at Yale, and Mr. Robert Vernon Rasmussen, to join them here in the early spring.

* * * *

Mrs. Henry Morgan Tilford of New York City and Tuxedo Park, is expecting Mr. and Mrs. David Wagstaff of "Ledgelands," Tuxedo Park, to be her guests at "Oceanic" cottage in February. Mr. and Mrs. Wagstaff have been wintering in the resort for many years and are entertained frequently during their stay here. Mrs. Tilford is a member of Everglades Club and The Bath and Tennis Club.

* * * *

Mr. and Mrs. Jay F. Carlisle of East Islip, N. Y., have returned to "Las Campanas," their home in Golf View Road, which has been greatly altered and improved during the summer, and where many interesting social functions will be held.

* * * *

Viscountess Henri de Frise was hostess recently at a tea given at her attractive home in Major Alley for many of her friends in the winter colony. These informal receptions are held every year by The Viscountess and are among the most delightful affairs of the winter season.

* * * *

Mr. and Mrs. Milton W. Holden, who are spending the season at the new ocean-front villa of her father, Mr. Joseph E. Widner, have been entertaining frequently at small parties. Mr. and Mrs. Quentin F. Feitner were among luncheon guests on a recent occasion.

* * * *

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Cowell, who have as their guests at "Mi Estrallita," in El Vedado Lane, Mrs. L. E. McWhorter, Jr., and Miss Betty McWhorter of New York have held several parties in their honor during the past fortnight.

* * * *

The card parties given weekly by the Junior Guild of Bethesda-by-the-Sea draw interesting groups from the cottages and also from the hotel colonies, who gather on Tuesday afternoons to play contract and enjoy a social hour. The funds realized from these affairs are used for charitable purposes. Last week fair weather permitted setting tables out on the verandah overlooking the beautiful Cluett Gardens which were recently dedicated. Mrs. Nathaniel Seymour Thomas and her sister, Mrs. William Guy Noll, were hostesses at tea served in the rectory following the games. The Spanish dining room was adorned with spring flowers and a green and ivory color scheme predominated on the table, softly illuminated with candles set in unique Spanish candelabra. A bouquet of flowers and pussy willows formed the center piece.

The players at last week's party were: Mrs. Edmund LeRoy Dow, Mrs. William R. Sweatt, Mrs. Nathan D. Bill, Mrs. Elden C. DeWitt, Mrs. Irene Merritt, Mrs. Edward R. Tolfree, Mrs. Frederick C. Van Dusen, Mrs. Bernard H. Kroger, Mrs. John E. Dana, Mrs. Ralph Lewis, Mrs. Edward W. Edwards, Mrs. Zenas Sears, Mrs. L. B. Cuddy, Mrs. William A. Wiedersheim II, Miss Margaret Hood, Miss Helen B. Hood, Mrs. Charles M. Brett, Mrs. Frederick Dwight and Mrs. McKay LeRoy.

Guests are frequently taken by dinner hosts to the American Legion boxing bouts on Tuesday and Friday nights, and last week Mr. Addison Mizner followed this interesting custom when he entertained Mr. and Mrs. F. Homer Smith, Mrs. Jerome Kern, Mr. and Mrs. George Henry Warren, Jr., and Baron von Hessberg. Dinner was served in the dining room of Mr. Mizner's apartment on Worth Avenue where an old-world atmosphere prevails and one which always lends interest to the functions held here.

Nearly 2,000 members of the cottage colony had the opportunity of hearing for the first time, music momposed by Mr. Sidney Homer when "The Little Town of Bethlehem," by Mrs. Spencer Trask, was presented in the Cloister Garth of Bethesda-by-the-Sea Church last week. Mr. Homer himself directed the orchestra playing his compositions and Mme. Louise Homer sang the role of the Virgin. The scores for this, as well as for all the other singing parts, were also composed by her husband. Both of these celebrated artists received a stirring ovation at the conclusion of the performance. The entire production, staged under the stars on an ideal Palm Beach night, with performers appearing in the colorful array of Biblical times, against a background of palms and shrubs, was one that will linger long in the memory of all who crowded into the Garth.

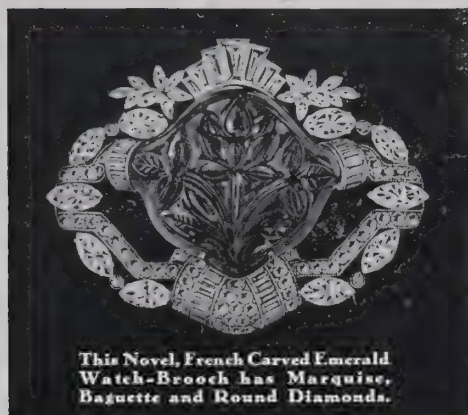

One of the new Sunshine Fashions. Linen lace is one of the new inspirations for spectator sports and evening. Here, in the evening mood, it appears in turquoise, with purple iris flower. Seen at Burdine's.

Patou printed crepe evening dress has tiny peplum to break the sweeping line of the skirt—tiny sleeves and simulated bolero repeat the tiered motif, worn with frosted crystal necklace with transparent, loosely linked beads.

Miss Eleanor Shaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Shaw of New York, who served as one of the nannequins in the Bonwit Teller Fashion Pageant.

From the shop of Greenleaf and Crosby.

Tucks are most important for those who would look their smartest on the beach as you can see from this silk crepe bathing frock which has even a tucked silk 'kerchief cap. Worn over a one-piece wool jersey swimming suit. Bramley model from Franklin Simon & Co.

Clips instead of buttons—that's the newest way of fastening a dress—as shown in this shantung frock from Best's. It comes in white or colors.

TASTES AND TOILETTES

HE final establishment of real Palm Beach weather has brought the sun-seekers to the beaches, there to bask in the health-giving rays until sufficiently browned, and then to seek the shady seclusion of some colorful cabana for a bit of appetizing gossip before luncheon. The smart woman of this season is many shades lighter than of last year. The extreme fad of sunburn began to wane shortly after "beach tan" was put up in little bottles and could be purchased at the "five and ten". One sees a few lovely girls with skin like beige velvet, evenly browned all over her visible area—and with the present evening fashions that is quite a bit—but these are the ones who are thoroughly aware of their type and know that a tanned skin accentuates their charm. All sorts of tricky beach wear has been designed for those who wish to protect the skin from the sun. Long-sleeved, wide-legged pyjamas of heavy linen are favorites. They are very loose and very comfortable and nothing need be worn underneath. The sensation of the cool, heavy linen on the skin is the next best thing to having nothing on. The skin gets a chance to breathe as there is plenty of room inside the voluminous garments, and when worn with one of the tremendous floppy beach hats, the sun gets little chance of burning the inmate.

Miss Margaretta Sloan, lovely young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice W. Sloan of Philadelphia, seasonal guests at the Breakers, was attired the other evening in an exquisite frock of white lace, the skirt formed of triple tiers and the high waistline accented with a flat pearl buckle. A bolero of lace had full three quarter length sleeves.

* * * *

Dining at the Marguery one night last week, Mrs. Reed Albee, of the Breakers, whose distinctively graceful carriage is the cause of much admiring comment, chose for her costume, a pale canary yellow Chanel spider-web lace gown, the skirt formed entirely of flounces. A drop shoulder decolletage was finished with a flounce while an interesting new note was a flat corsage of panel silk flowers at the front waist line.

* * * *

Mrs. Bruce Dodson, Jr., of Kansas City, who has been spending the past few weeks at the Breakers was dancing there recently costumed in a smart ankle length black silk net, the skirt having godets formed of little self ruffles. Shoulder straps of jade bead embroidery and a detachable circular cape collar were noteworthy details. Mrs. Dodson sponsors the tiny jeweled hair pins, wearing matching jade pins with this costume.

* * * *

Another exquisite frock was of pale pink chiffon, with a deep U neck edged with a pleated frill, with delicate all over silver embroidery, a peplum and a narrow belt. The skirt had inset gathered bands all of the embroidered chiffon. Pink crepe de chine slippers repeated the same silver embroidery note.

* * * *

Miss Jean Weurz of New York, a seasonal guest at the Breakers, was noted on the beach recently wearing a becoming sports suit of sea green with a polo shirt collar, cuffed short sleeves and a wide belt with a distinctive buckle of jade and ivory.

* * * *

Miss Rita Haggerty of New York is another attractive young member of the hotel set at the Breakers, who is fond of blue and wears a lovely demure dancing frock of azure blue satin. It is fashioned on form fitting lines to the hips where the full circular skirt is joined by a scalloped motif.

* * * *

Miss Bridget Nickols of London, who is spending several weeks at the Breakers with her mother, Mrs. Belle Nickols, was noted the other evening wearing a stunning dinner gown of laquer red velvet with a deep ruffle formed at the waist and edging the skirt. A similar ruffle also was carried out on the fitted coat which also had a high standing collar of sable.

* * * *

Mrs. Leland Eggleston Cofer of the cottage colony, who is a member of the Sea Spray Beach Club, appeared on the sands recently costumed in a smart eggshell three-piece knitted sports suit. Her brimmed hat of natural straw was banded with flowers in gay shades of orange and yellow and the colors were repeated in a chiffon scarf thrown around her shoulders.

Miss Polly Luke of the Breakers wears a smart morning frock of brown polka dots on a dusty pink background, which has a square neckline and short sleeves and a wide brown suede belt. Accessories of brown are attractive details.

* * * *

Pastel suits are popular this year, and the Countess Edith di Zoppola, who has been a guest of Capt. and Mrs. R. Amcotts Wilson, wears a fabric hat, jewel clipped; scarf and purse, to match her light wool crepe outfit on coolish days. The countess has also been wearing a frock of delicate blue piped in a darker shade that is a striking model.

* * * *

Mrs. John Hay Whitney came up from Delray last week with Mr. Whitney to lunch at Patio Lamaze, looking particularly smart. For motoring, Mrs. Whitney wears a brown and white polka dotted Rodier scarf with her mink coat.

* * * *

Miss Louise A. Van Alen attended the formal opening of the Everglades Club with her fiance, Prince Alexis Mdivani, wearing a dainty frock of shell pink chiffon under a three-quarter length velvet coat trimmed with white fox.

* * * *

One of the most vivacious and interesting members of the younger married set is Mrs. John Charles Thomas, wife of the noted singer, who wore a simple evening frock at the Everglades Club opening that was particularly becoming to her type. Of flowered crepe, a flounce at the high waistline and low back, added to the interest.

* * * *

White is such a favorite this season that the observant stroller around the resort encounters smart society folk everywhere from the beaches after breakfast, to the restaurants at noon, and night clubs after dark, clad in angelic white. Mrs. Edward M. Harley of Chicago and Paris, France, came up from Miami last week for an extended visit and was noted in a chic sport suit of white pique with beret of the same material.

Heightening the effect of white and pastel shades that receive first choice by exclusive society matrons, is an occasional note of darker hue. And silks and chiffons now and then give way to heavier materials. Mrs. Dodge Sloane of "Concha Marina," on the Ocean Boulevard, recently appeared in a jaunty outfit of mixed tweed, with a beret matching her tailored dress. Nutria was used to trim her top-coat of larger weave. A plaid scarf of similar texture was tied under her chin. The tout ensemble was most effective.

Mrs. Edith Cheeks, of New York, who has her adorable little niece with her for the season at the New Palm Beach Hotel, is one of the most attractive members of the permanent colony there. On the hotel roof last week she wore a soft, dainty evening wrap of white panne velvet over a flowing frock of green chiffon.

* * * *

Miss Katherine Clarke of the North Lake Trail, who has been active in the work of the church of Bethesda-by-the-Sea, was one of the most charmingly attired young ladies at the recent parish dinner at the Everglades Club. Her brunette beauty was enhanced by the vivid red of her low-backed evening frock which was made of taffeta along princess lines. The long skirt was edged with tulle.

* * * *

A carmine chiffon handkerchief repeated the color note of her shoes that gave zest to the evening attire of Mrs. Arthur Hudson Marks who was noted gliding under the stars at the Colony Club last week in a flowing frock of white chiffon. The dress was flounced at the high waistline, marked with a jewel buckled belt.

* * * *

The dance floor at the Colony resembled a silhouette sketch on one of the balmy nights last week, with feminine dancers swaying across the floor in front of the mystical blue light of the orchestra shell, clad either in all white or all black. The materials favored were lace and so long were the gowns that a revival of trains was strongly suggested. One demure damsel held the edge of her full skirt while dancing, the gossamer embroidered net wafting gracefully in the breeze and another member of the social elect was also obliged to hold up her white silk lace dress to keep it from sweeping the floor. Thus do the styles of yesteryear make their gradual re-appearance.

NEW YORK BREVITIES

BY LAWRENCE MORE

IT WAS a dull week. Nothing startling in the theatre, no scandals, no blizzards, no bouts between communists and Mulrooney's cossacks, no embezzlements, no bank failures, no raids on Belle Livingston, nobody crossing the Atlantic, no two-headed calves born . . . gosh, simply nothing to report! Ho hum—we'll be falling off to sleep yet. Professionally, it was a January thaw. It was the time of year when we stay-at-homes linger before the travel office windows, gazing pensively at tableaux of stately palms bending seductively over moon-struck lagoons, or the crystal glory of ice-coated fir, the rush of ski on velvet white and the ring of steel on ice. The shops, with their perennial sarcasm, are filled with dainty linens for the Southland, or burly woolens for the North.

Alors—the muse reminded us that spring could not be far behind. It won't be long now . . . one of these sun-drenched days the more daring couturières and haberdashers will dash out the new spring creations. Windows up and down Fifth and Fifty-Seventh will sound the clarion note of gladness; milady will gasp, miguy will stroke his chin, dyspeptics will change from spinach to broccoli, little boys will smoke their fathers' pipes, griffons will roll in the gutters—and the next day it will snow like heck.

Oh yes, of course there was the Wickersham report. It gave the rags something to talk about; or at least they did a lot of talking. After months of exhaustive study, profound research, pedantic analysis, thorough examination, violent internal strife, heated sessions, rip, jab, and plop—the commission comes out with the horrible revelation that there has been some drinking going on in this fair land of ours. Now would you ever have believed it! Personally, this correspondent has never seen any of it; but he is one to say that if the laws are being broken, well, really, something ought to be done about it. First thing we know they'll be having that dirty old saloon back. Think of it! And oh, by the way, what are those thirty thousand speakeasies they mention in New York?

And then there was Clara Bow. It was all very interesting to read about what happens to concierges' daughters when they go to Hollywood to get glorified. Which reminds us that it's about time to squeeze in another hand for "Once in a Lifetime," that swell comedy which takes the celluloid lunatics over the coals in such manner that thousands of New Yorkers are suffering from aching sides. The movies, however, are making progress. Some day they may be an adult art. It is far off yet, but now and then you will see a picture that actually approaches Life and Truth . . . only, of course, to go veering drunkenly off into the nebulous alleys of impossible romanticism, so that John and Mary can go happily homeward, secure in the realization that Sin is always punished and Virtue rewarded. Which seldom happens.

Fame with the movie people is fickle, frivolous and flighty. Time was when a reputation once made was good for box office purposes for ten years or more. Those were the days of the silent films. Then people heard their voices!—Doug Fairbanks talking like a Y. M. C. A. secretary; Constance Talmadge like an incandescent arc-lamp; Mary Pickford like a stevedore's daughter; Gloria Swanson like the proprietor of a beauty parlor. Even Charley Chaplin, who was the only one who talked like a gentleman, refused to make talkies for a long time. So there was a revolution. Voice coaches rushed out, put on a racket, and cleaned up. Now there is competition. Names are made and unmade in a season. It will be fun to see what happens.

"You Said It," which was the week's only opening, was another one of those collegiate musical shows—and you know what that means. But this week the Theatre Guild plans to open Lynn Riggs' play, "Green Grow the Lilacs," which ought to be good despite its title, and Morgan Farley will team up with Eva LaGallienne in a revival of "The Lady of the Camellias," down on Fourteenth Street. Then Noel Coward comes to town with his "Private Lives," which has all manner of advance superlatives heralding its opening on the day this magazine appears. On Wednesday, Judith Anderson promises to open in a new Pirandello play, "As You Desire Me." So it should be a grand week. Whereupon they tell quite a story about Dumas' celebrated play; it seems that they were rehearsing the scene where "The Lady" is receiving one of her numerous youthful admirers; the lad, anxious to make a grand smash in his first stage appearance, burst through the door, catapulted himself at the feet of Her, and poured forth his fervent message. "The Lady" raised one eye-brow, ordered him back to the wings, and said, "Try it again, and take it easy—the concussion is too great."

They have had some grand art shows . . . Matisse's sculpture (yes, he sculpted); the Russian icons, lent by the Soviet government (how the White Russians boiled—and do you blame them?); the one-man Picasso show, which illustrated what a capable draughtsman can do with tooth-picks, burlap, and packing boxes, when he takes to abstractions; the Rousseau jungle pictures, and others which should have been lost in the jungles, but weren't; and the show by Georgie O'Keeffe (I believe we got in all the "e" and "f's."

The papers will NOT be telling the story this week of a little girl who came to New York from California, armed only with an A.B. degree in the liberal arts, and an M.A. in architecture—and, oh yes, plenty of good looks and a thoroughbred full length profile; who planted herself in a log-cabin in a rear alley in Greenwich Village, found the going hard, began to wonder what good a college education was, anyway; couldn't get a job in architecture because they had a prejudice against women. Then she heard about a competition being staged by a nationally known electrical-radio corporation, who were getting tired of the stereotyped designs in radio cabinets, and decided they wanted some bright ideas from their fellow countrymen. This little girl, whose name was Roxa, we said, heard about the competition and decided to enter. So did 150,000 other people, who sent in 400,000 designs. Well, to make a short story long, Roxa got a telephone call one day, informing her that one of her designs had won first prize and so many thousands of dollars that she got dizzy trying to count them.

And now you want the moral?

Well, as we said before, the papers will not be telling the story because Roxa sent in her design under a boy friend's name (because she was afraid of prejudice against women). So aside from this little sketch, she goes unheralded, while the boy friend cleans up . . . but Roxa has some swell new clothes and has booked passage on a trip half way 'round the world.

SPORTS IN PALM BEACH

HE ANNUAL Lake Worth Tournament, played on the course of the Palm Beach Golf Club last week brought golf that is golf. With a heaven-sent break in the weather, medal play got off to a great start last Monday. A number of the old time favorites were entered and most of them did what was expected of them and qualified for the first flight. The formidable (both in golf game and figure) Arthur "Ducky" Yates arrived just the day before the tournament started and announced to all and sundry that his game was good and anyone who intended to beat him would have to do some high class work with drivers, irons and putters. His statement was true, for Ducky came in on Tuesday, the first day of match play, with a 69, par for the course and the lowest score of the day.

A newcomer here, C. W. Kittleman, of Greenville, Miss., and four times state champion of Mississippi startled the contenders somewhat by coming in the first day with the low score, 72, and copping the medal honors. He was paired up with Jack Butler, big seige gun from West Palm Beach on the first day match play and defeated his opponent handily. They were even on the first nine, but Butler got off his game starting on the 10th tee, and Kittleman took almost every hole from then on.

Young Tommy Goodwin, who has been breaking course records hither and yon, started off royally for the first two days. On the medal play, he shot a 76 and tied with Richard Cromwell of Hollywood, Calif., and Roy Gussman of West Palm Beach for fifth place. He neatly eliminated H. L. Willoughby, 4 and 3, on the first match play and moved a step upward.

Albert Hakes of Dunkirk, N. Y., got away to a bad start, taking a 9 on the sixth hole on the round of medal play. However, as scores did not come in very low, Hakes landed seventh place with a fairish 79.

On Tuesday, Albert had his hands full with R. P. Ellis. The two contestants went around the course nip and tuck and Hakes finally won, 2 and 1. On the tenth hole, Hakes shot a 2, an eagle, and Ellis, hardly to be outdone, got a birdie. These men were certainly fighting to stay in the championship flight.

Roy Gussman and Frank McDonald, both from West Palm Beach, qualified for the championship flight, and went to bat in the match play. Gussman had little difficulty in defeating Frank, taking him to the tune of 8 up and 7 to go.

Leon Sikes of West Palm Beach defeated the veteran W. B. Langford of Chicago, 3 and 1, in match play, and A. L. Stover, Windsor, Canada, eliminated Richard Cromwell, Hollywood, Calif., with a score 5 and 4.

George Lynn and R. C. Garretson were out of the running on the second day, being eliminated by Robert Crosbie and Ducky Yates, respectively.

There were more than enough golfers to make up the four sixteens, 85 contestants turning out, so 21 golfers were eliminated yesterday. The weather was magnificent, and a fairly stiff breeze came from the ocean that added a bit of difficulty when driving toward the east. This might have had something to do with the fact that no one got within less than three strokes of par.

After the players turned in their scores on the third day of the tournament, there were but four golfers left to carry on the struggle for the championship. Arthur Yates and Tommy Goodwin had a comparatively easy time defeating Ray Gussman and C. W. Kittleman, while Leon Sikes and A. H. Stover had more of a struggle with Robert Crosbie and Arthur Hakes.

The weather continued to be perfectly grand and Ducky outdid himself and again brought in the low score of the day. So far, Yates certainly made good his boast of being in top form. In three days playing he brought in the low score twice. Yates played simply magnificent golf Wednesday and shot a 67, within one stroke of the course record held by Tommy Goodwin. Ducky was 5 up on Gussman at the turn and increased his lead by two more strokes on the last nine. Arthur got a birdie on the first hole, but was one over par on the ninth; birdies were shot on the 10th, 15th and 18th, but again Yates was one over par, this time on the 14th.

Gussman played good golf, never going above 5 on any hole, but he could not match the superb pace set by Yates.

Goodwin was one up over Kittleman in over half the holes, and had no difficulty in defeating him.

Hakes had the bad luck to run into a snag on the 9th; he overshot the green and took a six. In spite of that, he gave Stover a tussel as Hakes was only one down at the turn.

Leon Sikes and Robert Crosby staged a close match, Sikes doing the honors to the tune of 3 up and 2 to go.

The scores:

Gussman.....	455	554	354—40	444	543	545—35—75
Yates.....	344	444	345—35	343	452	443—32—67
Kittleman.....	455	545	355—41	453	4
Goodwin.....	444	443	444—35	543	4
Hakes.....	544	455	446—41	453	553	4
Stover.....	445	555	345—40	344	543	4
Sikes.....	444	444	454—37	444	542	434—34—71
Crosbie.....	555	554	344—40	453	443	444—35—75

An outline of the result of the flight is as follows: Tommy Goodwin defeated C. W. Kittleman 6 and 5; Arthur Yates defeated Roy Gussman 7 and 6; Leon Sikes defeated Robert Crosbie 3 and 2; A. R. Stover defeated Albert R. Hakes 4 and 3.

Playing absolutely unbeatable golf, Ducky Yates defeated Tommy Goodwin 5 up and 4 to go Thursday in the third round of match play in the Lake Worth Tournament at the Palm Beach Golf Club.

The cards:

Yates.....	342	544	345—34	333	443	445—33—67
Goodwin.....	454	434	445—37	443	453	445—35—72

The score does not indicate how a plucky youngster put up a game and sportsmanlike battle against a seasoned veteran.

Ducky started out at a heartbreaking pace, getting a birdie 3 on the first hole, par 4 on the second and an eagle 2 on the third. Tommy came back by taking the fourth hole with a par 4 and the fifth with a birdie 3. Goodwin's putting was not up to the rest of his golf, while Yates was simply phenomenal in this department of the game sinking long putts invariably with the utmost nonchalance.

The sixth hole was halved, Ducky took the seventh with a par three, and the remainder of the holes on the first nine were halved.

At the turn Yates was 3 up and working smoothly; he got two more birdies on the second nine, the 10th and 11th.

On the 10th hole, Tommy hooked while Ducky made a beautiful drive down the fairway almost to the green. Goodwin's hook cost him the hole as Yates, on his second shot put the ball within easy distance of the cup.

Goodwin lost the 11th hole on his putting, as he made a beautiful iron shot that landed him within five feet of the pin. He missed the putt and Yates sank a much longer one to take the hole.

Almost the same thing happened on the 12th. Tommy made a perfect iron shot from the tee, and had a good chance to win the hole as Yates barely made the green. Again Ducky's remarkable putting saved him a stroke and the hole was halved.

Goodwin stymied Yates on the 13th and saved himself from losing the match then and there.

Tommy's hook came in handy on the dog leg 14th. Yates landed in the sand trap off the green on his iron shot and once again the boy had a chance to win the hole. However, he missed an easy putt and lost the hole and the match.

For his years, Tommy Goodwin is a most remarkably good golfer. A bit more seasoning and a little steadying of the nerves, and the boy will go far.

Leon Sikes and C. L. Stover staged a sure enough battle in their match play. Stover was 1 up on the turn and kept his lead until the 17th when Sikes halved the match. The players went to the 21st hole before Stover emerged victorious.

Sikes had a great chance to win the match on the 19th hole as Stover landed in the rough and had to take an iron shot through some palm trees in order to land on the green. Sikes missed an easy putt and Stover managed to come through the shrubbery safely, and the hole was halved.

On the fatal 21st hole, Sikes landed in the sand trap on the edge of the tee. The ball was on the edge of the trap, a difficult hanging lie. Sikes managed the tee, but missed an easy putt and lost the match.

The cards:

Sikes.....	544	544	354—38	454	444	434—36—74	545
Stover.....	454	444	354—37	444	553	444—37—74	544

LAKE WORTH TOURNAMENT

In the finals of the tournament, Friday, January 30th, Ducky Yates made short work of A. L. Stover, and also made golf history by going around the course in the morning to the melodious tune of 63. Stover played good golf, but no living human could have beaten Yates that morning. Ducky constantly outdrove Stover, and the accuracy with his irons and putters was nothing short of uncanny.

Stover was pursued by a jinx all morning; he landed in sand traps six times, overshot the green once, and even knocked Ducky's ball into the cup on the 7th hole. Yates never went under par on any hole except the 12th and made seven birdies. Stover halved one hole, won the 12th and 16th and lost the rest.

The cards:

Yates.....	333	443	244—30	444	343	434—33—63	443	4
Stover.....	454	555	455—42	453	455	345—38—80	544	5

In the afternoon the match was soon over. Yates parred the first two holes, took a birdie 3 on the 3rd and a par 4 on the 4th, and the match was over. Arthur Yates of Rochester, New York, had defeated A. L. Stover of Windsor, Canada, 15 up and 14 to go and is the Lake Worth Tournament Champion for 1931.

The whole match was a case of a good golfer, hoodooed for the time being, up against a man who played absolutely inspired golf. May all runners-up be as graceful losers as A. L. Stover.

Results of the other flights in the tournament were: Second flight: Wm. H. Hyde defeated O. L. Brailey 4 and 3; Third Flight: F. S. Demarest defeated C. J. Claudon 3 and 4; Fourth Flight: L. E. Thompson defeated Jack Haid 1 up (19 holes); consolation flight: W. B. Langford defeated Hugh L. Willoughby 1 up.

ARTISTS AND WRITERS TOURNAMENT

Now that the smoke of battle has cleared away, and the noise of the captains and the shouting has ceased, we are able to find out where the Artists and Writers Association stands in regard to their golf tournament held last week on the course of the Palm Beach Country Club.

Some of the golf was weird and wonderful, and the cards turned into Joe Fuller, starter at the club, were certainly mighty varied. Rex Beach was by long odds the best golfer of the lot, as he made the course in 74, while John Golden ambled around in a comfortable 120.

Rube Goldberg made up for the fact that he did not enter the Havana tournament and ambled off with several prizes in the Palm Beach affair. Rube announced that all he probably would get would be a fountain pen and that is just what he did receive at the final dinner Wednesday night as a result of his golf prowess and, it must be said, a large handicap.

Following is a summary of the two days play:

Rex Beach turned in the lowest gross score in the first day of the Artists and Writers Golf Tournament. Rex Beach shot an 80, while D. B. Wesson was close behind with an 83. There was a tie for third place with J. T. Walsh and J. Machemer each getting an 84.

Rex Beach again showed the Artists and Writers how to play golf and shot a neat 74 on the course of the Palm Beach Country Club Wednesday. However, even though Beach got the low gross score both Tuesday and Wednesday, he receives only the prize for the low gross score for 36 holes, as the rules for awarding prizes will not allow one contestant to receive more than one major prize.

Grantland Rice was second Wednesday with an 81 and D. Stewart third with an 83.

* * * *

As usual, the swimming meet of the "younger of the younger set," at the Breakers Casino, will take place in March. However, it is Mr. Norelius' idea to run a series of elimination matches before the big contest comes off.

Starting about the middle of February, swimming races for the youngsters will be held every Saturday afternoon. There will be prizes for the winners in each race.

A first, second, and third prize will be up for competition in the final contests; so the hard working boys and girls will be able to collect quite a number of trophies before the season is over.

In order to give children of all ages a chance, the entrants will be divided into four different classes. The divisions are as follows: First division, 6 to 8 years of age; second division, 8 to 10 years of age; third division, 10 to 12 years of age; fourth division, 12 to 15 years of age.

In spite of the cool weather, Mr. Norelius is teaching a number of children how to speed up their swimming and improve their strokes. Among the youngsters taking lessons regularly are Martin and Joan Sweeny, Frank and Marion Quigley, Sam Frank and Bobby Teale.

NASSAU

WINTER visitors are arriving on this fascinating island via the "New Northland" from Miami, and over the Pan-American Airways from the same port; by the steamers "Munargo" and "Evangeline" from New York and each of the big cruiser ships making the West Indies trip also bring guests who leave the cruise at this point. Mr. Seward Prosser of New York, who is chairman of the committee of financiers and representatives of "big business" organized in October as an emergency employment committee which has functioned so excellently, arrived this week at the New Colonial with Mrs. Prosser.

Mr. and Mrs. Harris Fahnestock, Jr., of New York are passing some time at this hotel, as are Mr. and Mrs. Homer C. Wessell of New York and Briarcliff Manor.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Aitken of New York, who were married on the sixteenth, came down to pass their honeymoon on this delectable isle and are at the New Colonial. They are to be seen daily on the coral sands of Paradise Beach, do much golfing at the Bahamas Country Club and dance each evening in the New Colonial Grill.

Mr. and Mrs. William W. Darsie of Baltimore are new guests here this season.

Mr. A. C. Beane of New York is at this hotel on his first visit, as is Mr. Rober McClure of Syracuse.

Mr. and Mrs. Grafton Winthrop Minot of New York and Boston, who were at the Royal Victoria, removed this week to the New Colonial and are extending their stay. Wednesday evening they were dinner hosts to Mr. and Mrs. Donald McVikar of New York, later taking them down to the grill for dancing and were joined by a larger party.

TRADEMARK, REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

For The Home

Stair ascent and descent need no longer be fatiguing or painful. Strength is saved, and energy conserved for social pleasures and household duties.

The INCLIN-ATOR can easily be installed in your present home, without interfering with existing stairways; so convenient is it that you will soon forget that stairs exist. Hundreds of owners prize the Inclinator above any other piece of furniture in the home.

Operated entirely by the touch of an electric button.

Installation can be completed within a week or ten days after receipt of order.

"Elevette"

TRADEMARK, REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

A new and unique form of elevator for home use. Where stairs are not adapted to the inclined lift, the "Elevette" solves the problem. The installation is simple and the cost comparatively low.

Those persons who always do things well . . . one knows them by their habitat » » They have a definite capacity for living amid the niceties of life without sacrificing any of the material comforts . . . and that at moderate cost.

They may be found swimming on the Côte d'Azur . . . applauding Toscanini at Baireuth . . . making a pilgrimage to Oberammergau » » At home—in the Barbizon-Plaza library reading Aldous Huxley . . . in the Barbizon Concert Hall listening to Homer, Gabrilowitsch or Gieseking . . . viewing the worth-while in art, in the Barbizon Petit Palais des Beaux Arts located on the mezzanine or, dancing in Les Charmettes—to the muted modern rhythms of Nelson's Orchestra during dinner and supper » » This is the spirit of Barbizon-Plaza.

Of course the building has radio in every room and many other conveniences, is located within a block of Fifth Avenue and one block from Fifty-seventh Street, and is the center of New York's Art and Music Life and is convenient to theatres and shops.

PEACEFUL, SUNNY SECLUSION IN THE HEART OF NEW YORK

FOR the first time city residences completely surrounded by gorgeous gardens, grassy terraces, river frontage and quiet streets, with sunshine and air forever assured on every side—a private yacht landing for the convenience and pleasure of those who make their home here.

And the cost is less than similarly fine apartments in hackneyed uninteresting neighborhoods—$37,000—$275,000.

THE TOWN PLAN OF PALM BEACH

RAISE coming from all sources is received daily concerning the many excellent features contained in the town plan of Palm Beach, which was prepared by Bennett, Parsons and Frost, Consulting Architects of Chicago, and presented by the Garden Club of Palm Beach to the town last year, after it was formally accepted by the Town Council. At the office of the Garden Club and at the town hall, inquiries are being constantly received from foreign nations, town planning commissions throughout the country and from universities, schools and libraries for copies of the town plan.

The commission is composed of the following members: Mrs. George Alexander McKinlock, Chairman; Mrs. Henry R. Rea, Mrs. Henry Phipps, Mr. Henry Ellsworth Bemis, Mr. John F. Harris, L. T. Lockwood and J. M. Owens, Jr.

Many substantial improvements have already been completed in accordance with the plan. The wheel chair drive and development of the North County Road, replanting of the Memorial Fountain, and beautification of the lake front are among the outstanding improvements made through the efforts of the Garden Club, with the co-operation of the Mayor, John Shepard, Jr.; Town Manager, L. T. Lockwood, and the Councilmen, James M. Owens, Jr., Louis D'Esterre, Oscar G. Davies, William L. Christenson and William F. Fremd. The Garden Club has expressed its appreciation of the aid rendered by these leaders in the community.

The universities now using the Town Plan of Palm Beach as a textbook, include Harvard, Princeton, Clark, Nebraska, Akron, California, Southern California, Washington, Wisconsin, and West Texas State Teachers College.

Many libraries have requested copies of the Town Plan, including Chicago Public Library, New York Public Library, Brooklyn Public Library, St. Louis Municipal Reference Library, Municipal Reference Library, Los Angeles; Connecticut State Library, Hartford; Municipal Reference Library, Chicago. Among the Town Planning Commissions requesting copies are: Pasadena, Calif.; New York, N. Y.; St. Paul, Minn.; Akron, Ohio; San Antonio, Texas, and Duluth, Minn.

On April 8, 1929, the Garden Club of Palm Beach met with the Town Council and formally offered to sponsor the preparation of a Town Plan. This offer was accepted forthwith. Arrangements were made with Bennett, Parsons & Frost, consulting architects of Chicago, and the work was begun at once. On December 19, 1929 the Town Council approved and accepted the completed plan and report.

Under the heading of The Plan of Palm Beach, the author of this treatise gives a splendid resume of the origin and transition at this world famous island resort necessitating some sort of an orderly plan to prevent irreparable errors of any sort from creeping in and marring the beauty of Palm Beach.

It states as follows: "The growth of Palm Beach from its earliest settlement to the present time has been fostered almost entirely by its alluring climate. The first permanent residents sought refuge from northern winters.

At Palm Beach they found a combination of advantages, a warm even climate, tempered by the Gulf stream; the ocean with its excellent beaches, and the still waters of Lake Worth; the exotic vegetation. These advantages of sub-tropical southern Florida, outweighed all of its inconveniences.

When the first railroad united this region with the north, the significance of Palm Beach as a winter retreat was assured. And the amazing progress of Palm Beach in a fine way is due solely to its distinguished winter residents.

First a hotel; the present character is the result of steady dignified growth, with beautiful estates, modest homes, hotels, fine shops, excellent administrations, creditable public works. The fabric has been woven in a manner approaching the ideal.

Business and agriculture have had very little influence in the development of this community. Business exists to supply necessities and luxuries and to give service to the inhabitants and to the winter guests."

In spite of the residential character of Palm Beach and the growth of West Palm Beach from a village to a city, growth has also taken place in the island resort. Municipal problems have increased until it has been found necessary to devise a zoning ordinance.

Then the Garden Club presented to the town a plan suitable for meeting the needs of the community for many years to come and to preserve the beauties of the resort for posterity.

Briefly the Plan of Palm Beach provides for, "One attractive and well managed public bath and beach, the concentration of general traffic upon a limited number of streets, beautification without especial reference to main arteries of travel, and a system of leisurely and convenient by-ways free from automobiles, punctuated with gardens; this is a plan which will localize recreation seeking crowds, discourage trespassing, and provide safety and quiet for residents of Palm Beach.

In this brief resume it would be impossible to cover completely the entire word draft as set forth by Bennett, Parsons and Frost. However, from the standpoint of aesthetic development there are two outstanding features proposed and already under development in the Town Plan. These include, Public Gardens, and Botanical Garden and A System of Trails or Walks with Grade Separation.

"An extensive garden-like park is proposed south of the Florida East Coast Bridge along Lake Worth. The beautiful Poinciana Garden in its present glory is its inspiration.

The garden is susceptible of a variety of treatments, but it is fundamental that no path or trail crosses a highway at grade. Here an opportunity presents itself to combine intelligent betterment of the street plan with a superb lake front garden having all the elements of safe pedestrian access.

With the removal of the railway tracks, it will be possible to elevate the new bridge somewhat so that the lake trail may pass under it. The bridge approach and a boat landing belong to the scheme.

"Linked with this garden, it is suggested that a space extending to the Breakers be left open when the old golf course and Cocoanut walk have given way to other and more intensive occupancy. A formal treatment of this space is greatly to be desired. Two walks, each passing under the proposed road, and under the County Road, both slightly raised, are essential parts of the plan."

"Along the inlet extending from Lake Worth to the Ocean, there is a strip of land under the jurisdiction of the Inlet Commission. The proper planting of this area with sturdy growth near the ocean, passing to flowering shrubs and less hardy trees at the lake end, will provide a fitting terminal for the lake trail, which it is urged should extend to the inlet."

Concerning the trails the Plan continues, "There is every reason to believe that wheel chairs, which may be power driven, will serve the purpose of quiet and safe transportation in Palm Beach if a system of trails is provided. The trails however, must connect with all important destinations and with points of interest. At main highway crossings grades can be separated. In most instances the trails may pass under the roadway. The roadways must be raised somewhat and the trails slightly depressed.

The trail system should extend along the lake from the inlet Garden to the Everglades Club, across the town to the Public Bath and along the ocean to the Bath and Tennis Club. It should extend along the ocean with a suitable connection through the Hotel grounds to Wells Road and at the Breakers round out the plan. It would provide an independent system of circulation, the value of which would be great. They would become an integral part of the gardens.

Along the shores of Lake Worth the established bulk head line extends some distance into the water. It is anticipated that the additional space will be gradually added by the building of the permanent sea walls. This will make possible the embellishment of the Lake Trail with here and there a small garden, and at convenient points a boat landing.

Winter visitors to the resort who began coming here fifteen and twenty years ago, when the island was but a small development and when a wheel chair ride beneath the palms was one of the most pleasant pastimes, will be exceedingly interested in the arrangements made in the Plan for new trails.

Many regret that their old chairs were discarded with the increasing popularity of the automobile. New chairs are being ordered by residents along the new trail on the North County Road, and now that balmy weather has returned, the new drive will be the scene of a leisurely wheel chair parade as newcomers and oldtimers alike progress slowly up and down to enjoy fully the beauties of Palm Beach scenery. Through motor transportation, like rail, should be provided for by widening the existing roads or by creating new trunk highways from time to time. And the islands should be served by spurs. A few miles of ocean and island boulevard here and there will serve for recreation motoring and is by far the best plan for both motorist and resident.

An ensemble of unerring distinction blends three creations typical of Udall and Ballou. The combination diamond and cabochon emerald bracelet mirrors the flawless green-and-white beauty of the emerald ring, with two baguette diamonds in the shank. The earrings... of baguette diamonds and cabochon emeralds.

Under the guidance of ELIZABETH ARDEN

AFTER PASSING through several evolutionary phases, in the way of all fashions, sun tan emerges this season in its most wearable, captivating shade. "Sun tan medium" Miss Arden calls it. It is delicate biscuit in tone, and the new resort clothes harmonize provocatively with it.

Miss Arden's southern treatments do not bleach the skin, so you can have your tan—and treat it too. Your skin may be as soft and velvety under its coat of tan as it is in its wintertime pink and whiteness. In Elizabeth Arden's Palm Beach Salon are found all the incomparable Arden Treatments. Here, too, the famous Vienna Youth Mask is given—and its enervating, youthifying properties will increase your capacity for enjoyment a thousandfold!

Be sure to ask about Miss Arden's new sunburn oil—it prevents blistering and takes the sting out of sunburn. And use Protecta Cream faithfully as a safeguard against burning and freckling.

FISHING IN PALM BEACH WATERS

SPORT fishing continues to attract members of the resort colony especially with the perfect weather of the past few days. Sailfish, however, are a bit wary and although there are plenty in evidence it takes a seasoned skipper to hunt them down. Fishing weather is here and so are the anglers, judging from the number chartering boats each day at the Poinciana basin to try that most interesting of Palm Beach sports, sailfishing. During the past week there has hardly been a boat left in the basin by afternoon and naturally the skippers are waxing more jovial because they are active once again.

Mrs. Clifford Brokaw joined the ranks of proficient feminine anglers when she landed a huge "sail" measuring seven feet, six inches while out with Mr. Brokaw on board the "Blackjack" with Capt. Rudy Steinhauer. This was her first sailfish.

The gamey member of the finny tribe gave Mrs. Brokaw a royal battle. It went through all sorts of piscatorial antics in an effort to get rid of the hook or to break the line but a real angler was handling the rod and the fish was finally brought within reach of the gaff, losing a valiant fight.

The Rt. Rev. Ernest M. Stires, bishop of Long Island, who is stopping at the Breakers, had a successful day fishing in the Gulf Stream and returned with an amberjack weighing 55 pounds. He also caught a number of kingfish and is going out again to try his hand at sailfishing.

Nedenia Hutton, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Hutton and the youngest angler in Palm Beach, established an outstanding record recently when she went out in the Gulf Stream in the afternoon aboard the "Orca" and returned with a sailfish measuring seven feet, eleven inches. Whether Miss Nedenia caught the fish or the fish caught Miss Nedenia is not known but anyway it isn't just an ordinary fish story because she had the fish with her to prove it. Capt. Herman Gray of the "Orca," with whom she went out, was witness to the fact that Miss Nedenia caught the fish.

The tug of the rod and the spin of the reel lured many out into the Gulf Stream recently in quest of game fish. This popular Palm Beach sport attracts many who seek harder diversion than that of pursuing a golf ball, along with the added thrill of being out in the broad Atlantic in a small boat.

Mr. Harry M. Florsheim, prominent shoe manufacturer of Highland Park, Ill., who is at the Breakers went out with Mr. Vladimir de Rechevsky on board the "Buddy" with Captain Vandergriff. They spent a pleasant day and Mr. Florsheim landed a huge sailfish measuring seven feet, ten inches which he is having mounted.

Good weather for kingfish was also prevalent with Mrs. John Charles Thomas, champion among feminine anglers at Palm Beach, entering a "king" weighing twenty-one and three-fourths pounds in the annual fishing contest of the Sailfish Club of Florida.

Mr. H. H. Windsor, well known winter visitor staying at the Breakers, also entered a sizable kingfish, measuring forty-nine inches, in the length class of the Sailfish Club contest.

Mr. Niles R. Babbitt, prominent winter resident, went out with Mr. Edwin Goodman of New York who is at the Poinciana for the season, aboard the "Osprey," captained by Edward Moore, and succeeded in landing a large sailfish. Several others were also hooked.

Mr. Edward F. Hutton, Capt. R. Amcotts Wilson and others went out for a short cruise on the "Orca" one morning recently, having luncheon aboard.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Smith, Miss Pauline Munn and others had a delightful day cruising on board the "Orca" with Capt. Herman Gray.

Mr. D. S. Inglin had a day of it catching bonita. He landed one weighing six pounds and another measuring thirty-one and three-fourths inches. Both were entered in the contest of the Sailfish Club of Florida of which he is a member.

Mr. George Downs of the Breakers who spends many a day out in the blue-green water of the Gulf Stream caught a number of kingfish and several sharks while out with Capt. Eddie Moore on board the "Osprey."

Mr. Beeman Davis of Stuart entertained a party of friends on board the "Miss Sally" with Capt. George Fizell, some of the group accompanying them on a private boat. Kingfish and amberjack were caught by the party.

Capt. Herman P. Gray, master of the fishing fleet of the Sailfish Club of Florida, had a thrilling experience the other day while fishing in the Gulf Stream with little Miss Nedenia Hutton on board his auxiliary schooner, "Orca."

Almost running through a school of orca which resemble a porpoise, though much larger, Captain Gray grasped a harpoon and sank it into one of them as it rose in front of the boat to spout.

The huge orca, thrashing and squirming, came flying out of the water and immediately proceeded to tow the boat for quite some distance.

Four shots were put into the fish and an exciting period of more than two hours elapsed before the orca could be brought alongside to be hoisted aboard. According to Captain Gray, the huge sea monster weighed well over a thousand pounds and there were none to dispute the fact when they saw it lying on the ground at the basin beside the boat which bears its name.

Mr. John L. Clawson, well known winter resident, who lives on Brazilian Avenue set a record by landing a seventy-four and one-half pound "sail," the heaviest of the season, in thirty-three minutes, using a twelve-thread line.

Although the fish gave a great fight, Mr. Clawson whipped him down in short order and by actual timing had the sailfish aboard before the thirty-three minutes had elapsed.

With Mr. Clawson were Mr. George Downs of the Breakers and Mr. William R. Huntley of the cottage colony.

Mr. Harry Bamberger and Mr. Sam Harris with friends enjoyed a day's cruise out on board the "Inez."

Mr. Arthur Hillman and party also went out on the "Kadilla," owned by Captain Schaffer. Albacore and bluefish were landed as they were not baiting for sailfish.

Mr. Niles R. Babbitt spent a morning in the Gulf Stream on the "Osprey" with Capt. Eddie Moore and in the afternoon Dr. Maitland Alexander went out on the same boat for a short cruise and tried his luck at fishing.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Hall and party also spent a day off the shores of Palm Beach on board the "Florence."

Mr. Ward Ames, Jr., member of the board of governors of the Sailfish Club of Florida, had an excellent day's fishing with Capt. Kingsley Knowles, landing a fifty-one pound sailfish which he entered in the annual fishing contest.

This is the second heavy fish to be landed within the past week and, according to the skippers at the basin, the fish are running heavier this season than those in the past.

Through the efforts of Mrs. John Charles Thomas who has been active in affairs of the Sailfish Club of Florida and has worked for the benefit of the Izaak Walton League, an emergency fund has been raised to pay a deputy to patrol the waters of Lake Worth to apprehend illegal netters.

The fund is to be used for this purpose until the legislature in the spring session shall take action on the request before them to provide for payment of an annual salary for a deputy to patrol Lake Worth.

Among those generously donating funds for this worthy cause are Mr. and Mrs. George Dobyne, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Vernon Skiff, Mr. Wiley R. Reynolds, Mr. Horace H. Work, Mr. Ward Ames, Mr. Frank Shaughnessy and Mr. Philip Corbin.

AMONG THE PALMS

ICTURESQUE and fascinating, nestling in the cool shadows of the towering magnificence that is the Breakers, the seaside terrace is one of the beauty spots of the resort. On warm tropical nights the soft scented breezes sweep in from the Gulf Stream accompanied by the sound of musical swishing of the waves as they lap the shore, to stay nothing of a startlingly round, golden moon which sails across a dusky star-studded sky, proving irresistible to scores of Breakers guests. No other dancing place in the resort can boast of a smooth and shining dance platform right at the edge of the sea and, judging from the large gatherings assembling nightly to pass away the hours, it is certainly appreciated. The comfortable lounges and swings scattered the length of the terrace and on the marine promenade are at a premium during the dancing parties. While gaily informal groups may be found gathered around the umbrella tables.

The Howard Lanin Dance Orchestra, under the direction of Joey Nassberg, play delightfully and their repertoire of new and elaborate Broadway hits contribute their share toward the unprecedented popularity of the dancing parties.

The tea dances given at the terrace attract visitors from both the hotel and cottage colonies and late afternoon finds countless happy groups enjoying the sunset hour there.

Among the distinguished guests at Whitehall are Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Doherty and their debutante daughter, Miss Helen Lee Eames Doherty, whose formal presentation to society, which took place in Washington on December 26th, was one of the most brilliant and important social functions of the season. Attending Miss Doherty's debut were approximately one thousand members of Washington official society. New York, Philadelphia and other cities were well represented at this largest debutante ball in the long social history of Washington.

The ranking guest at Miss Doherty's debut was Vice-President Charles Curtis who came with his sister and official hostess, Mrs. Edward Everett Gann. On Mrs. Gann's arrival at the ball, Miss Doherty presented her with a beautiful bouquet of red roses.

The Mayflower Hotel was transformed into a floral garden for the ball, holly and smilax being used in keeping with the holidays. The hosts received in the Chinese ballroom. Supper was served in the presidential dining room. A novel centerpiece representing a winter church scene, with ribbons from the miniature church to each of the place cards. These were attached to charming favors which were drawn from the church at the debutante's table. The guests danced in the main ballroom.

In order to carry the many bouquets given by her friends for her coming out party Miss Doherty changed flowers at intervals throughout the evening, beginning with the bouquet presented by her parents. The Marquis George MacDonald, a life-long friend of Mr. Doherty, also a frequent visitor at Palm Beach, acted as Miss Doherty's escort.

Despite the fact that the ball eclipsed anything Washington society had ever seen, both the debutante and her mother wore extremely simple gowns and every effort was made to avoid ostentation. The debutante wore a frock of pink chiffon, her only jewelry a small diamond cross.

Miss Doherty returned to the capital city last autumn following two years of study in art and language in Europe. She is a talented artist and devotes much of her time to painting. The arrival in Palm Beach of Mr. and Mrs. Doherty and their attractive and popular daughter will be the signal for a number of social affairs which will be given for the debutante and her parents.

The Hon. Grover A. Whalen with Mrs. Whalen have arrived from New York to spend the season at Whitehall and are occupying a spacious suite overlooking Lake Worth. The former commissioner and his wife have hosts of friends in Palm Beach and many social affairs are being planned in their honor. Accompanying Mr. and Mrs. Whalen were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Ridder of New York.

Mr. Edward N. Hurley of Chicago, a member of the World War Foreign Debts Commission, which negotiated the present settlement and who has been frequently mentioned as a serious possibility for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1932, is a guest at the Breakers. He was accompanied south by Mrs. Hurley. They expect to be joined shortly by their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Ryan, who are at present in Belleair. Mr. and Mrs. Ryan were married on January 17 in Chicago and are spending their honeymoon in the South. They will also visit at Miami and Havana. Mrs. Ryan was formerly Miss Helen Hurley, one of the charming members of Chicago's younger set. She was presented at the Court of St. James last season.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Forrester of Chicago, winter visitors in Palm Beach for twenty-two consecutive years, are again residing at the Breakers, where they are popular members of the hotel colony. They joined Mrs. Forrester's mother, Mrs. C. H. Randle, and brother, Mr. H. F. Randle, who have been down for some time. Mr. Forrester and Mr. Randle are members of the Old Guard Society. During the past summer Mr. and Mrs. Forrester and Mrs. Randle sojourned abroad.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Corby of Washington and their young son, Karl, Jr., joined Mr. Corby's mother, Mrs. Charles I. Corby, at the Breakers last week. They plan to remain for the month of February. Mr. and Mrs. Corby are frequent visitors here and have a wide circle of friends in both the hotel and cottage colonies. Mr. Corby is the junior member of the well known brokerage firm of William B. Hibbs Company of Washington. They have a beautiful suburban estate on the Old Rockville Pike where Mr. Corby has a fine stable of show horses. The Corbys have a cabana down at the Breakers Beach and divide their time between surf bathing and golfing.

Among the prominent guests at the Breakers is Dr. M. L. Harris of Chicago, former president of the American Medical Association, and Mrs. Harris. They returned to Palm Beach to spend their twelfth consecutive season, and were joined last week by their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Max von Schlegell of Baltimore, who will remain here for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. George F. Heintzman of Toronto are at the Breakers again after an absence of one winter. With them are their son-in-law and daughter, Col. and Mrs. Goodwin Gibson, also of Toronto. Last year Mrs. Heintzman and Mrs. Gibson made an extensive tour of the Orient.

* * * *

Mr. and Mrs. Albert B. Dewey, Sr., of Washington, are among the prominent season visitors at the Breakers. They are well known in the winter colony, having visited here for many years. Their son, Mr. Charles Dewey, and Mrs. Dewey, recently returned from Warsaw, where Mr. Dewey was financial advisor to the Polish Government. They may join their parents here later, coming over from Bermuda where they have taken a cottage. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dewey, Jr., who had a cottage here last season on Hibiscus Avenue, also expect to visit Palm Beach later in the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Woerz, of New York, who have been annual sojourners at this resort for years, are again wintering at the Breakers. They have with them their daughter, Mrs. L. A. Hamilton, also of New York. During the summer months, Mr. and Mrs. Woerz were at the Lido Club at Long Beach, L. I.

Dorothy Meyer celebrated her fourth birthday at the Breakers recently and at lunch time, her table was the cynosure of all eyes when a huge birthday cake with four burning pink candles was set in front of her place at the family table. Dorothy was the proud recipient of her first corsage when her grandfather, Dr. Meyer, presented her with a dainty bouquet of pink sweet peas in a beautiful gold box. Dorothy, with her sweet and winning ways, has won the hearts of young and old alike at the Breakers, who join in wishing her many happy birthdays.

* * * *

Returning for their usual season at the Breakers are Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Cornwell, of Saginaw, Mich., and their young daughter, Miss Marion Cornwell. They have been numbered among the regulars in Palm Beach for the past fifteen consecutive years.

* * * *

The many Palm Beach friends of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Shreve, of Bordentown, N. J., will be glad to know that they are at the Royal Poinciana here for their twenty-seventh winter. They are expected to be joined by their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. R. Hutchinson, in a week. Mr. and Mrs. Shreve came here after a seven weeks' sojourn in Miami.

Among the prominent guests at the Breakers are Mr. and Mrs. Edward William Edwards, of Cincinnati, and their daughter, Miss Eleanore Edwards, where they are spending the season. They are widely acquainted in Palm Beach as they have been visiting here for years. Mr. Edwards, one of the most prominent manufacturers in the middle west, is a patron of the arts, and a trustee of the Cincinnati Institute of Fine Arts and the Cincinnati Music Hall Association. During the summer months, Mr. and Mrs. Edwards and Miss Edwards traveled abroad, as has been their custom for many years.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Stahl, of Stamford, Conn., are passing their usual winter at the Breakers, where they have hosts of friends. Early in the season they visited at Nassau and flew over from there to Miami. Their son, Mr. George A. Schmidt, and his son, George, Jr., a student at the Harvard Business School were down last month and are planning to visit Mr. and Mrs. Stahl here again in March. Their daughters, Mrs. Henry Blumers, of New York, and Mrs. Otto Webber, of Stamford, Conn., have arrived for their usual visit. Many social activities are planned during their stay.

Count Von Luckner, famous "Sea Devil." The former German raider was a guest of honor at the Ambassador Grill recently. A formal reception was tendered Count and Countess von Luckner and their party, among whom were the famous German sculptress, Baroness Barbara von Kalckreuth, in the Duke of Alba Suite of the Hotel Ambassador, by Mr. and Mrs. V. de Rachevsky. Mr. Rachevsky, president of the Ambassador Hotel Corporation, sent his secretary by airplane to Miami, to represent him and personally invite Count and Countess von Luckner to the Ambassador Hotel. In the Rachevsky party, welcoming Count and Countess von Luckner were Mrs. Herbert Spencer Martin, Countess Anna Zarnekau, Countess de Tukine; Mr. Jules Bache, Capt. Jefferson Cohn and Mr. Ralph B. Strassburger. The Count von Luckner is one of the most heroic and interesting figures of the present day. His raiding and sinking of allied ships during the war gained for him the title of "Sea Devil." His colorful career during the war and his gallantry to foes endeared him to the hearts of friends and foe alike. Today, his one ambition is to be, not a raider of ships, but a raider of hearts, winning friends for his fatherland among the people who formerly were its foes. Count and Countess von Luckner have been making an extended visit in Florida on board their famous yacht "Mopelia," fishing off the Keys and in the gulf stream, while he recovers from the effects of an automobile accident in December in which a number of his ribs were broken. The Countess is a dainty blonde lady, one of the most attractive dancers noted in the Ambassador Grill last week. She was wearing a gown of sea blue lace embroidered in silver, with a jacket of the same filmy material.

Mrs. O. N. Tevander, of Chicago, was hostess at a charmingly appointed luncheon given at the Breakers recently in honor of Mrs. Roy Sharp, of Chicago, sister and house guest of Mrs. Charles M. Andrews, Mrs. Charles M. Hayes, Mrs. Gail Grant, Mrs. Vincent Bloss Ward, Mrs. Blanche Davis, Mrs. Nettie Livermore, Mrs. Nell Kendall, Mrs. Catherine Legget, Mrs. Harry Thomas, Mrs. Louis Valier, Mrs. William A. Snyder, Mrs. George F. Groves, Mrs. George Eddy, Mrs. W. L. Koehne, Mrs. Robert Dutton, Mrs. Walton Parker, Mrs. John Hanson, Mrs. Stewart Coxhead, Mrs. Stanley Warrick, Mrs. Bruce Dodson, Mrs. Bruce Dodson, Jr., and Mrs. Eugene Kaifen.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Lily are season guests at Whitehall. Mrs. Lily is the daughter of Mr. William H. Tod, whose yacht "Pioneer" is again one of the winter fleet in Lake Worth. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Tod and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. McKee are now on board. Mr. McKee is the president of the Board of Aldermen of the City of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Crocker, of Pebble Beach, Cal., and New York, are passing the winter at Whitehall. The Crocker family are among the social leaders of the Pacific Coast and are identified with the smart set of the fashionable Burlingame Club.

TENNIS COURTS AT THE NEW COLONIAL IN NASSAU

COTTAGE COLONY SOCIETY LIFE

RS. OTTO H. KAHN came down from New York during the past fortnight to open the new "Oheka" on the ocean front, next to the Frederick Guest estate, which will be occupied this season by the Kahn family who last winter resided at their old home in Sunset Avenue. This was also known as "Oheka," the name being formed from the first letters of Mr. Kahn's name. Many social and cultural activities are foreseen with the return of these noted colonists. The beautiful new Italian villa was started last summer, originally planned for Mr. and Mrs. Kahn's daughters, Mrs. John Barry Ryan, Jr. and Mrs. J. C. O. Marriott, popular members of the younger set in the resort. The residence on the estate which stretches from the ocean to the lake, includes a large patio, a swimming pool, tennic court, and other popular outdoor features.

Mr. Kahn is famous the world around as a banker and a patron of the arts. He is chairman of the board of the Metropolitan Opera Company and vice-president of the Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra. Mr. Kahn's position in economic and international circles is equally important. In 1918 he was made a commander of the Legion of Honor of France and has also been honored by the Order of the Rising Sun in Japan.

Mr. and Mrs. Quentin F. Feitner were dinner hosts to twelve guests at "Casa Invierno" last week. Tables were set for contract after dinner for their guests who included Capt. and Mrs. R. Amcotts Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Holden, Mr. and Mrs. Peter A. B. Widener II, Mr. and Mrs. J. Gordon Douglas, Jr., Mrs. Gladys Kemp, Mrs. Reginald Boardman, Mrs. John C. Waterbury, and Mr. John Wemple.

Interesting newcomers to the cottage colony who became established during the last fortnight, are Mr. and Mrs. Peter A. B. Widener II, and their two lovely children, Ella and Peter A. B. Widener III. The Wideners have frequented the resort in the past as the guests of Mrs. Widener's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Milton W. Holden, but this is the first time they have taken a house here. They are occupying the Maurice Fatio villa in Jungle Point near the lake. When not in Palm Beach, their time is divided between "Lynnewood Hall" in Elkins Park, Pa., and the Hotel Savoy-Plaza, New York.

Gibbons, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Murphy, and Mr. William McNeil Rodewald.

The Baron was a member of the Ely Culbertson team which won the British-American bridge trophy in England last summer.

During the past week, the apex of cultural activities has been approached if not reached. Musical and artistic events of exceptionally high order were offered the discriminating members of the resort. One of the most enjoyable was the private recital of the New York String Quartet given recently at "Playa Riente," the ocean-front villa of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Dillman. The concert was next to the last to be rendered by the group before its return to New York.

Following the musical program, tea was served in the patio of the palatial residence to guests who included Mr. and Mrs. Henry Seligman, Mr. and Mrs. George Alexander McKinlock, Mrs. W. Seward Webb, Mr. and Mrs. Willey Lyon Kingsley, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Carstairs, Mrs. Edward D. Stair, Mrs. George A. Nicolai, Dr. and Mrs.

Sunday night buffet suppers are among the most popular entertainments of the week-end. The informality of the colonists dropping in at the various homes for a cup of tea, a dainty bite, and a happy exchange of greetings is very attractive. Often musical programs, midway between the customary syncopated arrangements of during-the-week festivities and the exclusively classical offerings of more serious gatherings, are presented and an air of perfect good fellowship prevails.

Mrs. Henry R. Rea engaged the International Quartet last week for her regular weekly supper party at "Lagomar." Among her guests were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Shearson, Mrs. Charles E. Pettis, Mrs. W. B. Schiller, Mr. and Mrs. George Alexander McKinlock, Mr. and Mrs. Willey Lyon Kingsley and Mr. Edward T. Stotesbury.

Mr. and Mrs. Porter are leaving soon for New York and will sail from there to Europe. They have been coming to Palm Beach for a number of years and their presence at social events always adds to the interest of such gatherings. Guests of the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Webb, Mr. and Mrs. Peter A. Porter, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Huntley, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Major, Mrs. Lothrop Randolph and Mr. Richard Swartwout.

White is the "color" for the South this season for it makes a perfect background for the brilliant colored accessories of the mode. This white wool jersey costume has a multi-colored new sash and scarf to mark it 1931. Model from Franklin Simon & Co.

This smart loafing outfit combines the regulation French fisherman's shirt of red and white striped jersey with a pair of red French jersey trousers. A stitched pique hat in red and white stripes completes the costume. Presented by Hatch's, Inc.

A necklace copied from Maggie Rouff's Algerian jewelry is worn with an Antibes shirt and one of Best's new "Softie" hats. They are made of flannel with a soft crown. The brim is stiffened by rows of stitching. It comes in delightful shades.

One of the new Sunshine Fashions. A printed chiffon like this might well be used for teatime or dinner hour. It is smartly trimmed with the new fur banding on jacket cuffs. Seen at Burdine's.

Mrs. Edward Hale Kendall III, the former Miss Louise Ewing McAnerney. Her wedding gown was an antique satin gown cut on Vionnet lines, with a yoke and cuffs of old family rose point. A long diamond-shaped train was draped from the waist. Gown and veil were executed by Jay-Thorpe.

Dotted sinellic one-piece dress with a matching blue knitted coat-striped kid belt—white felt hat—black and white buckskin opera pumps are worn with this ensemble created for southern wear and shown by Bergdorf Goodman.

TASTES AND TOILETTES

JEWELRY has always been an important adjunct of women's dress, in some faraway lands and times becoming more or less a substitute for it. Jewels have never been more magnificent nor more in favor than at the present time, but, thank whatever gods of good taste there may be, formal jewels are now worn only on formal occasions. We do not find madame chasing the elusive golf ball and wearing pearls of nearly the same size dangling over her panting bosom. In spite of the classic pronouncement of a late resident of the resort that people "who has 'em wears 'em." Sports jewelry has taken on a delightful aspect and in the various shops about town you will find pieces of comparatively small intrinsic value but providing gay bits of adornment that women love.

Some of these have for their motif the things that spell Florida to those who have wintered in her sunny clime, graceful little palm trees with trunks of baguette crystals and beautifully modeled green fronds, and now we see the sailfish, prized trophy of days of sport in the Gulf Stream, made the decorative motif of many interesting pieces. You will see its crystal gleam and fascinating outline hanging from a slender wrist or accenting the point of a neckline. You will also see it dangling from a keychain or holding a mannish tie from interfering with its wearer's vision. Salifish . . . and palm trees . . . what could more gracefully represent Palm Beach?

* * * *

Miss Xilpha Irene Hicks is a striking blonde wintering at the New Palm Beach with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. I. Clay Hicks of Huntington, West Virginia, who wears exceptionally smart sport clothes. On her way to the beach last week she was noted in a jaunty dress of white worn with a powder blue jacket and matching hat.

* * * *

Blue is favored by Mrs. Albert H. Veeder of Chicago, who came into the dining room of the New Palm Beach Hotel for luncheon last week in a becoming linen dress made along simple lines, but so cleverly cut that the effect was decidedly distinctive. Tight fitting at the hips, pleats about twelve inches deep gave fullness to the skirt. A bolero jacket with short scalloped sleeves was another attractive feature.

* * * *

Miss Zipporah Maloney was seen in the lobby of the New Palm Beach Hotel where she is spending the season, wearing a flowered chiffon dinner dress with a jacket of the same filmy material, with elbow length sleeves bordered in brown fur.

* * * *

The "Walkie Talkie"—the dance young people are affecting at the popular night clubs and restaurants, gives fair maidens an opportunity to display their lovely gowns from every possible angle. One little Miss noted at the Muleteer Grill of the Ambassador last week looked exquisitely fragile in a long white lace dress, the skirt of which was a series of tiny ruffles. As she turned to walk along with her partner in the new manner, a diminutive silk cape embellishing the not-too-low back, rippled gracefully.

* * * *

Mrs. George Rassmussen, seen at the Playhouse, wore a gown of chiffon printed in black, white and coral, with a wrap of coral velvet in three-quarter length. Her blonde hair was arranged in a fascinating manner, little short curls clustering closely about her beautifully shaped head.

* * * *

Mrs. Hugh Dillman, who is one of the first-nighters at the Playhouse, wore chiffon in one of the new shades of grayish green spangled with tiny silver paillettes. The low bodice had a cape ruffle. Her cape was of ermine and her jewels emeralds and diamonds.

* * * *

Miss Alice De Lamar wore a strikingly simple gown of yellow moire, with a peplum flounce and a large bow posed in back.

* * * *

Mrs. John R. Bryden favored white satin for her gown, and her coat of rose and gold brocade was topped by a huge white fox collar.

* * * *

Mrs. John H. Gibbons of the cottage colony wears a stunning Calot gown of pale green and printed yellow chiffon fashioned on long trailing lines. A distinctive note was a long trailing scarf of the self material bordered with sable.

Mrs. Walter Hopkins of Baltimore, a guest at the Breakers, was among the dinner guests at the Everglades Club the other evening and wore a lovely gown of cornflower blue chiffon with a delicate white flower motif. The bodice was molded on form-fitting lines with a low back decolletage accented with a large flat bow of blue velvet. The skirt was very billowy, held out with horsehair braid.

* * * *

Mrs. Wiley R. Reynolds was noted on the same occasion wearing a gown of lace, black combined with white, the black lace forming a sort of overdress for the floor length flounce of white, very unusual and extremely effective. Her coat of black velvet had a white ermine collar and elbow cuffs of ermine.

* * * *

Another lovely French importation is worn by Mrs. George F. Groves of the Breakers winter colony. It is a Cheruit model of pale blue Chantilly chiffon with a deep black lace hip yoke in scalloped design. An accompanying coat of chiffon has godets of the lace.

* * * *

Miss Josephine Buckley, a charming member of the young hotel set, looks stunning in a dinner gown of creamy white silk crepe with a surplice bodice tied with a little bow at the front. A short coat of matching silk featured a deep cuff of sable and brown crepe slippers and brown chiffon handkerchief were interesting accessories.

* * * *

Mrs. Reed Albee was a dinner hostess to several friends at the Patio Marguery recently and looked very lovely attired in long flowing gown of white satin taffeta, the satin and taffeta used in alternating spiral striped effect. A very high waistline was accented by a narrow belt fastened at the front with a jeweled buckle. A wrap of white velvet with a molded waistline and slight peplum effect bordered with white fox, the same fur was used for the deep collar.

* * * *

Mrs. Philip Sawyer of Clarke Avenue was noted the other evening wearing a becoming frock of sea wave blue lace, with an interesting detail of lattice work design at the back which was cut very low. Flared godets relieved the simplicity of the skirt below the knees.

* * * *

Mrs. Sidney Smith of Chicago who is spending several weeks at the Breakers with her famous husband, wears an exquisite frock of turquoise blue crepe and silver with a molded silhouette to the knees where the skirt is released in a shirred fullness. Her shoulders are bare with a scarf-like fichu draped and tied at the front.

* * * *

Miss Betty Greene of the Breakers was a guest of honor at a dinner party at the Colony Club the other night, and was attired in a lovely delicate white lace frock. A series of tiny ruffles outlined the shoulders which were bare in the old-fashioned 1860 manner. The same ruffle treatment was repeated at the knees. White crepe slippers and a lace-bordered handkerchief were interesting details.

* * * *

Mrs. Harry Norment of Washington, a guest at Whitehall, visited the Royal Poinciana Breakers beach the other morning and looked very attractive in a jumper frock of gay paisley pattern, worn with a pale yellow blouse and a wide brimmed hat of yellow baku.

* * * *

Mrs. Arthur Lipper of New York, also of Whitehall, visited the cabana of friends on the same day and wore a bouclé two-piece sport suit in a lovely shade of sea blue. A accompanying finger tip coat fastened with crystal buttons and her tiny brimmed felt hat of matching shade featured a jaunty crystal pin.

* * * *

Miss Peggy Kerney of the Breakers sponsors the new striped frock and wears a youthful belted version in shaded green, white and black stripes. A tiny rippled cape collar is very becoming with her beret of white with a green and black jeweled clip at the side.

* * * *

Mrs. Herbert Meyer also of the Breakers wears a great deal of blue and recently was noted costumed in an ensemble of madonna blue crepe, the one-piece dress featuring a deep circular collar which was worn outside of the accompanying belted coat. A wide brimmed ball-bunt hat was smartly trimmed with flat appliqued flowers in pastel shades.

NEW YORK BREVITIES

BY LAWRENCE MORE

FOR THE comedy of manners, you simply have to hand the guerdon to those English. They have a dash, a touch, which we Americans have not yet achieved. After all, why shouldn't they? Manners, sophistication, are so essentially a lineament of their patriciate that it well comes easy to them to weave a beguiling little domestic farragos upon the pattern of the drama. From Oscar Wilde to Noel Coward and Leslie Howard they have easily dominated the firth of froth. To the Russians and Germans and us hydra-blooded Americans they leave the labor of the problem plays—which are so often neither problematic nor conclusive.

And thus it is a rare and encouraging pleasure to walk in upon the opening of so effervescent and sparkling a thing as "Private Lives," which Noel Coward invented, wrote, directed, nursed, and lugged into the Times Square Theatre last week, starring in it himself by way of polishing off a first rate job.

Here is the drama recherché at the height of its subtle efficacy: precocious, trim, big-town, fresh, agile, pungent, urbane. Mr. Coward knows his Mayfairites and he spins the involution of their lives with the gift of a necromancer; you follow its nebulous tangents with the fascination you bestow upon the ascending bubbles in a glass of champagne. At the end there is little more than nothing, but how intriguing it all was!

I should say, then, that "Private Lives" was the opening of the week. And, in a manner of speaking, how.

* * * *

The Theatre Guild went native with "Green Grow the Lilacs." Lynn Rigg's play is a sort of violent, loamy comedy, full of good intentions, the smell of the soil—and a little ennui. It takes you out into the great open spaces at the turn of the century and lets you sniff at the sod. A strong play which at times threatens real power but never quite comes off.

Ben Hecht is one of those writers about whom the critics do not seem to be able to make up their minds. It is the critic, sooner or later, who passes sentence upon the applicant at the court of immortality. As a jury, the critics retired with the case of Hecht vs. Mediocrity eight years ago but have never since returned with their decision.

I believe that Hecht is generally unappreciated simply because the real man is unknown. I say "the real man" when I think of the author of the classically sculptured "Fantasius Mallare" and "The Kingdom of Evil," of that sardonic masterpiece, "Count Bruga," and of that early study in disillusionment, "Erich Dorn."

How many have read these books? Among my acquaintances I have many who beguile a privy pride as litterateurs. Yet they will drop like ten pins when you bowl this Hecht into them.

The first two books I named are already classics, and the introduction to "Fantasius," vitriolic manumission of the aesthetic soul, should be filed among the chefs-d'oeuvres of immortality, plaintiff against the auto-admiration of America, which antedates by many years our modern debunking debauch and transcends the jibbery of Sinclair Lewis as the eagle does the hen.

"Count Bruga" was never appreciated because it was too clever, too brutal, and at once too acrimonious and too sentimental.

Thus Ben Hecht is generally known as a Jewish newspaperman from Chicago who suddenly leaped into national cognizance with Thespian melodramas like "The Front Page" and cinematic shrapnel like "Underworld." Hecht likes to live well, and he is not above turning his pen to kladderadatsch in order that his bath may be drawn late, and in a tiled tub with gold fittings. He enjoys the good old sport of épater les bourgeois (of whom he is one), and thumbs his nose at the dolts who pay his bills.

I feared that caviar and champagne had developed artistic indigestion in the old Hecht . . . until I read "A Jew in Love." Although there are in this book moments of careless writing (for you can imagine how Ben must have had to keep that appointment with the film magnate, with the magazine editor, with the sweet young thing), there is none the less the flavor of the original brilliance. There are the same startling effects, the identical acerbity and blunt nonchalance, the sexual aberrations and stylistic somersaults, the velvet prose . . . "A Jew in Love" is a powerful literary achievement.

I say, therefore, that this is the book of the week.

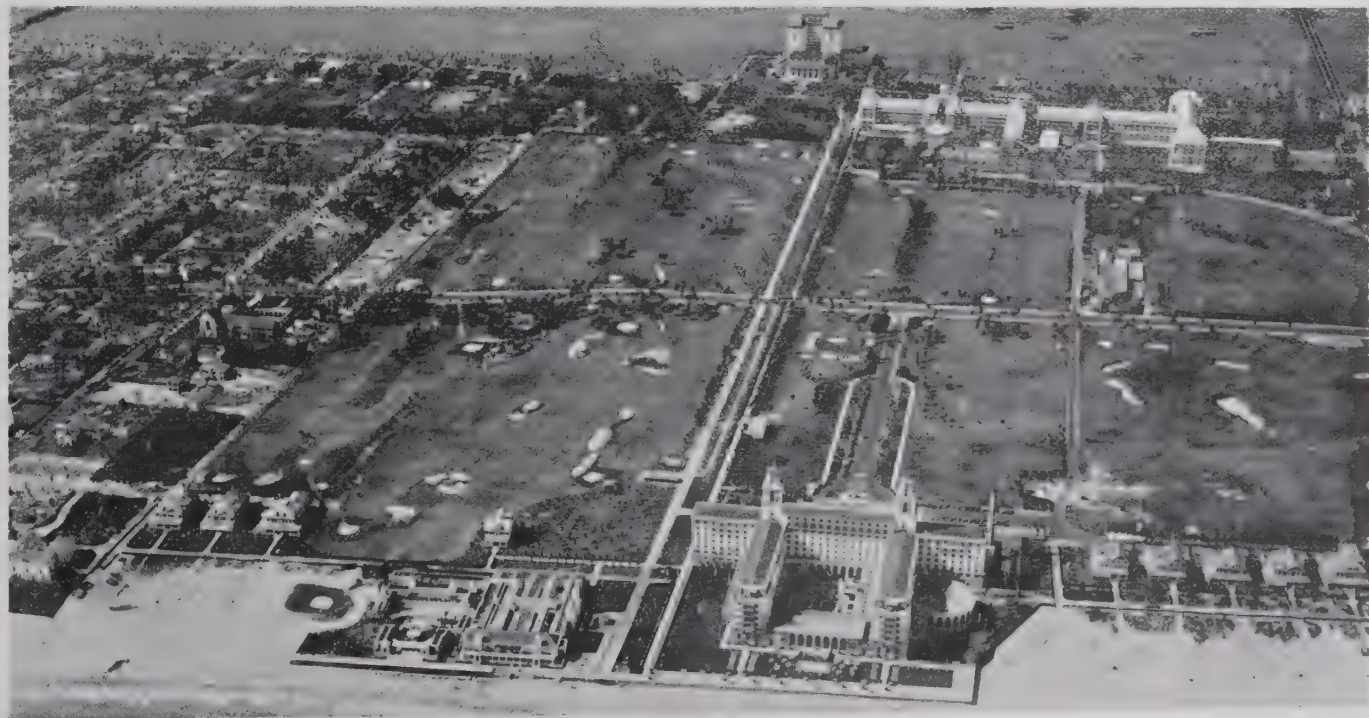

* * * *

Rudy Vallee was grapefruited in Boston, Doug and Mary have gone "pfft," the Saturday Evening Post now appears with cigarette advertising, Mulrooney is trying to close the night clubs at 1 a. m., Barbara Barnes has opened a book shop where the cheapest tome is $1,000, Florenz Ziegfeld is broke . . . these are the hors d'oeuvres of the week, who authenticity I neither vouch for nor care about.

* * * *

The French have a saying that gets around to something like this: "You sing better than a horse but you do not run so fast." I have been trying to thread this through the eye of the Mulrooney needle, but it buckles every time. Can the old fellow really be serious? . . .! . . . why, most night clubs aren't even open at 1 o'clock . . .!

Last week found a number of young people coming down for a few days to make merry before returning to their schools in the north for the second semester. Enjoying a brief holiday after their mid-term examinations they were entertained at clubs, restaurants, and in the homes. Mrs. Alexander A. Other guests were Mrs. Nickols, Miss Antoinette Johnson, Miss Audrey Barret, Mrs. George Lowther III, Mr. Jack Treat and Mr. Vincent Mulford. THE ROMANY CHORUS

PALM BEACH is proud of the Romany Chorus, her own contribution to the cultural life of the country. Already these young singers, organized three years ago by Mrs. George A. Dobyne, have become famous throughout the entire nation and on the night of Friday, February 20th, they will bring opera to the resort, presenting "I Pagliacci," by Leoncavallo, at the Everglades Club. The night will be a memorable one in the history of the resort as the production and all connected with it belong so completely to Palm Beach. The Romany Chorus had its beginning here, the singers themselves live here, and the setting in which they will make their presentation is typical of Palm Beach and nowhere else in the world.

A stage will be erected in the Orange Gardens of the Everglades Club and the scenic effects are being designed by Mr. Hugh Dillman who has returned to the resort this winter after a year's absence. Mrs. George L. Mesker, also a winter resident, has been busy studying costumes of the middle nineteenth century and has been in charge of reproducing them exactly for the performers.

Mr. Robert Frederick Freund, local instructor, and Maestro B. Gagliano, coach of Metropolitan Opera stars, have been training the singers while Mr. George A. Dobyne has been guiding them in the dramatic work. Mr. John Charles Thomas, famous baritone, Mrs. Dobyne's son-in-law, who was to have appeared in the production is on a concert tour and will not be present.

Benar Barzelay's orchestra will be an important feature in the presentation and it is largely through this assistance that the Leoncavallo opera can be given here.

The arrangement of boxes around the dance floor has been named by Mrs. Dobyne, the "Coral Reef," and she has suggested that patrons bring Spanish shawls to throw over the boxes, following the Cuban custom. The gay embroideries on large silken scarves will add to the foreign and festive atmosphere.

The leading characters in the opera are:

Nedda (in the play, Columbine), a strolling player, wife of Canio—soprano, Beryl Blake.

Canio (in the play, Punchinello), master of the troupe—tenor, Edward Jardon.

Tonio, the clown (in the play, Taddeo)—baritone, Ernesto Dodds

Beppe (in the play, Harlequin)—tenor, Robert Atkisson.

Silvio, villager—baritone, Robert Frederick Freund.

The opera patrons and patronesses are: Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Pillsbury, the Hon. Mrs. Frederick E. Guest, Mrs. W. Seward Webb, Mr. and Mrs. John F. SPORTS IN PALM BEACH

HE annual South Florida Championship Tournament which started yesterday on the course of the Palm Beach Golf Club has been the cause of much golf activity for the past week. The number of most excellent golfers who did not win the Lake Worth Tournament last month are out again, vowing that this time it will be a different story. Judging from the number of crack amateurs showing up every day at the Club, Arthur "Ducky" Yates is going to get some stiff competition before this tournament comes to a close.

Yates had a sweet time of it in the Lake Worth Tournament, sailing gracefully through all opposition and landing at the top after handing A. L. Stover of Windsor, Canada, a severe beating in the final 36-hole round. With the exception of the medal round, Yates brought in the lowest score every day. He got a 69 on the first day of match play, 67 on the second and a 63 on the first 18 holes on the final. The second round only went as far as the 4th hole.

If Yates continues to play that brand of golf, it is going to be well nigh impossible to beat him.

Last year Jack Butler, big seige gun from West Palm Beach, won the South Florida championship and he is on hand to defend his title.

A brief resume of the tournament last year: Yates won the qualifying round with a 71 and Gordon Taylor of Toronto was runner up with a 72. Others in the first flight were: Albert Hakes, W. Connellan, G. M. Petee, Jack Butler, Tommy Goodwin, M. A. Carroll and Gordon Taylor.

The big surprise of the tournament occurred on the first day of match play when Albert Hakes handed Ducky Yates a 2 up and 1 to go defeat. Everyone thought Ducky invincible and, after his elimination, the other first flighters took heart.

On the third day of match play Albert Hakes defeated G. M. Petee, 2-1; Jack Butler defeated Tommy Goodwin 5-4; Gordon Taylor defeated M. A. Carroll 3-2; Connellan defeated W. A. Bartle 3-2.

On the next day Jack Butler had a hard time of it taking Gordon Taylor into camp to the score of 2-1, and W. Connellan defeated Albert Hakes 3-2.

On the final round, Butler won the championship by defeating Connellan 4 and 2.

Also, we might add, if Butler plays the kind of golf he did last year, he too will be hard to beat.

Another formidable golfer is young Tommy Goodwin of New York City. He came out fairly well in the Lake Worth Tournament, being eliminated by Ducky in the semi-finals. The youngster did wonderfully well last week in the Championship of Golf Club Champions Tournament in St. Augustine. Tommy won the medal round in the face of mighty stiff competition and a brisk gale. Tommy also has a couple of new born course records to his credit.

Albert Hakes of Dunkirk, New York, must always be reckoned with whenever he enters a tournament. Although perhaps not playing as spectacular a game as Yates or Goodwin, Albert has cool nerves and an exceptional ability in getting gracefully out of tight places.

If A. L. Stover, runner up in the Lake Worth Tournament can straighten out his iron shots and improve his putting a little, he will reach the semi-finals with very little doubt.

W. B. Langford, veteran of the Old Guard Society, is almost always among the first ten in the qualifying round and will give any golfer a hard time.

William Henry Hyde, champion of Western Pennsylvania, got away to a bad start in the Lake Worth Tournament and landed in the second sixteen. However, he made up for it and won the flight. He should land in the first sixteen of the South Florida Tournament.

C. W. Kittleman, champion of the Mississippi Delta, and four times champion of the state of Mississippi, who was the medalist in the Lake Worth affair, should give the boys plenty to worry about this week.

In short, this South Florida Championship Tournament promises to be something of a golf affair.

Among those who entered the tournament are: C. W. Kittleman, Greenville, Miss.; Arthur Yates, Rochester, N. Y.; R. P. Ellis, Bridgeport, Conn.; W. B. Langford, Chicago; Tommy Goodwin, New York City; Richard Cromwell, Hollywood, Calif.; Roy Gussman, West Palm Beach; Robert Crosbie, Boston; Jack Butler, West Palm Beach; Albert R. Hakes, Dunkirk, N. Y.; R. C. Garretson, Ashland, Ohio; Leon Sikes, West Palm Beach; H. L. Willoughby, Philadelphia; A. L. Stover, Windsor, Canada; Frank McDonald, West Palm Beach; George Lynn, New York City; William MacNeill, Philadelphia; William Henry Hyde, Ridge, Pa.; O. L. Brailey, Toledo; M. C. Flanders, New York City; Howard A. Kelley, Buffalo; C. H. Lehman, Pittsburgh; Blaine Zuver, Masselon, Ohio; Clive Alvord, Greenwich, Conn.; E. S. Davidson, West Palm Beach; H. S. Rauh, New York City; A. C. Speyer, Pittsburgh; W. A. McKechney, Philadelphia; E. G. Lauder, New York City; R. A. Sweet, Binghamton, N. Y.; H. Pemberton, Toronto, Canada; James Ellison, New York City; W. T. Arnold, Elberton, Ga.; Elmer Jordan, New York City; Harrison Ball, New York City; C. J. Claudon, Fairbury, Ill.; N. B. Spingold, New York City; G. William Phillips, Salisbury, Md.; F. S. Demarest, Freeport, Long Island; George H. Keim, New York City; A. S. Healey, New York City;

OLD GUARD SOCIETY

The second Old Guard Society Tournament of the current season started last Wednesday and the members certainly turned out in force. In spite of a windy day, and a little difficulty in pairing up, a great many scores, most of them good ones, were turned into the clubhouse at the close of the day's play.

The schedule for the first day called for a qualifying round of 2-ball foursomes of 18 holes. The members had various handicaps, drives were selected and three flights of two-man teams qualified for the match play.

John G. Connor and H. M. Voorhees brought in the low score of 76. There was a tie for second place with A. M. Banker and George Keim, and the redoubtable team of John Shepard, Jr., and W. B. Langford, each bringing in a 78. There was a triple tie for third place. The following teams got an 80: F. J. Wetzel and D. L. Luke; Hugh Willoughby, Jr. and Dr. Edmond LeRoy Dow and J. A. Hull and Phil Corbin.

EVERGLADES CLUB

The Everglades Club has never enjoyed a better or more lively golf season since its beginning about ten years ago.

The original course of the club was only nine holes, and it has only been in the past few years that it has developed into a full-sized 18-hole course.

Day after day the members and their friends turn out in full force, and rain or shine, cool or warm weather, there is always someone driving and putting around the Everglades Club.

Among those who are seen almost every day are: Walter C. Slack, Albert Donnell, John Blodgett, Arthur Somers Roche, Creighton Webb, R. S. Sheldon, Nathan D. Bill, Winthrop Williams, T. R. Cowell, Mrs. John Shepard, Jr., Peter A. Porter, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Warner, H. E. Candler, Mrs. Arthur L. Hakes. Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Jergens, D. A. Noyes, John N. Steele, J. Terry West, E. J. TENNIS

Now that the first of the big tennis tournaments in Palm Beach is less than two weeks away, many of the crack amateurs, both men and women, are practicing with a will and getting themselves in the peak of perfection for the forthcoming matches.

Outside of the round robin playing at the Palm Beach Tennis Club, the courts are being crowded from sun up to sun down. George Agutter and his assistants, Rudy Noble, A. Rudolph and Bob Murray, are having their hands full playing with the hopeful contestants.

In fact, tennis is looming on the horizon as a major outdoor attraction this season.

In the tournaments the women get the first chance to supply the tennis thrills. Championship play will get away to a good start with the Women's Championship of Florida Tournament, singles, to take place on the courts of the Palm Beach Tennis Club from February 23rd to the 28th. There will be two prizes, one for the winner and one for the runner up.

The gold cup, symbolic of this championship, must be won three times to be retained permanently by any one player. The second cup is now in play, the original one having been won by Molla Burjstadt Mallory.

The Women's Championship of Florida doubles will be held at the same time as the singles. There will be four prizes for this contest, two for the winners and two for the runners up.

Mrs. B. F. Stenz of New York won her finals match in the Championship of Florida Tournament last year, defeating Miss Virginia Hilleary, 6-0, 6-3.

Mrs. J. L. Bremer and Mrs. William Endicott defeated Mrs. Stenz and her daughter, Claire, 6-1, 6-2 and won the doubles title.

The Men's Championship of Florida Tournaments, singles and doubles, will be held at the Tennis Club from March 2nd to the 7th. The present Royal Poinciana Silver Bowl, emblematic of the singles championship, is the third of its kind to be in play. This bowl was won for the first time last year by J. Gilbert Hall.

In winning the bowl, and also the Championship for the year, Hall defeated the runner up, Richard Norris Williams II, 6-4, 8-6, 6-4.

Among the prominent amateur tennis players and Palm Beach sportsmen who will compete for the Men's Championship of Florida are Richard Norris Williams II, Manuel Alonzo, Frederick C. Inmann, John Van Ryn, Wilmer Allison, Elmer Griffen, John S. Phipps, Howard C. Brokaw, Rodman Wannamaker II, Francis T. Hunter, George W. Wrightman, Howard Voshell, Edwin Fuller Torrey, George Myers Church, Craig Biddle, Edward Crozer, F. H. Harris, George M. Lott, Jr., John Hennessey, Percy L. Kynaston, G. Carleton Shafer, Wilber F. Coen, Jr., Frank X. Shields, James Van Alen, Jock McLean, Lawrence B. Rice, Frederic Mercur.

Among the probable entries in the Women's Championship of Florida Tournament are: Mrs. Molla Burjstadt Mallory, Miss Elizabeth Ryan, Miss Mary K. Browne, Miss Penelope Anderson, Miss Phyllis Walsh, Miss Julia Brokaw, Lady D. Hely-Hutchison, Mrs. Bernard F. Wrightman, Miss Elanor Goss, Miss Elizabeth Choate, Miss Virginia Hilleary, Miss Dorothy Andrus and Miss Genevieve Fox.

The Southern Professional Championship Tournament will be held from March 10th to the 14th. Among the practically certain contestants are: George Agutter, Arthur Rudolph, Rudy Noble and Robert Murray of the Palm Beach Tennis Club; John Cartegna, Jack Rogers, Dan Kenney and Jim Kenney of the Bath and Tennis Club; James Bevan and Marty Simmons of the Everglades Club; Vincent Richards, Ed Faulkner, Hans Hummel and Charles M. Wood, Jr.

The first Sunday of round robin tennis play at the Palm Beach Tennis Club got under way February 1st. The matches are professional-amateur affairs and a fair number of the winter colony turned out and teamed up with the professionals and put on some snappy doubles affairs.

Ed Faulkner and Rudolph Noble had a mighty tough time of it coming out with top honors for the day, as Arthur Rudolph and Jack Rogers put up some stiff competition. In fact, there was only the difference of one game between the winning and second teams. Ed Faulkner hails from Boca Raton and, as everyone knows, Rudy is one of the popular pros at the Palm Beach Tennis Club.

The Results:	won	lost

Of great interest to the tennis world is Helen Wills' (Mrs. Frederick S. Moody) comeback this year. Contrary to the prevalent opinion Helen will defend her Wimbledon title and her National Amateur Championship.

Elmer Griffen, New York stock broker and star amateur tennis player, who has lived in San Francisco for thirty years and who has played with Helen since she was fifteen years old, made the startling announcement last week in Palm Beach.

Helen has given most of her energy to attaining perfection in her tennis and, now that she is at the top, she has no idea of giving up, marriage to the contrary notwithstanding. And Mr. Moody is perfectly willing. So Helen will be on the boat early in June headed for England where she will proceed to worry the life out of the English and French stars.

In October at Forest Hills, Long Island, Helen will be very much in evidence defending her title against Sarah Palfrey, Marjory Morrill, Mrs. Mallory and others.

Mr. Griffen states that Helen will, in all probability, make a clean sweep of both the Wimbledon and National Amateur affairs, as there is no serious competition for her at the present time, either here or on the Continent.

HAVANA

BACKGAMMON has made its appearance on the sea sands to become Havana's latest fad. Although the game heretofore had not made a public bow in Cuba, it apparently has received instantaneous acclaim for since early in the week the resort's beaches have been something of a patch-work of backgammon boards, and the rattle of the dice is becoming a familiar sound to the thousands of smartly attired Americans who spend lazy days on the sands of Havana's La Playa. Not since the advent of Mah-jong have beach goers found any pastime as fitted for beach use as backgammon. Playful breezes long ago removed bridge from this category. But backgammon seems destined for a long and uninterrupted run, the colony believes, because of its adaptability to beach use.

The steamship lines, travel agencies and other tourist interests virtually agreed that February is to be the banner month in Cuba this season, the American colony here are looking forward to intensified activities within the next fortnight. American travelers are rapidly learning that Cuba's political disturbances are entirely apart from the entertainment of its guests and present indications are that thousands of sunshine seekers from the United States will visit the island this month.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Mitchell Palmer, widely known in Washington society, figured in a round of luncheons and dinners; Augustus Tack, leading American mural painter, was feted by friends; and John F. Curry, Tammany leader, with his large party of friends were greeted here by many prominent visitors.

The regular weekly dinner dance at the Havana American Jockey Club was the magnet for a majority of the elect now in Havana.

A number of intimate parties were among the large crowd in attendance. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Francis Coe, of New York, were hosts to Mr. and Mrs. Lee Howell, of New York, Mrs. David Sloan, Mrs. Sloan Hilton, Mr. and Mrs. Juan F. Rivera and Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Charles.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fleischman, of New York, entertained Mr. and Mrs. William Cumming, of New York, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Smith and H. C. Hatch, prominent Canadian turfman, and Mrs. Hatch.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Curry entertained a large party at dinner in the Hotel Nacional, including Mr. and Mrs. Edward McCarthy, Mr. and Mrs. John Dunphy, Dr. Filberto Rivero, Dr. Eugenio Molinet, secretary of public instruction, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. O'Brien, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Frank, and Mr. and Mrs. F. McCormick.

Many persons of international repute are flocking to this country from all parts of the globe, with the largest contingent coming from the United States. The Gran Casino Nacional is crowded to capacity, especially on gala nights. Likewise at the Sevilla Biltmore, National Hotel of Cuba, Almendares, Sans Souci, and other institutions.

Colonel Frank Halford, United States Marines, visited this city for several days.

Mr. A. Mitchell Palmer, former Alien Property Custodian of the United States, is here for several days.

Mr. W. A. Chamberlin is here with a cruising party en route to the West Indies, on the steamer "Heredia." A luncheon was given at the Havana American Jockey Club to the party before leaving this city.

A benefit bridge is to take place at the National Hotel sponsored by Cuban and American women, in behalf of the blind persons at the Varona Suarez institution. The affair is to take place on Lincoln's Birthday, February 12, and many reservations have been made already.

Mr. William G. Gardner, former British Consul in New York, after several weeks' visit in this city, has departed for Palm Beach for the remainder of the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Reed, of New York, celebrated their silver wedding anniversary with an interesting party at the National Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Roberto Fernandez Romeu, who were married Thursday night in the Parochial church of Vedado, culminating a romance of much interest in Habanero society, are spending their honeymoon at the Hotel Presidente.

The bride is the former Miss Berta de Vega Flores y Delfin, daughter of Dr. Benjamin de Vega Flores. Lorenzo Fernandez Hermo, Cuban senator, is the father of the groom. Witnesses for the nuptial ceremony were Commander Manuel Espinosa, personal representative of the president of Cuba; Dr. Clemente Bazquez Bello, president of the senate; Commander Alberto Barreras, vice president of the senate; Senator Viriato Gutierrez; General Alberto Herrera, chief of the Cuban army; Dr. Carlos Miguel de Cespedes, president of the Union Club; Jose del Junco, paymaster of the senate; Dr. Manuel Ramires Ramos, Dr. Eduardo Escasena, Dr. Julio Delfin, Antonio Tella, Francisca Naya, Antonio Fernandez, Villasuso and Armando Delfin.

Sunday afternoon brought a smart gathering of society people to the patio of the Almendares for the tea dance.

Noted among the numerous guests were Dr. and Mrs. Jacinto Pedroso, Mr. and Mrs. Salamon Maduro, Mr. and Mrs. Gonzalez E. Arostegui, and Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Gould; Mr. and Mrs. Luis Mendoza, Mr. and Mrs. Panchito Pla, Mr. and Mrs. Fernando Mendoza, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Hatch, owners of the thoroughbred "Boys Howdy," winner of the Turismo cup, Miss Mildred Hatch, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Cumming, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Smith.

Mrs. Ivan Woodward of New York City arrived by plane from Miami Tuesday, and is stopping at the Hotel Presidente.

Mr. George B. Rice and Mr. Joseph Newman came in aboard the S. S. Morro Castle Tuesday morning from New York City and are guests at the Hotel Presidente.

Mr. Frederick Kessler, manager of the Hotel Presidente, has announced that the Chateau Madrid orchestra will take part in the musical entertainment at next Saturday's tea dance, augmenting the regular program of Alfredo Bolet's orchestra. These affairs have been a vogue here since the terrace was opened, two seasons ago, and attract cosmopolitan gatherings weekly.

pioneers, flying the English Channel second to Bleriot.

Among the week-end guests at the Hotel Plaza is a little group of friends from the same neighborhood in Columbus, Ohio, Mrs. W. H. Milhon, her father, James S. Walters; J. W. Dusenbury and W. J. Dusenbury and the latter's nephew, Frank A. Roberts. Mrs. Milhon and her father will leave Monday for Palm Beach to join Mrs. Walters but the others will go on down through the island, stopping at points of interest along the way.

The predominance of white satin among the many smart creations gracing the dance floor on the popular roof garden of the Hotel Sevilla Biltmore leads one to believe that milady has discovered the chic effect of its lustre against the sun-tan acquired on the golden sands of La Playa. Moreover, the Parisian couturiers have pointed out the successful effect of white satin with contrasting costume jewelry or with an evening cloak in a dashing color.

One of the outstanding gowns appearing on the dance floor Tuesday evening was that of Mrs. Walter B. Lorimer of New York, which featured white satin designed along simple lines and worn with a short jacket trimmed with wide bands about the full sleeves and neck in dark brown fur which closely matched the tones of her coiffeur. The chosen white satin gown in another instance had a stunning accompanying wrap of the same satin, trimmed with glittering gold sequins, while a third was disclosed under the rich hue of a red velvet wrap with a necklace of rubies carrying out the effect.

One of the outstanding gowns appearing on the dance floor Thursday night was that of Mrs. Veador Leonard of Baltimore, which was of the new cricket green, with a full skirt slightly bouffant, and a low cut decolletage with shoulder straps of green sequins, which also added their unusual note to the bodice.

Among those noted at parties on the roof garden last evening were Mr. and Mrs. H. W. MacKinnon, with Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Harwood; Dr. and Mrs. Enrique J. Varona and A. D. Boardman of Miami; Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Morehouse and Mrs. Eugene Verga; Dr. and Mrs. Veador Leonard of Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Nash and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas E. Nash of Norwalk, Conn.; Mr. and Mrs. John J.

After an afternoon of watching the white sails of graceful yachts outlined against the blues of Cuba's sky and sea, a large number of participants and interested bystanders gathered in the patio of the Hotel Sevilla Biltmore to celebrate the successful opening of the yachting season, Thursday afternoon.

Facundo Bacardi, who presented the Bacardi Cup to the victorious yacht of the Havana fleet, was host to a gay group of friends including Miss Lucille Godard-Kent, radio artist of New York; Miss Edna Phelps, Miss Dora Lust, R. Valiente and a changing number of friends who stopped to exchange greetings with the jovial vice-president of the company which has contributed to the fame of Santiago de Cuba.

A congenial party from Ohio entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Anderson of Cleveland were Mrs. Cora F. Reinthal, Mrs. Gustav Bamberger, Miss Marjorie Cover, Miss Blanche Smith, Miss Harriet Schaffner, Mrs. Ethel Uberbrunner, all of Cleveland; Dr. and Mrs. A. E. Brant, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Roller, all of Youngstown; and Mr. and Mrs. H. Henry of Alliance, Ohio. A group of Havana residents included Ramon Gomez, Arturo del Barrio, Mrs. Gene Castro and Malle Gonzalez, who were guests of Ramon Gonzalez. Others seated about the patio included Miss Polly Jones, Rolby Jones and George Herrick; Mrs. Dusen and Mr. and Mrs. James Krimke; Mrs. Pollack and Mrs. Wolff of New York; Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Shafer of Columbus, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Harmon of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Harvey D. Symonds and Fred G. Kreckell, Mr. and Mrs. R. Cooper, Jr.

the new-size ball

WITH the coming of the new-size ball, came the question in the minds of many golfers, as to whether the new specifications would make all golf balls equal. To answer that question, Spalding offers the following facts:

1. In more than 5,000 driving machine tests on balls of every make, it was definitely established that the new-size Spalding ball outdrives every other new-size ball.
2. Leading professionals, in the most accurate human tests that can be made, also outdrive, with the new-size Spalding, every other new-size ball.

It's easy to understand why this is true. For a slight change in size and weight can't nullify the experience Spalding has accumulated since making the first golf ball in America. It can't lessen the Spalding knowledge of ballistics, windings, and cover markings. It can't take from the Spalding those qualities of greatness that only Spalding has been able to put into a golf ball!

PEACEFUL, SUNNY SECLUSION IN THE HEART OF NEW YORK

FOR the first time city residences completely surrounded by gorgeous gardens, grassy terraces, river frontage and quiet streets, with sunshine and air forever assured on every side—a private yacht landing for the convenience and pleasure of those who make their home here.

And the cost is less than similarly fine apartments in hackneyed uninteresting neighborhoods—$37,000—$275,000.

POLO AT PHIPPS FIELDS, GULF STREAM

ACTIVE interest in polo at Gulf Stream this season has not been so marked because there have not been as many public matches as there were last year. However, there is no better setting anywhere than the Phipps Fields to watch a spirited match between nationally known players astride wiry little ponies, gathered from all parts of the world and trained to respond to the slightest touch or motion of their master. Months of training are necessary to bring these little beast to the highest point of perfection and those training them must exert an infinite amount of persistence and patience in the difficult process because the ponies are usually very high strung.

Thus, at Gulf Stream one has the chance to see players who have been in the saddle since childhood and who know all the fine points of the game together with an element of sportsmanship that is found only when gentlemen get together.

An immaculate field of springy turf, bordered by Australian pines, thundering hoofs, a click, a shout, and another goal for the Bluebirds or Whitebirds; such is the game at Gulf Stream.

In one of the most thrilling polo matches ever held on Phipps Field at Gulf Stream before a representative gathering of members of the resort colonies, the Palm Beach Whitebirds defeated the Palm Beach Bluebirds on a Sunday afternoon recently by a score of 10 to 7.

The whirlwind playing of Winston Guest, nationally known polo player, aided by the support of his team mates, Raymond Guest, Michael Phipps and Godfrey Preece, was in the main responsible for the brilliant victory of the White Birds.

Members of the Palm Beach Bluebirds were up to their usual fine form and offered exceedingly stiff opposition. The team consisted of Howard Phipps, Capt. C. S. Lee, James Cooley and Stewart Preece.

In the first four chukkers the match was touch and go with the Bluebirds outmaneuvering the Whitebirds and keeping the margin on their side.

However, in the fifth chukker, Winston Guest got under way with his famous long drives and repeatedly placed the ball where Michael and Raymond Guest could make the tallies. Thus, at the beginning of the sixth chukker the score stood 4 to 2 in favor of the Blues.

In the sixth chukker both teams played like demons duplicating each others tallies with clock-like regularity until Winston and Raymond Guest again started their long drives, in many cases following them through from half the length of the field to make the scores. Winston, riding a beautiful gray, seemed everywhere, man and beast appearing like a centaur, and when the chukker ended the score stood 8 to 5 in favor of the Whitebirds.

On the side of the Bluebirds, James Cooley and Howard Phipps added the three tallies, with Capt. Lee playing a superb game at back and Stewart Preece riding in the thick of the fray. However, they seemed to lack the pep displayed earlier in the match and could not prevent the Whites from gaining a three-goal lead.

In the seventh chukker most of the period found the players bunched in front of the goals or near the boards tying one another up before any single player could get loose to carry the ball. However, the two tallies made in the period were scored by Michael Phipps who broke loose twice and following his ball with unerring accuracy rode through for goals both times, winning the praise of the players on both sides and the plaudits of the gallery. The end of the chukker found the score standing at 10 to 5 in favor of the Whitebirds.

In the last chukker the Bluebirds began a rally with James Cooley backing in one of the most beautiful shots of the game. Right on the heels of this Stewart Preece broke through with the ball and carried it on a long run for another goal. Then the gong rang for the end of the chukker and the match was over.

Godfrey Preece and Winston Guest were undoubtedly the outstanding players of the match. A veteran of more polo matches than any man in the match, Godfrey Preece played with the three youngest and fastest men on the field holding his position as back with all the wile and dexterity possible for any man to display. His wonderful defense work made it possible for the other members of the team to score goals that would undoubtedly have been lost if his knowledge of the game had not stood him in good stead.

It is sufficient to say that Winston Guest played the type of game that makes him today one of the outstanding players in the country, with Raymond following close behind using the same long stroke and furious pace which so distinguishes his brother.

Capt. C. S. Lee and James Cooley kept pace with the best players on the team, pushing their younger adversaries hard throughout the match. Howard Phipps and Stewart Preece lent loyal support in the play and were always there for their share of the work in the tight places. Michael Phipps, the youngest member on the field, pushed the veterans hard and hung up several tallies which would have done credit to even the most outstanding players in the game.

The match was held for the benefit of the Red Cross with Mr. John S. Phipps donating the entire proceeds of approximately $500 to that organization. One of the largest crowds ever seen at Gulf Stream watched the match with more than 150 cars lining the boards.

Among the members of the Palm Beach colony noted were, Dr. and Mrs. Edmund LeRoy Dow, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Sweatt, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan D. Bill, Mrs. Earl Deakin, Mrs. Frederick Guest, Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Burch, Mrs. Henry Ellsworth Bemis and Mr. and Mrs. J. Gordon Douglass, Jr.

TAKE your PLACE in the SUN

Under the guidance of ELIZABETH ARDEN

AFTER PASSING through several evolutionary phases, in the way of all fashions, sun tan emerges this season in its most wearable, captivating shade. "Sun tan medium" Miss Arden calls it. It is delicate biscuit in tone, and the new resort clothes harmonize provocatively with it.

Miss Arden's southern treatments do not bleach the skin, so you can have your tan—and treat it too. Your skin may be as soft and velvety under its coat of tan as it is in its wintertime pink and whiteness. In Elizabeth Arden's Palm Beach Salon are found all the incomparable Arden Treatments. Here, too, the famous Vienna Youth Mask is given—and its enervating, youthifying properties will increase your capacity for enjoyment a thousandfold!

Be sure to ask about Miss Arden's new sunburn oil—it prevents blistering and takes the sting out of sunburn. And use Protecta Cream faithfully as a safeguard against burning and freckling.

NEW YORK BREVITIES

BY LAWRENCE MORE

THE RETURN of Charley Chaplin over-shadowed everything this week. The little man, greatest of pantomimic artists, undoubtedly also the greatest, and perhaps the only, artist in motion pictures, stalked inverted with Brobdingnagian authority across Broadway, capital of the legitimate drama, and hot-bed of the philippic film. The opening of "City Lights" was not attended quite with the ballyhoo which garnished the Los Angeles premiere (for most of the crowd there came to see what the famous actresses were wearing); in fact the New York initiatory was happily and intelligently free of that nauseating, orgastic and explosive publicity which heralds each latest talkie and makes you sore at the picture before you've seen it. The pathetic and hilarious little man fooled his way across the screen and left New York gasping at the mastery of his genius.

Elie Faure, the great French philosopher and critic, said that he had obtained inspiration from three men: Cervantes, Dostoevsky and Chaplin. Charley is one of those figures whose greatness is too near for the contemporary mind to embrace. He wears the purple robe of the genuine creative artist, which honor he shares with few living persons. In short, he is immortal.

"City Lights" was a grand bit of fooling, well up to the measure of his former chef-d'oeuvres, perhaps not quite the equal of "The Pilgrim." There was a marvelous amalgamation of hilarity and pathos, with those inimitable comic inventions, gestures and subtleties which only Chaplin knows how to convey. It was a blessing, for once, not to have to listen to the raucous, badly-trained voices of our eminent movie stars, trying to "go native" or something like that. Chaplin contented himself with certain musical interpretations, which were delightful in themselves.

* * * *

The two legitimate openings of the week were comparatively unimportant. Kenneth Raisbeck's "Rock Me Julie," which stars Paul Muni and Helen Menken, was the superior of "In the Best of Families," which Anita Hart and Maurice Braddell, whoever they are, made out of their heads. The first was like a ride on top of a freight car, a little tedious and jerky, but with the tantalizing prospect that the next corner might present more delightful scenery; while the latter was just dull, dirty, and deliberate.

However, we can't expect all the shows to be good. Otherwise, think of what a job it would be to have to see them all! As George Jean Nathan once said, "I am willing to endure the empyreuma of three hundred crab-apples in order to discover one good play."

Katherine Cornell comes to town this week in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," which the provinces have recommended. Instead of the usual Cornell play, it is a story of the perennial love life of the Brownings—you know, the poets.

* * * *

Business is picking up. We might turn to the theatre box-offices, rather than to the stock market, for a barometer. "Private Lives" is doing $25,000 a week guaranteed for its 12-week engagement. Noel Coward won't listen to any longer run. You can get tickets only from the gyps, who are back in autocratic control. At this writing the stock exchange was looking up, too. Maybe there is a Santa Claus, after all.

They are trying to reform the reformed radio announcers. The converted mechanics, stevedores and demoted policemen, who took up the now dignified profession of radio announcing, have found themselves criticised for their acquired Oxford accents. The Columbia Broadcasting Company has announced a school of pronunciation for its announcers, with Dr. Frank Vizetelly, the lexicographer, in charge. His is the not enviable job of bringing these young men back from across the water and yet keeping them out of the gutter. It seems that all these merry people have only recently discovered that there is a correct American speaking voice, which does not necessarily imply affectation or strain.

Trying to make filing clerks talk like gentleman is, we believe, a thankless task. The blase young announcers whose voices we have heard on the few occasions we ever listened to the radio, sounded extremely patronizing and honeyed, wherein our objection lay not in their laudable efforts to speak correctly but in the entire artificiality of it all. There was always something sort of comical and pathetic about it, like the pork packer at Ciro's trying to order himself something to eat. Especially amusing it was to have one word come over the air rigged in astute Oxford orthoepy, followed in the next breath by the most nonchalant piece of Tenth Avenue enunciation.

Michael Arlen, who married out of the backyard into the front, is over here. His next book is "Men Dislike Women—a Romance," to be published in March, and his next play is "Good Losers," which is now opening in London. He left the Countess and their seven-week-old son at home.

Prince Gustav Lennart, grandson of the king of Sweden has voluntarily surrendered his title and right of succession for the love of the daughter of a commoner. The Prince's mother is the Grand Duchess Marie who is now associated with one of the most high-hat stores on New York's "marble block" as a style adviser.

* * * *

Goldwyn Pictures have imported Gabrielle Chanel from Paris to dictate styles for the female stars in an effort to keep the pictures from running stale before they open. Hollywood assumes that it is thus to become the style capital of the world. Which, we humbly believe, is a long way off.

I have assurances that the automobile accident near Paris in which Mrs. Emily Davies Vanderbilt Thayer was rather seriously hurt was caused by a roadway with a coating of glassy ice and that there was no question of alcoholism.

"El Manisero" ("The Peanut Vendor"), that wierd, rumbling Cuban chant which Vincent Lopez first introduced to the St. Regis Seaglades many months ago, is still the rage of the town, musically. It's a swell thing and is just right for that slow-motion dancing which the sweet young things adore. Other songs which maintain their great popularity are: "You're Driving Me Crazy," "Something to Remember You By," "Cheerful Little Earful," "Here Comes the Sun."

You are supposed to read Charles Fort. This in case you haven't started. He's new, yes, and his titles, thus far, are "New Lands," and "The Book of the Damned." In fact the lad has been elevated into a sort of cult and all the intelligentsia are at his feet.

Now wait a minute—don't laugh. Look: Theodore Dreiser, Booth Tarkington, Ben Hecht, Edgar Lee Masters, Harry Elmer Barnes (Mencken's pal), John Cowper Powys—these are only a few of the men who have joined in rather uncommon praise for this young man, who is their contemporary. They are talking about his immortality and all manner of wild encomium, all of which makes me writhe in shame for that I know him not better. I'll get busy and let you have more anon.

John Held, Jr., that winsome lad who wears loud suspenders, has deserted his dogs long enough to write "Women Are Necessary," which is amusing and diverting. The boy can write as well as draw, which is a big hand.

Maxwell Bodenheim takes the laurel for the most eccentric title among the list of spring book publications. "Naked on Roller Skates" is his latest. Frankly, I do not intend to read it unless Mr. Liveright insists.

MISS DOROTHY M. CHASE

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irving H. Chase of "Rose Hill," Waterbury, Conn., who is spending the winter with her mother at "El Palmar" on the ocean front. Her engagement to Mr. Edward Thomas Carmody of Watertown, Conn., was recently announced.

AMONG THE PALMS

COCONUT GROVE, the most popular tea garden in the resort, has been crowded every afternoon for the past week. This famous teating place draws the colonists from the hotels and cottages in great numbers. The Howard Lanin Orchestra, under the direction of Jimmy Lanin, presents wonderful dance music, as is proved by the enthusiastic dancers who dip and sway on the new dance floor and heartily applaud each number. An enjoyable bit of entertainment was furnished last Saturday by Jules de Vorzon, violinist and song crooner, who presented several comic numbers, using funny hats and trick mustaches.

Mrs. Henry Ellsworth Bemis of "Lotus" cottage entertained at one of the largest and most delightful tea dances given at the Coconut Grove recently. The grove, with its almost spectacular beauty, looked unusually lovely and the guests remained until the last note of dance music died away and the twinkling red lights festooning the tall palm trees were turned out. Enjoying Mrs. Bemis' hospitality on this occasion were: Mr. and Mrs. George A. McKinlock, Miss Muriel McCormick, Mrs. Irving Hall Chase, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Johnson and Mrs. William Bunting, Mr. and Mrs. G. Stewart Preece, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Grover A. Whalen, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Richard Cowell, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. McWhorter, Gen. and Mrs. Quincy A. Gillmore, Mr. and Mrs. Watler P. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Vance Storrs of New York, with their lovely and popular young daughter, Miss Anne M. Storrs, are guests at Whitehall for several weeks. Joining them later in the season will be Mr. and Mrs. Daniel E. Sickles, whose marriage last year was one of the social events of the season.

Mrs. Sickles was the former Miss Carolyn M. Storrs and with her parents was a guest at Whitehall. Mr. Sickles is the son of the Countess Napoleon Magne of Paris and a grandson of the late Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, the hero of Gettysburg and a former ambassador to Spain. Many social events are planned for Mr. and Mrs. Storrs and their daughter who have hosts of friends in Palm Beach. A member of the Storrs party is Beverly Sinclair who is also a guest at Whitehall.

Sir. Joseph Wesley Flavelle of Holwood, Queen's Park, Toronto, Canada, has joined Lady Flavelle at the Breakers for an extended visit. Their daughter, Mrs. Frank Y. McEachren, also of Toronto, is occupying a villa on Sea Spray Avenue for the season, where Captain McEachren, famous air pilot, will join her shortly. Sir Joseph is a noted figure in Canadian financial circles and is governor of the Toronto chairman of the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

One of the largest parties of the season was given last week in the north lounge at the Breakers when Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Assel of Cincinnati were hosts at dinner. Their guests were seated around a U-shaped table artistically embellished with lovely pink roses and pink sweet peas. Tall silver candlebra held lighted pink tapers at intervals along in the table. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dyer, Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Edwards, Dr. and Mrs. William Weiss, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Grote, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lockwood, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Van Lahr, Dr. and Mrs. William Harris, Mrs. Edward Pope, Miss Mary Jean Pope, Miss Christine Muir, Miss Cath-University. Other guests included Mr. and Mrs. Leo Van Lahr, Mrs. Frank Herschede and Mr. William Phillips.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Smith of Chicago are among the interesting season guests at the Breakers. They have been visiting this resort for several years, but heretofore took a cottage. Mr. Smith, cartoonist and originator of the famous "Andy Gump" comic strip, and Mrs. Smith spent several months abroad during the summer, when they purchased many lovely things for their new home. Since their visit here last season Mr. and Mrs. Smith disposed of their beautiful Lake Geneva estate and bought a new one. They also have a pent-house apartment in Chicago, where they spend the spring and fall months. Mrs. Smith entertained a number of guests last week at a delightful dinner party at the Florida Embassy Club in honor of Mr. Smith's birthday.

* * * *

Mr. and Mrs. George Forbes, well known members of the winter colony, entertained a number of Canadian friends at dinner recently at the Breakers. Their guests were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Oakes of Barton Avenue and their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Findley, Mr. and Mrs. George C. Heintzman, Col. and Mrs. Goodwin Gibson, Mrs. Irene Tigchon Hoag and Dr. Alex McKelvie.

Joining Mrs. Tevander for the afternoon were Mrs. E. Gray Pendleton, Mrs. Alfred Lustig, Mrs. Frank Patterson, Mrs. George Lainhart, Mrs. Stanley Robbins, Mrs. Stanley Warrick and Miss Polly Dyer.

The picturesque and colorful patio of the Vineta Hotel was the setting of a delightful tea party the other afternoon when Mr. and Mrs. Harry McIntyre of Hamilton, Ontario, entertained a large group of their friends. Tropical ferns, palms, luxuriant shrubbery and fragrant roses beautified the surroundings and tea was served in the secluded little garden from 4 until 6:30, while dancing was enjoyed in the adjoining room.

Those who yearly winter in the resort were represented in great numbers at the first showing in Palm Beach of "The New Moon," which was presented last Tuesday at the Paramount Theatre by the Women's Guild of the church of Bethesda-by-the-Sea. Every year the guild gives a benefit performance, the funds of which are used for charitable purposes. Mrs. Edward R. Tolfree is the president and Mrs. Bernard H. Kroger was the chairman in charge of the arrangements.

The final performance at 9:30 was preceded by several dinner parties in the homes and restaurants, with hosts taking their guests later to boxes in the diamond horseshoe. A brilliant throng assembled, making the occasion one of social, as well as charitable interest.

The picture, featuring Grace Moore and Lawrence Tibbett, had just come from an exceptionally successful run in New York and was hugely enjoyed by those privileged to attend the initial presentations in the resort.

The guild is one of the oldest charitable organizations in the vicinity and has been working for those who are unfortunately situated for many years. The late Mrs. Charles I. Cragin, founder of the Cragin Memorial Cloister Garth at the church of Bethesda-by-the-Sea, was one of the first and most active workers in the guild. Just before her death in Jacksonville, early in February, Mrs. Cragin forwarded her contribution to this year's fund.

Among those who were patronesses for the performance were: Rt. Rev. and Mrs. Nathaniel Seymour Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Small Moore, Mr. and Mrs. A. MISS HELEN LOUISE TUNNELL of Pittsburgh, Pa., who was introduced to society at the Monday German in Baltimore, is spending the season in Palm Beach.

TASTES AND TOILETTES

EVERYONE who has been coming to Palm Beach for the major portion of the last decade knows what a great hold winter-white has always had on the affections of the colonists. White hats, white dresses, white coats and white shoes are still with us, but what has become of all the white stockings? Truth to tell, there was something chilly-looking about a white-clad leg and the present vogue of matching stockings to bare arms has been a pretty and pleasant custom. But now that the pastel shades are so much worn, a complication arises, for their delicate tones call for fairer skins and lighter legs. So a new off-shade of white hose has made its appearance and is being seen more and more often in combination with smart, light costumes.

* * * *

Mrs. William M. Outcalt of Cincinnati, who is spending a month at the New Palm Beach Hotel according to her annual custom, is one of the smartly attired of the younger matrons. On her way to the Poinciana Golf Course last week she was seen wearing a striking sports outfit of knitted silk. The sleeveless dress was of turquoise blue and the long-sleeved jacket, belted at the waist, was of burnt orange and turquoise stripes. Her soft blond hair was allowed to curl naturally without any hat to disturb the ringlets.

* * * *

Pale blue is favored by Mrs. James E. Maroney of West Madford, Mass., who appeared in the dining room of the New Palm Beach Hotel for dinner last week becomingly attired in a low cut evening gown of light blue taffeta. A tiny piping of pink edged a huge bow in the back and was repeated at the neckline. Earrings of crystal in the same shade of blue were worn with this gown.

* * * *

A long black velvet dinner frock with silver cloth bodice was chosen last week by Miss Mona Ryan who is passing the season with her mother, Mrs. George J. Ryan of Flushing, at the New Palm Beach Hotel. The dress was close fitting and the contrast of black and silver was most becoming to Miss Ryan's brunette beauty.

* * * *

A full-skirted dress of red taffeta was worn by Mrs. Frederic N. Watriss of New York, who was seen leaving the New Palm Beach Hotel on her way to a dinner party given last week by Mrs. Harrison Williams. A three-quarter coat of black velvet trimmed with white fox protected her from the chilly breezes. Red satin slippers completed the costume.

* * * *

Mrs. Scott Fitzgerald of the St. Moritz in New York is a dainty little brunette who chooses white for evening wear. Strolling over to the Beach Club from the New Palm Beach Hotel recently, she was noted in a white taffeta frock with insertions of pastel shaded bands of satin. Worn over the frock was a soft white velvet jacket with a series of looped buttons trimming the wrists of the tight sleeves.

* * * *

Mrs. Clarence Cadv of the Everglades Club was noted at the Beach Club the other night costumed in a long and graceful dinner gown of ice blue satin with an interesting one-sided decolletage. A sheathlike skirt extended below the knees where it was joined by a deep circular ruffle which was draped part way up the back of the gown.

* * * *

On her way to the beach recently Mrs. Guy Thomas of Minneapolis, a guest at the Everglades Club, was attired in a striking white and black sports ensemble. The white knitted wool frock and short bolero jacket featured a smart black spidery weave border. With this ensemble Mrs. Thomas wore a shiny black, rough straw, brimmed hat banded in white grosgrain ribbon. Black suede gloves, black and white sports shoes and matching bag were finishing details.

* * * *

Miss Anne Storrs of New York who is spending several weeks with her parents at Whitehall visited the beach the other day looking very attractive in a pink woolen weave sports suit. The frock had a deep rose border running the length of the dress and breaking into a double godet at the front. The short sleeveless jacket of pink was also bordered in rose and her tiny felt turban was of matching color with a jeweled clip.

Mrs. Orville Thompson of Chicago who is spending her usual season at the Everglades Club dropped by the beach recently, wearing a becoming kasha suit of beige with a yellow satin tuck-in blouse. A military cape with a double row of gold buttons and a turban of yellow felt were noteworthy details.

* * * *

On a shopping tour in Via Parigi, Mrs. J. Gordon Douglas wore a sports frock of pale blue silk with a short chamois jacket. A scarf of brilliant blue, yellow and lavender print, a wide deep blue leather belt and narrow brimmed blue felt hat completed her costume.

* * * *

Mrs. Harrison Williams of the North Ocean Boulevard and her guest, Mrs. Robert H. McAdoo, lunched at Patio Lamaze recently. Mrs. Williams chose for her costume a white two-piece sports suit with a vivid striped scarf tied in a bow at the neckline. Her hat of uneven brim-line was encircled with a matching striped band. Mrs. McAdoo also wore white, her outfit being a two-piece white bouclé with which she carried a gay French sunshade of felt.

* * * *

Mrs. Frank Hague, a Whitehall guest, lunched at the Beach Club the other day and wore a smart spectators sports frock of lacy white wool with a long strand of jade, forming a striking color note. A tiny touch of green on her imported white leather envelope bag and slippers of like color were finishing details.

* * * *

Miss Jean Weurtz of the Mayfair House in New York, a guest at the Breakers, is a frequent beach visitor and wears a smart printed silk frock of white and blue floral pattern, fashioned with a wide circular collar and a matching leather belt. Her rough straw hat of mushroom shape was of matching blue with a flat velvet bow at the side.

* * * *

Miss Margaretta Sloan, an attractive Philadelphian wintering with her parents at the Breakers, wears a becoming dusty rose wool jersey frock, fashioned with a deep revers edged in a darker shade of rose and beret of the same material.

* * * *

One of the most attractive and vivacious members of the young married set at the Breakers, Mrs. Henry H. Windsor, Jr., wears a lovely little frock of pale pink evelet embroidery with a flared skirt and high waistline. It is particularly becoming to her type. A medium brimmed hat of rough straw droops at one side and is banded in pink grosgrain ribbon.

* * * *

Pastel woolen suits are popular this season. Mrs. Richard Crowley of the Breakers wears a madonna blue one with a fabric hat, jewel clipped scarf and purse to match.

* * * *

Mrs. William R. Huntley of Worth Avenue was dining at the Patio Marguery costumed in an exquisite gown of wine-colored flowered chiffon. Two deep ruffles on the skirt were edged with deep wine lace with the floral chiffon pattern appliqued on the lace. Wine silk crepe slippers and a matching handkerchief were interesting details.

* * * *

Mrs. E. M. Clark of "Belle Haven," Greenwich, Conn., a guest at the Breakers was noted dancing the other evening wearing a Lelong model of dusty pink crepe with a shirred neckline edged with brown Val lace and shirred elbow sleeves banded in sable.

* * * *

Mrs. Wiley Reynolds of the South Ocean Boulevard wore the other evening an Agnes model of white Elizabeth crepe, the bodice formed of insertions of rhinestone baskets woven on silk net. The skirt fell gracefully in long panels at the front and back.

* * * *

Another lovely gown is worn by Mrs. Karl Corby of Washington and the Breakers in delicate cream beige lace worn over a slip of vivid floral pattern in shades of orchid, pink and green. It is molded tightly to the knees, flaring into circular fullness. A lovely jade buckle catches a graceful draping at the neck and jade green satin slippers complete the costume.

SPANISH GARDEN AT FLOWER SHOW

AN EXACT reproduction of Mrs. Henry R. Rea's Spanish Garden in the conservatory of the Royal Poinciana will be one of the interest compelling exhibits at the Third Annual Flower Show held under the auspices of the Garden Club of Palm Beach which opens at one o'clock Friday, February 20 and continues through Sunday, February 22. Mrs. George Alexander McKinlock is president of the club.

More than $1,000 have been offered in prizes for the show this year, and lovers of the beautiful are eagerly anticipating this annual event. Since their inauguration three years ago, the Flower Shows held in Palm Beach have commanded attention from the far corners of the globe where horticulturists and botanists have heard of the unique collection of blooms, and rare specimens, which are brought together here.

In addition to the regular features of past seasons which will be repeated, including the exhibit of tables arranged by members of the Garden Club, as well as by butlers employed in the resort, and the usual exhibits of flowers, cut and growing, many new classes have been added this year. The replica in miniature of Mrs. Rea's garden, itself copied from a famous old world garden, which indeed is in a "class by itself," is probably the most elaborate.

Walls six feet tall, and an archway giving the effect of an entrance to a chapel, will enclose a fountain illuminated with special colored lights, centering the display of lilies, jasmine, other flowers and evergreens.

Another exceptionally superior exhibit will be that of Contessa Denise Dolfin in the east conservatory. This will be a madonna garden with madonna lilies imported from the north. An exquisite piece of sculpture done by Mr. C. Percival Dietsch will be placed in the retreat.

A bronze figure, also the work of Mr. Dietsch, will be placed in the Italian Renaissance Garden exhibited by Miss Maria L. Weatherill.

In the northwest corner a gay Spanish market will be represented by the garden club from the Everglades, displaying fruits and vegetables. A town plaza covered with bright awnings opposite will have comfortable chairs on its tiled floor for visitors to the show who wish to sit and view the splendor around them, in leisure. A huge Sicilian push cart and two smaller push carts will add to the authentic atmosphere of the spot. The tea garden on the north side of the conservatory will resemble a small Coconut Grove with its little tables and colored umbrellas. Tea will be served and music will be furnished.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred G. Kay have reserved a large space for their display. Mr. Kay is chairman of the outside exhibits.

The superb orchids which are always assembled at the show, will show to greater advantage this year, as they are to be placed at the four corners of the east conservatory.

Many tables of cut flowers of all description will line the aisles.

The Palm Beach Public School will have an exhibit of native flowers and the Lake Worth Garden Club will contribute an English terminal garden.

One of the novel features of the show this year will be an exhibition of shadow boxes, a unique way of representing still life pictures, by the use of real flowers. Blooms are placed in boxes so arranged and illuminated from the back, that the effect of still life is given. These will be displayed in the north lounge where the set and decorated tables are shown. These table displays, which are entered by members of the Garden Club, in one class, and by gardeners and butlers in the employ of anyone in the resort, are among the most interesting exhibits in the show and always create a great deal of attention. This year two new classes have been added, a Sunday night supper table set for six or eight, and a console table. Tables this year may be provided by exhibitors.

Palm Beach residents are giving particular attention to their gardens and patios as a result of the prizes offered by Mr. Edward L. Welsh, who is donating two silver cups for front or back yard garden; and Mrs. Barclay H. Warburton and Mrs. George Alexander McKinlock, who are giving two silver cups for small patios. The competition is open to all living within the limits of the town of Palm Beach, and those who desire to enter have been asked to make application through the Flower Show office on County Road, next to the First National Bank. The Garden Club hopes to extend the interest shown by the gardeners of large estates to all who take part in gardening and flower growing in Palm Beach.

Garden Club members who have given prizes of cash, silver cups and medals, are: Mrs. E. Hope Slater, Mrs. John F. Harris, Mrs. Christopher D. Smithers, Mrs. Frederick S. Wheeler, Mrs. John Shepard, Jr., Mrs. Frederic F. Carey, The Hon. Mrs. Frederick E. Guest.

Mrs. David H. McCulloch, Mrs. Henry Seligman, Mrs. Henry Phipps, Sr., Mrs. John H. Gibbons, Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury and Mrs. Archibald Barklie.

Mrs. John H. Gibbons will give $50 in cash for the Gas Station in the Town of Palm Beach, to be judged for its beauty, arrangement of plants around it, color, height and appropriateness.

Mrs. Barklie's prize will go to the best back yard among the Breaker's cottages.

The officers of the Garden Club of Palm Beach are: Mrs. Robert Glendinning, honorary president; Mrs. George Alexander McKinlock, president; Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury, vice president; the Hon. Mrs. Frederick E. Guest, vice president; Mrs. Henry R. Rea, vice president; Mrs. Frederic Foster Carey, vice president; Mrs. Willey Lyon Kingsley, treasurer; Mrs. Alfred G. Kay, secretary; Mrs. John H. Gibbons, Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury, Mrs. Edward Shearson and Mrs. Paul Moore, directors.

The little flower turban that Paris is making such a fuss over is covered entirely with velvet flowers in different shades of beige that will harmonize with practically any costume. This copy of a Paris model is from Franklin Simon & Co.

Chanel designed this red lace gown imported by Bergdorf Goodman especially for southern wear. The gown is fitted to the knees with curving lines of stitching suggesting a chrysalis and a ruffle around the bottom stiffened with horsehair continues up the back in two graceful wings. The necklace and bracelet of paste in finely worked setting are also from Bergdorf Goodman.

This frock has camisole shoulder straps; is close fitting about the hips with an extremely full skirt swirling gracefully around the feet. The short coat has an enormous cape and elbow length sleeves, both of which are trimmed with genuine grey fox.—From Bonwit Teller.

A fashionable incentive to loll about the sands in comfort and chic is this five-piece pajama costume in tri-color linen. The wide trousers are of solid color linen, the sleeveless pullover, with square neck front and V-back, in three color bands matches the sleeveless coat. And to complete its swank, a matching headband and sun umbrella are included.—From Peck & Peck.

PALM BEACH CLUB ACTIVITIES

EBRUARY seems to be the month of particularly festive birthday celebrations. Mr. Hugh Dillman was one of the resort residents who marked his natal day with a gay entertainment last week and chose the Everglades Club for the event. More than 30 guests were invited to be present at the Sunday night dinner dance last week, which coincided with his birthday and it was a gay assemblage indeed that gathered around the table with Mr. and Mrs. Dillman. Roses and lilies and a miniature sunken garden decorated the table, while a huge birthday cake was the piece de resistance of the evening.

Among those who attended the dinner party were: Dr. and Mrs. Willey Lyon Kingsley and their house guests, Mr. Lawrence Butler and Mr. Hays Browning; Mr. and Mrs. Willard Smith, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Huntley and their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Peter A. Porter; Mr. and Mrs. Louis F. S. Bader, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred G. Kay, Mrs. George H. When here in former years Mr. and Mrs. Dickinson were guests at Whitehall. They are prominent season visitors to the resort, belonging to the Everglades Club and the Gulf Stream Club.

Among the many large parties that are filling the garden of the Colony Club on these pleasant winter evenings, one of outstanding interest was that given by Mr. Vincent Bendix and Mr. Caleb Bragg who are spending the season at "Villa Bekencia," the Kenneth Van Riper villa on the ocean front. The party was given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Jules Glaenzer, and following dinner at the villa the guests repaired to the Colony Club for supper and dancing. Tables were set in the east terrace of the club and attractively decorated with roses and spring flowers. The guests included, in addition to the honor guests, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Fatio, Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Webb, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Kern, Mrs. John Stafford, Mrs. Ben Boalt, Mrs. Chance Vought, Mrs. Archibald MacNeil, Miss Hazel Nichols, Mrs. Charles Warner, Miss Mary Brown Warburton, Mrs. Gladys Kemp, Mrs. Elsie Duell, Mrs. Wyllis Rossiter Betts, Mr. Phil Plant, Mr. Harvey Coleman, Mr. George Abbott, Mr. Peter Arno, Mr. William Baxter, Mr. Ralph Beaver Strassburger, Mr. Joseph Hergesheimer, Mr. Jules Bache, Capt. The informal Sunday night beefsteak dinners at the Colony Club are an unusual feature of this one day of the week when a note of quiet diversion is desired. In the gardens, with the mild tropical breezes blowing and Ernie Holst and his orchestra playing subdued music, the entire scene of these Sunday night affairs is most refreshing with many members of the resort colony dropping in to spend an interval of dining and dancing.

The gala carnival night was indeed a drawing card at the Colony Club Saturday evening with more than five hundred guests dancing and making merry in the lovely gardens where moonlight is always to be found.

Bennett and Mrs. Strickland Gillilan of Washington, D. C., were among those noted in the patio last week. Mrs. Bennett and Mrs. Gillilan are important members of the social set in the nation's capital.

SOCIETY OF ARTS

MEMBERS of the Society of Arts and their guests who heard Yehudi Menuhin, the youthful violinist, last night at the third concert in the Society's series this year, given in the great hall of the Everglades Club, may look forward with keen anticipation to the two remaining concerts, which will be given on succeeding Monday evenings. The fourth concert will be given by two famous young American musicians, Richard Crooks, tenor, and Mischa Levitzki, pianist, who will appear on Monday evening, February 24.

Richard Crooks is of American birth and ancestry. He first sang publicly when only 10. At 12 he was the "hit" of a big Music Festival, dividing honors with Schumann-Heink before an audience of 14,000 people. Then at All Angels' Church, New York, he was boy soprano soloist for 2 years. During the War he enlisted in the 626th Aero Squadron. Later he returned to All Angels' as tenor soloist. In 1921 he obtained the important position as soloist at the famous Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, New York.

Crooks' real career began in 1922 after Fitzhugh W. Haensel, head of the well-known New York musical managerial firm of Haensel & Jones, discovered the youthful tenor. Mr. Haensel promptly arranged a special audition for the young singer with Walter Damrosch, who sustained his astute judgment by immediately engaging Crooks for the unprecedented number of nine performances as soloist with the New York Symphony Orchestra. These important appearances the tenor filled with such sensational success that at the end of his first professional season he had the record number of over 40 engagements to his credit.

The following season found Crooks already so firmly established in the public's regard that the number of his engagements doubled. These included his first tour of the far west and appearances with many of the most important musical organizations and major symphony orchestras in this country.

In the summer of 1925, Crooks sang with outstanding success in London, Vienna, Munich and Berlin. Upon his return to America his next two concert seasons here broke many records for increasing popularity of a new American star.

Returning to Europe in the summer of 1927 Crooks made his formal operatic debut at the Hamburg Opera as Cavaradossi in "Tosca" and was a sensation. After singing the same role at the most important opera house in Germany—the Stadtische Opera in Berlin—Crooks was hailed as "a new star in the operatic firmament." His subsequent recital in Berlin caused a furore. A concert tour of the Scandinavian countries followed with unparalleled success. The tenor's three subsequent seasons in both native land and the European countries made the name, Crooks, world famous.

Mischa Levitzki is an American by birth, though born in distant Kremenchug, Southern Russia. His parents had been naturalized in America previous to the visit to their native land during which Mischa was born.

At an early age he showed a marked musical talent, and Michailowski of Warsaw became his teacher. When he was eight years old his parents returned to their adopted land. An audition before Walter Damrosch resulted in the boy being enrolled at the Institute of Musical Art in New York under Stojowski. He continued his studies with this master for the next five years. Then he went to Europe to study under Dohnanyi at the Berlin Hochschule. Twice during his four years in Germany he was awarded the famous Mendelssohn prize as the most talented piano student.

Finally his career was launched with a brilliant Berlin debut. The war interrupted his intention of gaining a European reputation before returning to America, and on October 17, 1916 he made his first appearance in New York, taking the entire musical world by storm.

Though only thirty-one years old he has toured the entire world, even to distant Java, Singapore, China, Japan and Australia. He is now making his thirteenth tour of the United States. The record of his extraordinary career during the years he has been before the public shows that he has made eighty-nine appearances in New York, twenty-seven in Chicago, twelve in London, thirteen in Sydney, ten in Melbourne, Australia, forty in the Orient, in addition to scores of appearances throughout the United States and the Continent.

By an unusual coincidence, Dr. Walter Damrosch, who was instrumental in furthering the advancement of these two young musicians, is now in Palm Beach and is giving a pianologue today at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury.

An interesting and somewhat novel view of the problem confronting the American composer is one set forth by Richard Crooks.

"Even those singers who do go to the trouble to select and sing American songs by modern composers seldom take the trouble with them they deserve. A French or German song they will study for days, but in the case of an American song they evidently proceed on who will sing at the final concert of the Society of Arts.

MADAME CLAUDIA MUZIO

the assumption that there is nothing to be learned. In this way much of the real significance of the songs is missed and the composer 'gets it in the neck' coming and going to use an expressive, though perhaps none too elegant phrase."

This is the opinion of Mr. Crooks, who also says:

"The idea that English is a poor language for song is simply incomprehensible to me except as a pristine instance of snobbery pure and simple. In point of fact I can't imagine a more beautiful or appropriate language for song. And here again the element of carelessness comes in for singers who study every syllable of a foreign song with scrupulous care but proceed under the theory that they know all there is to be known about English. Consequently it is no uncommon thing to hear a singer doing better work with a foreign tongue than with his native language."

Mischa Levitzki is not at all discouraged about the cause of American music. While admitting there is nothing now in the way of composition to really excite the musical public, he believes something will develop.

"But it will take a long time," he warns. "It will develop as the new movement in American literature and poetry has developed, slowly, on firm foundations, and like it, will come to an apparently sudden fruition. Intellectually, we have accomplished some things which will live and others which are decidedly worth while. And they are American. They are not mere echoes of a European culture. That, I think, is the way the new music will come. And like it, I think, it will come out of the west. Great music has never come from the cities. Life is too complex and worried in a metropolis. The west is, after all, America, the great open spaces that we boast about. The east has the European decadence. The west, in time, will give us music, as it has given us poetry. It will be slower, for first we must develop a national consciousness, but I think it will come.

"Before a country can produce music of its own and appreciate it, it must know all music. That is the problem in America—to develop musical appreciation. That is what the artists who are here can do. Some of them are conscious of it, some oblivious. If they but knew it, their program-making may determine the future of music in America."

The final concert of the Society of Arts, Monday evening, March 2, will present Mme. Claudia Muzio, dramatic soprano, whose glorious voice and beautiful presence are expressive of a personality that charms her audiences. She is ranked among the great artists of all time.

The brightest star in the firmament of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, Muzio stands alone in the remarkable delineation of the spectacular roles in which she sings; her Tosca is a veritable woman of fire, and to quote Edward Moore, musical critic of the Chicago Tribune: "Every role she enacts is different from any of the other singers. In other words, while adhering strictly to realism, she yet manages to inject a strong savor of personality into each." Among the most striking, which perhaps some of our readers have already witnessed, is that of Madeliene de Coigny in the opera of Andrea Chenier, that vivid story of the French revolution and its attendant horrors. One of the highest executives of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, has called her tremendous climax at the close of the third act of this opera, "the greatest dramatic moment of the whole season."

Yet, at this point, Muzio is not singing, nor does she occupy the center of the stage, but is standing aside, watching the trial of her lover for treason. She stands in shadow, but terror, despair and grief are so vividly expressed that it holds the listener spell bound. Muzio has often been likened in her dramatic moment to Duse and Bernhardt, and it is true that if her voice was silenced, she would still be one of the greatest exponents of the drama living. However, when off the stage simplicity is the keynote of her life; but when singing, Muzio lives, dreams and fairly breathes her roles; and this tremendous histrionic gift is carried into her concert work as well. That is the reason that it is such sheer delight to listen to a Muzio concert.

pianist, who will appear in joint recital with Mr. Crooks at the Everglades Club.

SPORTS IN PALM BEACH

OLF is king in Palm Beach at the present time. Every course on the island is being crowded to capacity every day. The Old Guard Society just finished their second two-ball handicap event and the medal round of their annual club championship in time to let the hordes who entered the South Florida Championship get on the course of the Palm Beach Golf Club.

On the second day of the Old Guard Tournament, played a week or so ago, the pairings were as follows:

First Flight: John G. Connor and H. M. Voorhees vs. A. M. Banker and George Keim; John Shepard, Jr., and W. B. Langford vs. F. J. Wetzel and D. L. Luke.

Second Flight: O. L. Brailey and George Altmeyer vs. Hugh Willoughby, Jr., and Dr. Edmund LeRoy Dow; J. A. Hull and Phil Corbin vs. W. F. Bode and E. C. Warner.

Third Flight: George Wright and W. A. Thebodeau vs. S. G. Rosson and Ralph Dodson; Charles Brett and Ezra Gould vs. H. Hinde and Joseph C. Hutchison.

The first day of match play (second day of the tournament) A. M. Banker and George Keim were victorious, as were F. J. Wetzel and D. L. Luke. Both teams registered a 4-and-3 victory over their opponents. The scores:

First Flight: A. M. Banker and George Keim defeated John G. Connor and H. M. Voorhees, 4 and 3; F. J. Wetzel and D. L. Luke defeated John Shepard, Jr., and W. B. Langford, 4 and 3.

Second Flight: Hugh L. Willoughby, Jr., and Dr. Edmund LeRoy Dow defeated O. L. Brailey and George Altmeyer by default; W. F. Bode and E. C. Warner defeated J. A. Hull and Phil Corbin, by default.

Third Flight: George Wright and W. A. Thebodeau defeated S. G. Rosson and Ralph Dodson, 1 up; Charles Brett and Ezra Gould defeated H. Hinde and Joseph Hutchison, 3 and 2.

On the final day of the tournament the pairings were as follows:

First Flight: A. M. Banker and George Keim vs. F. J. Wetzel and D. L. Luke.

Second Flight: Hugh L. Willoughby, Jr., and Dr. Edmund LeRoy Dow vs. W. F. Bode and E. C. Warner.

Third Flight: George Wright and W. A. Thebodeau vs. Charles Brett and Ezra Gould.

F. J. Wetzel and D. L. Luke finally won the first flight of the tournament after some fairly stiff opposition from A. M. Banker and George Keim. The victors tuned in a score of 3 up and 2 to go over the runners-up.

In the second flight, Dr. Edmund LeRoy Dow and Hugh L. Willoughby, Jr., defeated W. F. Bode and Ezra Gould, by default.

The third flight ended in a tie.

For the most part the tournament was played over the course of the Palm Beach Country Club. However, some of the members preferred the Palm Beach Golf Club and made arrangements accordingly.

On the first day of the annual Old Guard Society Club Championship Tournament, W. B. Langford came sailing home with the lowest gross score of the day, being 10 strokes under his nearest competitor.

However, handicaps enter into the scores, so the championship has not been won by any means.

The scores: W. B. Langford, 73; O. L. Brailey, 83; Hugh L. Willoughby, Jr., 84; D. L. Luke, 85; E. J. Wetzel, 86; J. C. Hutchison, 88; S. G. Rosson, 88; C. M. Brett, 90; H. Hinde, 90; W. F. Bode, 90; C. A. Klotz, 92; F. H. Ward, 92; George Keim, 93; George Altmeyer, 94; E. C. Warner, 94; Clarence Hall, 95; A. M. Banker, 98; W. M. Wadsworth, 99; Harry Oakes, 101; and B. H. Kroger, 103.

* * * *

In the second Old Guard Society contract bridge tournament, W. H. Holbrooke breezed away with the biggest score and also a fountain pen and stand which was the first prize, donated by B. J. Rosenthal. Byron Chandler got second honors and a silver knife, also the donation of Mr. Rosenthal.

The scores: W. H. Holbrook, 6,250; Byron Chandler, 5,115; A. M. Banker, 4,965; George Keim, 4,495; Ezra Gould, 4,270; W. F. Bode, 4,210; Clarence Hall, 3,685; E. A. Burch, 3,425; C. W. Hall, 3,350; C. A. Knight, 3,175; C. C. van Dusen, 2,300; Fred H. Ward, 2,275; E. C. Warner, 1,800; Elmer Jordan, 1,470; B. H. Kroger, 1,290; and C. A. Klotz, 1,265.

The annual dinner of the society will be held tonight at 7:30 at the Breakers.

TENNIS

The Bath and Tennis Club had its first round robin tournament of the season about a week ago. The affair was a mixed doubles event and Miss Evelyn Lewisohn and P. M. Davis won the match by a score of 22 games won and 13 lost.

The winning team had a very tough time of it, for just the loss of one game would have cost them victory. Miss Doris Havemeyer and James Pierce were mighty close seconds with 21 games won and 14 lost.

There was the same margin between the second and third teams as there was between the first and second. Miss Rose Davis and Edward Reeves won 20 and lost 15. In fact, the whole match was exceedingly close, as there was only the difference of three games between first and fifth place. The scores:

Teams—	Won	Lost
Miss Evelyn Lewisohn and P. M. Davis	22	13
Miss Doris Havemeyer and James Pierce	21	14
Miss Rose Davis and Edward Reeves	20	15
Miss Hope Bennett and Philip Ammidown	19	16
Mrs. Thorndyke and George Frelinghuysen	19	16
Miss Elizabeth Chase and Peter Bathurst	4	24

At the second round robin tournament of the season, held at the Palm Beach Tennis Club last week, Robert Murray of the Palm Beach Tennis Club and Jim Kenney of the Bath and Tennis Club stepped to the front in grand style with first place to the tune of 28 games won and 14 lost.

These matches are generally professional-amateur affairs and give the average amateur player a chance to play with the expert and still stand a chance to win.

Although the team of Murray and Kenney had somewhat of a lead on the rest of the players, the honors were not easily won by any means. All the teams were pretty evenly matched and there was not a great deal of difference between the second and last teams. The scores:

Teams—	Won	Lost
Robert Murray and Jim Kenney	28	14
Baron Mainfort and Edwin Faulkner	22	20
Sailing Baruch and George Agutter	22	20
John Cardegna and Mr. Hammerslaugh	21	21
A. G. Kay and Arthur Rudolph	20	22
Jack Olhaber and R. K. Harris	18	24
Dan Kenney and Rudy Nobel	16	26

SOUTH FLORIDA CHAMPIONSHIP TOURNAMENT

In the South Florida Championship Tournament, played last week on the course of the Palm Beach Golf Club, the boys started off on the first day to make golf history.

The scores turned in for the qualifying round were amazing. Nothing over a 77 got into the championship flight. In fact there were four 77's, and A. Wineman and Jack McCarthy were drawn into the second flight.

Arthur "Ducky" Yates was again unbeatable and turned in a 68, one under par and the lowest score of the day. Therefore, of course, Yates is the medalist in the South Florida Championship.

Roy Gussman of West Palm Beach was next low with a 71. Tommy Goodwin of New York City and James A. Travers of Boston tied for third place, each getting a 72. A. L. Stover of Windsor, Canada, runner-up in the Lake Worth Tournament, tied with W. B. Langford of Chicago for fourth place with a 73.

The tournament was one of the biggest in recent years held in Palm Beach from the number of participants. There were practically 100 entrants in the qualifying round, which made it necessary to organize five flights for the match play.

The first flight ranged from 68 to 77; the second flight from 77 to 84; the third from 84 to 87; the fourth from 87 to 91, and the fifth from 91 to 97.

Judging from these scores, it can be seen that the boys in the championship flight were fast golf company indeed.

Following are the scores of the championship flight:

	Out	In	Total
Arthur Yates.....	444 455 353—37	443 433 433—31—68
Roy Gussman.....	544 444 344—36	344 443 355—35—71
Tommy Goodwin.....	443 343 644—35	443 544 544—37—72
James A. Travers.....	444 544 254—36	443 454 345—36—72

A. L. Stover.....	444 555 355—40	353 542 434—33—73
W. B. Langford.....	444 544 244—35	453 454 445—38—73
A. M. Porter.....	453 544 443—36	555 553 433—38—74
Ken Berry.....	544 545 445—40	442 454 434—34—74
C. A. Durand, Jr.....	643 644 344—38	455 453 444—36—74
M. A. Carroll.....	554 554 244—38	553 454 434—37—75
R. P. Ellis.....	444 444 455—38	345 463 454—38—76
T. P. Perkins.....	556 544 444—41	443 543 444—35—76
S. L. Reinhardt.....	554 553 455—41	443 543 444—35—76
J. J. Ruff, Jr.....	454 455 444—39	353 653 543—37—76
Jack Butler.....	554 554 345—40	453 553 435—37—77
A. R. Hakes.....	564 444 454—40	455 545 325—37—77

Hakes ran into a snag on the second hole and and it looked at first as if he would not make the championship flight. However, he made one of his remarkable recoveries and got a birdie 3 on the sixteenth and an eagle 2 on the seventeenth.

T. P. Perkins started off very poorly on the first nine holes. He took a 6 on number three, got three 5's and finished in 41. He came back in the second nine and made the round in one over par. S. L. Reinhardt of Chicago had much the same card as Perkins. He, too, did not do well on the first nine but pulled up in the second nine.

Ken Berry, well known golfer from Miami Beach, did only moderately well on the first nine but finished up the second nine in par. Jack Butler, title-holder, just stayed in the championship flight by the skin of his teeth and the luck of a draw. Butler has not as yet hit his usual golf stride.

On the whole, the boys in the first flight played championship golf and any one of them could have considerably worried Bobby Jones.

The complete cards of the qualifying round:

The pairings in the championship flight for the first day of match play (last Wednesday) were as follows: 9:44, Arthur Yates and C. A. Durand, Jr.; 9:48, S. L. Reinhardt and A. L. Stover; 9:52, A. M. Porter and Jack Butler; 9:56, R. P. Ellis and Tommy Goodwin; 10:00, J. A. Travers and T. Phillip Perkins; 10:04, Albert Hakes and Ken Berry; 10:08, W. B. Langford and J. J. Ruff, Jr.; 10:12, M. A. Carroll and Roy Gussman.

Continuing the herculean struggle for honors in the South Florida Championship, the first day of match play brought in further phenomenal scores.

Ducky Yates just managed to eliminate C. A. Durand, Jr. by the skin of his teeth. The youngster from Brooklyn gave Ducky a close battle.

The men were even on the 16th hole. Durand missed a two-foot putt on the 17th and lost the hole. He halved the match by taking the 18th with a birdie three. On the 19th hole Durand sank a 30-foot putt and got a par 4; Yates sank a 10-foot putt and the hole was halved. On the 20th Yates got a par 4 and Durand took a 5. It was indeed a close match.

S. L. Reinhardt of Chicago had an easier time of it with A. L. Stover of Windsor, taking the Canadian to the tune of 4 up and 3 to go.

A. M. Porter of Wilmington had a tough time of it with Big Jack Butler of West Palm Beach. Porter finally beat the ex-champion 1 up.

Tommy Goodwin had a narrow squeek with R. P. Ellis, the New York boy finally defeating Ellis 1 up.

T. P. Perkins handily defeated J. A. Travers 5 and 3.

With the possible exception of two of the matches, all the scores in the first day of match play in the championship flight were close.

Ken Berry of Miami Beach squeezed out Albert Hakes of Dunkirk, N. Y. 1 up. W. B. Langford of Chicago won by the same margin over J. J. Ruff, Jr. of Hammond, Ind.

The battle of the day was between Roy Gussman of West Palm Beach and M. A. Carroll, Old Guard member from Oshkosh, Wis. The boy from across the lake finally beat the veteran 1 up after the match had gone 22 holes.

Altogether, it was a day of plain and fancy, mostly fancy golf.

THE UNDERPRIVILEGED CHILD BENEFIT

THE KIWANIS benefit show on February 25 at the Paramount Theatre is but a proof of the oft repeated statement that nowhere is the art of sumptuous living so thoroughly understood and so magnificently practiced as in Palm Beach. For in no other resort city would it be possible to stage such a spectacle as the Kiwanis show. Great personages of the social and theatrical worlds join together for the success of the event. That the benevolences extended by the Kiwanis Club of West Palm Beach are popular with smart social leaders in Palm Beach is manifested by the whole-hearted response received by C. W. Carroll, chairman of the show committee. Palm Beach, the beautiful, extends its bounty into territories that might be arid and unlovely without the sunshine of its charity.

The constructive policy of the Kiwanians, bearing out their motto, "We Build," is nowhere illustrated so aptly as in its work among underprivileged children. And it is this policy and this work that have struck the fancy of Palm Beach social leaders. It is this policy and this work that have caused notables of the theater to labor for the success of the Kiwanis show.

Since its inception, some six years ago, the patrons of the show have included some of the most celebrated folk in a resort of celebrities.

The Kiwanis Club operates three separate clinics. In one, medical and surgical cases are taken care of.

The eye, ear and nose clinic took care of more than one thousand cases last year. The outstanding case was that of a youngster who had spent several years in a deaf and dumb institution. With the aid of an operation and continued treatments over a period of seven months, the boy regained his hearing and is developing a faculty of speech.

Two full-time dentists and nurses are in the dental clinic and are paid for by the club.

All of these clinics work among the colored children of the city as well as among the white children.

Due to the generosity of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Dillman, the Kiwanis Club employs a county nurse who has been of untold benefit to the children in less fortunate homes.

The Kiwanis Club maintains an emergency ward at the dental clinic to take care of emergency and accident cases for school children.

With the foregoing, it can be seen readily that those who contribute to the Kiwanis Club have the pleasure of knowing that every cent of their money is working directly for the cause of the children. There are no surplus expenses, no surplus salaries. The children receive directly the benefit of every dollar.

Mrs. Arthur Hammerstein, known to her legion of admirers as Dorothy Dalton, is a firm believer in preventative treatment of the ailments of childhood. Mrs. Hammerstein has one child of her own, and maintains two other little girls in a home in Brooklyn. Mr. Carroll of the Kiwanis Club told her about the work among the school children of the community. The film star was so interested that she accompanied Mr. Carroll out to the West Gates school and made friends with the tiny tots of the first grade. At lunch time she served them the steaming-hot soup. Soup furnished through the good offices of the Kiwanis Club.

"I think the health of the nation depends on the health of the children," declared Mrs. Hammerstein. "This good work of the Kiwanians is one that should appeal to every public spirited citizen and to every mother and father in the community."

At the dental clinic there is a room named for Dorothy Dalton. The X-ray equipment at the dental clinic was made possible through the generosity of Mr. and Mrs. George Rasmussen.

In fact all of fashionable Palm Beach has taken up cudgels in behalf of the under-privileged children and it is for them that the stars of the theatrical world contribute their most glittering array of talents.

C. W. Carroll reports a most flattering box office sale. Those who wish to attend the show are sending in reservations through the Western Union, or are getting directly in touch with Mr. Carroll at No. 4221.

The announcement that none other than Phil Baker has been procured as Master of Ceremonies has caused a distinct ripple in social and theatrical circles. The fame of Phil Baker is known wherever foot lights are known. He is a past master of the art of extemporaneous wit. He has that intangible but powerful quality, which for want of a better name, we call personality.

Other artists who are expected to appear include Helen Morgan, Louise Hunter, Irving Berlin, Irene Franklin and Dorothy Dalton. These are but a few in a brilliant galaxy of stars.

The managers and producers committee of the Kiwanis show assembles some of the most notable names in the realm of the theater. With Arthur Hammerstein as chairman, others include Sam Harris, Ned Wayburn, Irving Berlin, Billie Burke, Arthur Hopkins, Edgar Selwyn, John Golden, Lawrence Weber, Mrs. H. B. Harris, Adolph Zukor, Joseph LeBlanc, Florenz Ziegfeld, Al Jolson, Crosby Paige, John Emerson, Anita Loos, Rudolph Friml, George Nicolai, Dan Frohman and Leo C. Teller.

The theatrical talent to be presented is all obtained through these high-powered managers without cost. The children receive the benefit of every contribution and of every dollar spent at the box office.

At the risk of appearing trite, it can be stated that the success attendant upon a Kiwanis benefit show is just another proof of the words in holy script, "A Little Child Shall Lead Them."

For the leaders of society and the stage are never deaf to the call of childhood. The world is full of underprivileged children. It is the ambition of Palm Beach society that this class shall not be included among the youngsters of the county.

Palm Beach is invariably in the world's spot light. What fashionable Palm Beach does, the entire universe knows about and discusses. Palm Beach is known as a center of gayety. It would seem, as the season advances, that all of the light-hearted gayety of the universe is concentrated in this incredible ten-mile strip, which a Philadelphian once named Palm Beach.

And the Kiwanis benefit show will sustain this reputation as Arthur Hammerstein has declared that the show will be just one good laugh after another.

Sam Harris has declared that the prime motive of a theatrical production should be to make the audience have a good time, and forget their troubles. This is what the sixth annual Kiwanis benefit show is guaranteed to do.

But the cause for which the show is given and to which many of the generous people of Palm Beach have contributed, should not be overlooked.

It would not be too much to say that there'll be a mended life for every gale of laughter.

New patrons for 1931 include Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Brokaw, Mr. and Mrs. Ward Ames, Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Thomas, Bishop and Mrs. N. S. CELEBRITIES from all parts of the United States congregate at the Sevilla Biltmore Hotel as the Havana season approaches its February climax. A brilliant assemblage of northern visitors gather nightly on the roof garden, where the Victor Rodriguez Orchestra holds forth with American jazz alternating with the dreamy Cuban danzon and the tea dances in the colorful Andalusian patio form a gay rendezvous where people from all parts of the world meet in a real continental atmosphere of conviviality.

A number of stage and screen notables lend color to gatherings at the Sevilla Biltmore, including Tom Mix of the silver screen, the circus and the law courts, his broad-brimmed Stetson and high-heeled boots bringing the flavor of the Wild West to sophisticated Havana; Miss Jean Ackerman, stage and screen actress, late of "Smiles"; Mrs. Eddie Cantor on a jaunt over from Miami before returning to Beverley Hills; and Miss Lucille Godard-Kent, the "Silly Susan" of WOR.

Judge A. Mitchell Palmer, former attorney-general of the United States, who is a guest in West Indian waters with Mrs. Palmer on the Walter O. Briggs yacht, was a luncheon guest at the Sevilla recently of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Glancy of Bloomfield Hills, Mich. Mr. Glancy is vice-president of General Motors.

Augustus Vincent Tack, one of the leading mural artists of America, is a guest at the Sevilla with Mrs. Tack. The recent exhibit of decorative panels by Mr. Tack at the Century Club in New York evoked high acclaim from art connoisseurs.

Mr. Frederick D. MacKay, vice-president of the National Horse Show Association and a moving spirit in both the Madison Square and Huntington Bay Shows, is a guest at the Sevilla Biltmore with his son, John F. MacKay, water polo ace at Princeton and his friend, Fred D. Burrell of New York, following a cruise in the West Indies. The group are daily attendants at Oriental Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Irene Du Pont of Wilmington, Del., motored in from their winter home, "Xanadu," at Varadero Beach to greet a new party of guests who will motor down to the colony following a brief stay in Havana at the Sevilla Biltmore. Included in the party are Miss Eleanor and Miss Marianna Du Pont, Irene Du Pont, Jr., and their friends, Miss Jeanne Sargeant, Miss Virginia Chewning, Rebe Furst, H. Page Beers, John T. Burwett, W. W. Laird and Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Fuller, all of Wilmington.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. O'Brien of New York returned to the Sevilla Biltmore for the remainder of the season, following a trip to the north so that Mr. O'Brien could preside at the annual banquet of the second panel of the Sheriff's Jury of New York county of which he is foreman. The event this year surpassed all past occasions, 960 New York notables being entertained in the grand ballroom of the Biltmore at a banquet which recalled the palmy days of the Gay Nineties at the old Waldorf.

Other notables at the Sevilla Biltmore include Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hyatt Carragan of Garden City, L. I.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Russel and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Tucker; Arthur E. Beggs of New York; Mrs. George E. Cabot and son, George E., Jr., and daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Yan de Pierrfeu of Boston, Mass.; Mrs. C. S. Buckley of Glencoe, Ill.; Mrs. James Lowry of Evanston, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Vernon J. Bert of Oak Park, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Hollinger and their son, Wayne, of Winnetka, Ill. Mr. Hollinger is a member of the Chicago Board of Trade.

Cuba's gay winter season neared a crescendo this week as a fleet of liners discharged more than 3,000 passengers in Havana in the third big influx of the winter.

The event struck a new note of gaiety in the hotels, cafes and beaches as well as the Havana American Jock Club, where some 10,000 Americans circulate in a merry pursuit of happiness. Among them are scores of notables in all walks of life whose names have been generously sprinkled through the social activities in this capital.

For the second time in a fortnight, Cuba is looking forward to the arrival of members of England's royal family. Lady Louise Mountbatten, cousin of the Prince of Wales, accompanied by Lord Mountbatten and Lady Brecknock, is expected here tomorrow on the Cunard liner, Samaria, and will spend an indefinite vacation at the new National Hotel.

Prominent, too, in Havana's activities was the party which arrived here on the yacht, "Nourmahal," of Mr. Vincent Astor. It included Mr. Astor, Mr. Rhinelander Stewart, Mr. Johnston L. Redmond and Mr. George A. Cormack. The "Nourmahal" is making a fishing cruise in Cuban waters and paused at Havana for several days.

Other prominent visitors, well known in metropolitan society, were those in the party of Mr. and Mrs. Irene Du Pont of Wilmington, Del., who spent a short stay in Havana before proceeding to Varadero, seat of the Du Pont shore residence on the north coast of Cuba. These guests were Miss Eleanor Du Pont, Miss Mariana Du Pont, Miss Jeanne Sargeant, Miss Virginia Chewning, H. Page Beers, Mr. John T. Burwett, Mr. W. W. Laird, Mr. P. S. Du Pont, Rebe Furst, Mr. Irene Du Pont, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Fuller.

The stage and screen have been represented in Havana this week by arrival of lovely Jean Ackerman, who recently appeared in the Ziegfeld production of "Smiles," and Tom Mix, screenom's leading western character and a veteran of filmland.

Both have been consistent attendants at the Jockey Club, the beach and the cocktail dances at the ever popular Hotel Sevilla Biltmore patio.

During the latter part of the week hundreds of Masons in Havana welcomed Imperial Potentiate Esten A. Fletcher of the Shrine, who, with a large party of fellow-lodge officials arrived for a week's visit. The party was feted by high government officials and many prominent Shriners in Cuba, and also was received by President Machado.

"Paris is becoming worried about Havana" is the news brought by Edwin C. Hill, special writer for the New York Sun, who with Mrs. Hill arrived Tuesday morning on the Panama Pacific liner, Pennsylvania, and is stopping at the Hotel National for two or three weeks.

"I was talking with Hills, managing director of the New York Herald of Paris, just before leaving New York, and mentioned to him that I was coming to that 'Paris of the Western World,' Havana," Mr. Hill said Tuesday at the Hotel National, "and he told me that Paris is looking with fearing eyes toward Havana, the resort which is taking away so many of her own prospective visitors and is becoming more and more worried about Havana's growth and attractions."

Although Mr. Hill says that he did not come to Havana to work, he is already growing enthusiastic over articles which he expects to write on the Havana of today. "I have not visited the city in eight years and the changes here are amazing," he said. "Although I have not been around the city much as yet, it is obvious from the harbor that the city has grown and developed along magnificent lines. Among the most noticeable new features are the Hotel National, which shows up in rather a splendid way from the harbor entrance, and the Capitolio, a magnificent building, and the new Malecon. This has been changed and broadened since I was here before and is far more beautiful."

"I have a strong conviction also that our New York stories of disturbances in Cuba have been greatly exaggerated and I intend to write some stories depicting Havana as she really is, telling of the true conditions here. I believe that an authentic depiction of the tranquility here will have a beneficent effect upon tourist travel this way."

The throng of guests at the Hotel National increased materially Tuesday as steamers from many ports brought visitors to Havana. Among the new arrivals at the National were Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Beal, New York City; Phyllis Beverly, Boston; Louise K. Maloney, Brookline, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Hauptert, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Marie E. O'Neil, Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. L. PALM BEACH PLAYHOUSE

HALF-WAY through their first season and with five excellent productions to their credit, the Palm Beach Playhouse celebrates, as one might say, with their first brand new play. Tonight, the acting company will present "Goose," a comedy by Malcolm Ross, written especially for the Russian actress, Mme. Maria Ouspenskaya, whose first appearance at the playhouse as the maid in "The Romantic Young Lady" endeared her to the Palm Beach audience.

The new play is a comedy which verges on farce and is exciting, humorous, satirical, full of action. It takes place on a small steamer on the China Sea. The stage setting is quite elaborate, showing two decks of the vessel, amidships, looking across from rail to rail. The passengers are a group of American tourists and not one familiar type is missing. There is the middle-aged New England spinster with her niece, the American business man, the archeologist, the lady tourist in her 'teens, the domineering wife, the submerged husband, the irascible old gentleman, the tipling captain, the Chinese sailors and finally, Maruchka, the Russian woman who does not speak English, written for Mme. Ouspenskaya, and delineated by her in Russian and pantomime with the humor and understanding that one has come to expect from this remarkable actress.

Maria Ouspenskaya is one of the members of the original Moscow Art Theatre who visited this country in 1923. When they returned to Russia, she remained, became an American citizen and a factor in character work on the American stage. She has played over 150 roles, creating many. Her work has ranged from comedy and grotesque to tragedy and drama, and she likes all of them. In "The Witch," from the Norwegian, she played a very tragic part; in "The Cricket on the Hearth," produced in Moscow, she played grotesque "Tilly Slowboy" more than 400 times. Afterwards the play was produced in London. She never has and never will, she declares, play a straight part. All must have some kind of extreme, and all the elements which she demands are combined in the part of Maruchka, in "Goose," which she will play for the first time tonight.

Maruchka is a human part that you will love," said Madame in her precise English, and a promise of this sort from an actress of her potentialities means that a rare experience is in store for her audience at the premiere of "Goose," the opportunity to see the creation of a character that may take its place in the annals of the theatre. There is a vitality, an electrical quality in this little Russian that springs partly from perfection of technique and partly from personality. The premiere is awaited with great interest both here and in New York.

The author of "Goose," Malcolm Ross, is editor of "The Sportsman," author of a novel, "Deep Enough," and of many short stories appearing in Scribner's and other magazines. His wife, Virginia Peterson, daughter of Dr. Frederick Peterson, eminent neurologist, is also a writer and a literary critic on the New York Herald-Tribune. Mr. Ross came down from New York several days ago to attend the rehearsals and the premiere of his play, which will be directed by Mr. Leighton Rollins, managing director of the Palm Beach Playhouse. The play has been released to the Playhouse through the office of Elisabeth Marbury as a tryout for a New York production, which is in tune with the policy of the Playhouse to present the best in drama, old and new.

Mr. Rollins is well known for his connection with the Surry Players, one of the outstanding repertory theatrical organizations of the country. Through the efforts of Mr. Rollins and his group, the Surry Playhouse stands for progression and integrity, the development of new ideas and the growth of the actors and actresses both individually and as a group. Consequently the subscribers have an intense interest in comparing the plays each to each, in noting the work of each player in various plays and observing them broaden and grow in technique or crystallize into a mould determined by their individual metal. A similar idea and purpose informs the Palm Beach Playhouse, of which Miss Muriel McCormick is president. Several of the players who compose the acting company here are also members of the Surry group.

Three people have directed the five preceding plays in the Playhouse repertory this season. Mr. Rollins has directed "Outward Bound," by Sutton Vane, and "The Romantic Young Lady," by G. Martinez Sierra. Mr. Ralph Macbane, associate director, has directed "Mr. Pim Passes By," by A. A. Milne, and "The Torch Bearers," by George Kelly. The play of last week, Noel Coward's amusing comedy, "Hay Fever," was directed by Mr. Daniel Reed, who has recently joined the staff as associate director. Mr. Reed has founded and maintained several theatres and has directed with notable success. He prepared "Scarlet Sister Mary," the Pulitzer prize novel, by Julia Peterkin, for Miss Barrymore's production.

Through the efforts of Miss Muriel McCormick, the Palm Beach Playhouse, long a vision in her brain, has become a reality. She has worked with untiring patience and energy to give the resort a repertory theatre which might be depended upon to offer plays of merit, well directed and well acted. The plays given at the Playhouse so far have spoken for themselves. Over 2,200 subscribers' seats have been sold for the first season and the general public has been well represented. The policy of price reduction met with a gratifying response and the Playhouse has been packed, especially at the popular price Saturday performances.

The members of the acting company of the Playhouse are earnest, hard-working professionals who are giving their best to their work and yet managing to have a surprisingly good time along with it, proving the old adage about "All work and no play, etc." The schedule of the Playhouse provides for rehearsals of another play while one is in production, a strain on every fibre of stamina an actor possesses. Many of them spend the morning hours on the beach, storing up sunshine and energy to radiate later in their several roles. The public has grown to know their individual work and to take a personal interest in the various parts in which each is cast, which is certain earnest of the place which the Playhouse is beginning to create for itself in the community.

Among those who have appeared in the Playhouse productions are Miss Aleta Freel, Miss Elizabeth Fenner, Miss Madeleine King, Miss Agnes Elliot Scott, Mme. Marie Ouspenskaya, Miss Dorothy Tennant, Miss Mollie Hicks, Miss Marguerite Hall Parker, Mr. Shepperd Strudwick, Mr. Arthur Gould-Porter, Mr. Harry Green, Mr. Ernest Woodward, Mr. George Cotton, Mr. Chase Adams and Mr. Daniel Reed.

The staff of the Playhouse, in addition to its president, Miss Muriel McCormick, includes Mr. Leighton Rollins, managing director; Mr. Daniel Reed, associate director; Mr. Ralph Macbane, associate director; Mr. George Birse, general manager; Miss Sara Enright, executive secretary and local press representative; Mr. W. H. Rogers, stage and technical manager; Miss Mary E. Bunker, box office treasurer. Oliver Saylor, Inc., of New York is publicity representative at large.

The Palm Beach Playhouse is pledged to the ensemble spirit; time, patience and understanding from both within and without are necessary to the realization of this ideal. No community is complete without just such a clearing house for emotions and ideas as the Playhouse, which in time should take its place as a most valued factor in the cultural life of the resort.

given to topping at times, use the Kro-Flite, the most durable ball in the world. 75 cents each.

Spalding's Field Advisory Committee—a group of leading players who carry out Spalding's policy of testing in actual play as well as in

-one knows them by their HABITAT

Those persons who always do things well . . . one knows them by their habitat » » They have a definite capacity for living amid the niceties of life without sacrificing any of the material comforts . . . and that at moderate cost.

They may be found swimming on the Côte d'Azur . . . applauding Toscanini at Baireuth . . . making a pilgrimage to Oberammergau » » At home—in the Barbizon-Plaza library reading Aldous Huxley . . . in the Barbizon Concert Hall listening to Homer, Gabrilowitsch or Gieseking . . . viewing the worth-while in art, in the Barbizon Petit Palais des Beaux Arts located on the mezzanine or, dancing in Les Charmettes—to the muted modern rhythms of Nelson's Orchestra during dinner and supper » » This is the spirit of Barbizon-Plaza.

Of course the building has radio in every room and many other conveniences, is located within a block of Fifth Avenue and one block from Fifty-seventh Street, and is the center of New York's Art and Music Life and is convenient to theatres and shops.

THE CONTINENTAL BREAKFAST is placed in a special recess in your door—in sealed container that keeps everything piping hot. No waiter to interrupt in the midst of a shave or shower. No charge. No tip. No delay. Pick it up when you are ready.

PEACEFUL, SUNNY SECLUSION IN THE HEART OF NEW YORK

FOR the first time city residences completely surrounded by gorgeous gardens, grassy terraces, river frontage and quiet streets, with sunshine and air forever assured on every side—a private yacht landing for the convenience and pleasure of those who make their home here.

And the cost is less than similarly fine apartments in hackneyed uninteresting neighborhoods—$37,000—$275,000.
